GOP 'Party Of Future'-Ike

Nixon Lauds Eisenhower Leadership

Running Mate Says President Living "Symbol Of Peace"

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 23 (AP)—Vice President Nixon accepted the Republicans' nomination for a second term tonight, declaring he was "honored and privileged" to share with the delegates "one of the great moments in history."

Nixon said the actions of this convention "will leave an indelible mark" on the history of this country and of all mankind.

Recalling his trips to 32 countries on behalf of President Eisenhower, Nixon said Eisenhower is regarded throughout the free world as a living symbol of peace.

Speaking from a manuscript to which he put the finishing touches just before leaving his hotel for this mammoth cow barn, Nixon said "the nation is most fortunate that we shall have" Eisenhower's wise and enlightened leadership for four more years.

"And that we shall have," he added with emphasis. Describing Eisenhower's presidency as a great one, Nixon said:

"I accept the nomination in that spirit." He added a pledge that he would carry the message of the Eisenhower administration "to every corner of this land."

Sees GOP Congress

To the extent that physical limitation of time and space will permit, Nixon said, "I will carry this message throughout the land" to assure "a greater victory in 1956."

Another Nixon prediction: A Republican Congress.

What is the greatness and nobility of America? Nixon asked.

Freedom, he said, that goes all the way back to Valley Forge.

It also goes back, Nixon continued, to the Bill of Rights.

That same love of freedom, he said, allows us to sacrifice, so that communism will not triumph.

Nixon said the religious theme also runs through America. "We do not idly say," Nixon said, "in God we trust."

Here Nixon turned to what he called the sense of vision. It's this sense of vision, he said, that attracts the American people to President Eisenhower.

"We are a people who challenge the unknown," Nixon said, "and often achieve what seems to be impossible."

Americans, he went on, are never content with achievements of the past: "Good enough is not good enough for us."

So, he said, "standing pat" is not enough — Eisenhower needs another four years to develop and strengthen the accomplishments already on record.

Business-Labor Partnership

Nixon said the administration rests on a foundation of prosperity, security and "imaginative" efforts toward world peace.

It stands, too, he said, for unity and not for encouragement of one bloc to fight another.

"We believe in human welfare," he said, "but not in the welfare state."

Nixon said the Eisenhower administration believes business should be a partner with labor, and government should encourage business, but not dictate the policy it should follow.

In a nutshell, he said, individual Americans should be free.

Nixon said not all Americans have shared equally in the common prosperity.

He suggested the federal government should assist states and communities which needed help to attract industries.

Nixon said Republicans "eagerly accept the responsibility and the opportunity" to spread prosperity, even though, as he said, the level of prosperity already is the highest in the country.

Cabbie Seized As Weinberger Baby Kidnaper

"PEACHES" DIES—Mrs. Ralph Willson (above), better known as "Peaches" Browning, died yesterday in a New York hospital where she was taken last Saturday after falling in the bathroom of her apartment. She hit the headlines in the 1920's as the bride of millionaire Edward "Daddy" Browning. (Story at bottom of page) (AP Photofax)

Quoted As Saying He Killed Infant And Buried Body

MINEOLA, N.Y., Aug. 23 (AP)—A 31-year-old taxi cab driver was arrested today as the kidnaper of little Peter Weinberger. Police quoted him as saying he killed the child and buried the body a day after he seized him.

Police headquarters said the grave has been located on Manetta Hill Road in nearby Plainview, N.Y.

A police guard was thrown about the site. The grave was not disturbed by the police lest clues be obliterated. It was planned to open it tomorrow.

Under arrest was Angelo J. Lamarca, the father of two small children of his own.

He was routed out of bed at his Plainview home at 2:30 a.m. EDT today when a police officer and an FBI man came to check on the similarity of his handwriting to that on the ransom note.

Police headquarters quoted him as admitting the kidnaping after considerable questioning. He was taken to FBI headquarters in New York today and tonight was returned to Nassau County headquarters here.

He told officers he did not know the Weinberger family.

Lamarca is a stocky man of medium height, with black hair and a small moustache. He is married and has two children of his own, 8 and 10 years old. The FBI said he has a record as a bootlegger.

Police said they were led to him by a check of handwriting based on the ransom note left by the kidnaper.

The note was left near Peter's empty carriage after he was snatched July 4 from the patio of his parents' brick ranch home. It demanded $2,000.

Police have revealed there was a tell-tale quirk in the handwriting of the note. They said it figured in Lamarca's arrest.

The FBI director said the newspaper Newsday at Garden City, N.Y., learned of an important development in the case last night. He said they agreed to withhold publication of the information at the urging of the FBI.

The Weinberger baby was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Weinberger. The 46-year-old father is a well-to-do executive of a wholesale drug firm.

Hall, Reelected GOP Head, Sees Tough Campaign

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23 (AP)—Unanimously reelected party chairman, Leonard W. Hall of New York told the Republican National Committee today to expect "the toughest" campaign in the party's history.

Hall was continued in office by the newly organized committee at its first meeting since the GOP National Convention formally elected it yesterday.

His election followed a report from a special committee that President Eisenhower wanted Hall to remain as national chairman. The special committee conferred briefly with the President during a recess.

Impressed By Ike's Looks

Besides reporting the President's wishes in the matter of a chairman, the special committee said it was impressed "by the wonderful way" the President looked and the return of "the old zip."

Hall became party chairman April 10,1953.

In a pep talk to the committee, he commended the national committee staff and urged the new committee members to get out a record vote.

"We are going to win this election if each one goes back to his respective state" and sees that everyone registers and votes, Hall said.

Miss Adkins Reappointed

Unanimously elected vice-chairmen were Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio, H. Meade Alcorn, Jr., of Connecticut, Mrs. Eleanor S. Todd of New Jersey and Mrs. Kathryn K. Meloney of Wyoming. Retiring vice-chairmen are Mrs. Consuelo Northrop Bailey of Vermont, Walter S. Hallanan of West Virginia, Mrs. Edna B. Donald of Nebraska and Harlan I. Peyton of Washington.

Hall designated Peyton assistant campaign manager and reappointed Miss Bertha S. Adkins of Maryland as assistant to the chairman.

West To Take Its Suez Plan To Egyptians

Mission Will Speed To Cairo; Talks End In East-West Split

LONDON, Aug. 23 (AP) — The United States and 17 other nations agreed today to speed five diplomats to Cairo to try bringing Egypt into a world system insuring international access to the Suez Canal.

But as a fateful 22-nation conference on the future of the 103-mile world trade lifeline ended, the Soviet Union and India, backed by two other nations, produced a rival plan that would leave final say on operation and control wholly in Egyptian hands.

The Soviet Union warned that any attempt to enforce the 18-nation proposal might touch off a major war. Joined by India, Ceylon and Indonesia—representatives of the neutralist feelings of Asia—the Russians predicted the majority proposal was bound to be rejected by Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Nasser Seized Canal

Nasser touched off the Suez crisis July 26 by decreeing seizure and nationalization of the internationally owned and operated Suez Canal Co.

These were the rival plans:

1. Eighteen nations, among them the United States, Britain and France, want the canal controlled by an international authority including Egypt as an equal member. The authority would be associated with the United Nations. It would pay due regard to Egypt's sovereign rights while ensuring "a definite system designed to guarantee at all times, and for all powers, the free use of the Suez maritime Canal."

Soviet-Indian Plan

2. The four dissenters—the Soviet Union, Ceylon, Indonesia and India—proposed an international canal authority charged only with "advisory, consultative and liaison functions." Under this plan, final say on running the canal would be left to Egypt's government.

After eight days of feverish parleying inside and outside the conference room in Lancaster House, the 22 nations' foreign ministers could agree only on one point. This was a 17-word communique which said:

"The conference asks its chairman to communicate the full record of its proceedings to the Egyptian government."

15 Vehicles Pile Up In Dense Fog

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 23 (AP)—Fifteen cars, trucks and buses cracked up across the six-lane New Jersey Turnpike today in a drifting fog. One man was killed and 30 others injured.

The series of crashes were sparked by the collision of a pickup truck and station wagon on the northbound section of the superhighway after a river fog blocked visibility on the highway near the Raritan River Bridge.

The driver of the pickup truck was fatally injured. He was William Parker, 38, of Washington, D. C.

Within seconds of the initial smashup, a dozen vechicles —two buses, three trailer trucks, five cars and two pickup trucks—had rammed or sideswiped each other. Most of the injured were passengers aboard a Trailways bus. Only 10 persons were detained at hospitals.

At the same time, just across the 15-foot safety isle, a tractor trailer smacked the rears of a passenger car and oil truck which had slowed down in the murky fog on the southbound lanes.

Delegate Offers To Wager $5,000 On Health Of Ike

MILAN, Tenn., Aug. 23 (AP)—A Tennessee delegate to the GOP convention offers to bet $5,000 that President Eisenhower, if re-elected, will live out his four-year term.

"Put up or shut up," says Guy Harwood, a wealthy real estate dealer now attending the Republican convention in San Francisco.

He deposited the money in the Peoples-Farmers Bank here and got a notarized document stating that the money was in the bank to back his opinion of Eisenhower's health against any bettor anywhere.

He figures the odds at even money. Anyone taking the bet must put up $5,000, too. The winner collects the $10,000 plus any accumulated interest.

Peaches Browning, Tabloid Heroine Of '20s, Dies At 46

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (INS) — Peaches Browning, perhaps the best known tabloid heroine of the 1920's, died today at age 46.

"Peaches," as she was known to headline writers and millions of newspaper readers from coast to coast, died young—just as she started to live young.

She was just 15 when she first hit the headlines, as the adored of Edward "Daddy" Browning, wealthy real estate operator and playboy who was in his 50's.

Peaches died quietly today in New York hospital. She was taken there last Saturday after falling in the bathroom of her apartment. She was divorced from her fourth husband, Ralph N. Wilson, a short time after their marriage in 1946.

Peaches was an obscure, pretty little girl named Frances Heenan when she went tripping to a sorority party and met her aging playboy "Dream Prince" Daddy Browning. She called him "Bunny," and they were married.

But soon she had started a separation suit. Browning charged in answer that she and her mother had set their caps for him, and his money, all along.

The eccentric millionaire and his young estranged bride battled through the courts over his wealth, estimated between six and ten million dollars

Miles of black headlines and millions of words made Peaches famous. She took to vaudeville and stage to make about $125,000. Browning died bankrupt in 1934. According to the still-fulsome press reports Peaches wound up with about $170,000.

Farley Undergoes Operation On Eye

Farley, former postmaster general and long-time power in Democratic circles, was hit on the forehead and chin by a card thrown in the burst of enthusiasm Thursday night when Adlai Stevenson was nominated as presidential candidate.

EOKA Rejects British Terms For Surrender

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Aug. 23 (AP)—EOKA rebels rejected British surrender terms today and declared they will scrap the truce if Britain does not start negotiations on the future of Cyprus by midnight next Monday.

The reply to British Gov. Sir John Harding was contained in leaflets signed "Dighenis the Leader." It said: "As the military leader of the fighting Cypriot people, to the demand for surrender I answer no—come and get us."

Leaflets Bring Cheers

The leaflets were showered by the hundreds on Nicosia's Ledra Street—often called the "Murder Mile" because of the number of shootings there in the last 16½ months of violence. Greek Cypriots who want to end British rule and unite Cyprus with Greece cheered as they read the rejection.

Harding announced last night EOKA members who surrendered during the next three weeks would be given a choice of free passage to Greece without punishment or remaining in Cyprus. If they stayed, he said, they would face trial if involved in the wounding or slaying of anyone. They would not be charged if involved in any other offense.

An official British spokesman said the government "stands firm by their offer, as already announced."

Offer To Remain Open

"The surrender offer will remain open for three weeks from midnight last nightt," he continued. "The government hopes that many EOKA members will disregard this leaflet and take advantage of the generous terms now offered to extricate themselves from their present position. If by 'resumption of liberty of action' the EOKA leader means restarting of violence and murder, public opinion in Cyprus and throughout the world will bitterly condemn him. Violence can only hinder the possibilities of a peaceful settlement and the Cyprus people are sick of futile bloodshed."

Britain's Aid Asked In Search For Info On Navy Plane Fate

China Says "Chiang" Aircraft Attacked

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The United States today enlisted the aid of the British government in its far-ranging search for information on the fate of a Navy patrol plane presumed shot down after being attacked off the Red China coast.

The State Department disclosed it has asked Britain to find out whether Peiping has any information on the plane and its 16 crewmen—objects of an intensive air-sea hunt in the waters north of Formosa.

The United States doesn't recognize the Red China government and maintains no formal diplomatic relations with it.

"Chiang" Plane Damaged

Even as the State Department made this new move, Red China volunteered some information. A Peiping broadcast said one of its planes damaged a "Chiang Kai-shek" aircraft over islands southeast of Shanghai yesterday.

This was the general area in which the U. S. plane, a four-engine P4M1 Mercator, disappeared after radioing that it was "under attack by aircraft."

Beyond referring to Chiang, the leader of the Chinese Nationalists, the broadcast did not identify the plane it claimed had intruded over its territory.

A Navy announcement said the U. S. plane was over international waters 32 miles off Red China's shore and 160 miles north of Formosa.

Sen. Mansfield Aroused

As the State Department moved to approach Peiping through the British, sterner action was demanded by Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"Diplomatic action should be taken at once to protest the shooting down of this plane," Mansfield said in a telegram to Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr.

The Navy announced here that a 17-ship fleet, including three aircraft carriers, is carrying on the search for the missing plane, which sent its last radio message at 1:25 a.m., local time, Thursday —11:25 a.m. EST Wednesday.

Dag Calls Off Trip

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Aug. 23 (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold said today he has canceled a proposed trip to Latin America. He told a news conference he could not leave the U.N. now because of a variety of problems throughout the world. He declined to cite any one problem—such as the Suez crisis—as the reason for his action.

Gls Convicted On Rape Charge

WUERZBURG, Germany, Aug. 23 (AP)—A U. S. court-martial today convicted seven American Negro soldiers of raping a 15-year-old German schoolgirl last July 9 in the woods of nearby Bamberg.

The nine-officer board deliberated 2½ hours.

After pronouncing the defendants guilty, the court adjourned until tomorrow when the sentences are expected.

The trial, which started Aug. 7, was one of the most publicized courts-martial in West Germany since World War II.

The soldiers' attack on the girl set off a nationwide protest against what the Germans called a soldier crime wave. Even the trial came under fire with the public complaining against the way it was conducted.

The blonde victim's name has been withheld because of her age.

The convicted soldiers are Pvt. Melvin F. Carter, 24, of Harrisonburg, Va.; Pvt. Clifton Franks, 21, of Omaha, Neb.; Pfc. Edward L. Brown, 18, of Norwich, Conn.; Pvt. James Gordon, 23, of Alachua Fla.; Pfc. Raymond L. Kasey, 18, of Roanoke, Va.; Pfc. James E. Wilson Jr., 18, of Wilmington, Del.; and Pfc. Fred R. Chandler, 21, of Kansas City, Mo.

"Joe Smith" Not Whipped Yet; "Boom" Launched By New York Restaurateur

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)— Joe Smith, the political man of the hour for a minute or two last night before losing the Republican vice-presidential nomination, isn't whipped yet.

He staged a comeback today—riding the crest of possibly the smallest boom in political history. Support was reported mounting in "an increasing trickle."

Joe, the mythical creation of a Nebraska GOP convention delegate, Terry Carpenter, got one temporary grass-roots convention vote—Carpenter's—before he was uprooted.

He did, however, get about a million laughs.

From his penthouse office atop a 12-story building on 42nd Street, Cobb announced by way of his press agent that he's going to conduct a nationwide write-in vote campaign for Joe.

It will be complete with pretty girls buttonholing voters, campaign buttons and demands for speaking time on the radio-TV networks.

The Joe Smith platform, said Cobb, will be:

"The need for civic alertness to compel wide open conventions as opposed to smoke-filled rooms in selecting our candidates for local and state offices as well as for president and vice president."

Cobb, 46, a Kentucky variety of colonel and a Republican, was an admirer of Harold Stassen's campaign to "dump" Vice President Nixon from the GOP ticket but he didn't lend any muscle to the project.

However, he's turning on full steam behind good ol' Joe.

Issuing statements like a politician running for 10 offices at the same time, Cobb announced formation of "The National Citizens Committee for a Million Write-in Votes for Joe Smith for Vice President."

Soon after this word got around, Cobb announced that he had already bagged a prominent citizen to serve as honorary chairman—Carpenter.

Cobb's press agent said the campaign had hardly got going before citizens all over were wiring in offers of aid. An early estimate pegged the total at 18, including a man in Oregon. As the day wore on, the figure was upped to "many."

Prosperity, World Peace Major Goals

President Pledges His "Best Efforts" For Party Victory

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 23 (AP)—President Eisenhower, accepting the Republican presidential nomination, called his party tonight to incessant work for "a new era of good life, good will and good hope for all men."

Given a tremendous ovation, Eisenhower told the GOP partisans he took "humbly but confidently" their second-term nomination, and promised:

"I pledge you my best efforts to bring victory to our cause next November."

Eisenhower's entry on the platform at 6:06 p.m., PDT, set off a wild demonstration during which hundreds of balloons were released. Mrs. Eisenhower was at his side, carrying a big bouquet of red roses. Their son, Maj. John Eisenhower, and his wife were with them.

It was 18 minutes later before the President, after a brief introduction by Chairman Joe Martin, swung into his address. Eisenhower spoke extemporaneously for a moment before launching into his prepared speech.

Reception "Touches Hearts"

First, he expressed thanks for the reception given him and Mrs. Eisenhower.

"You have no idea how this touches our hearts," he said.

"Thank you very much."

Then he paid a brief tribute to his running mate, Vice President Nixon. He said he was sure that whatever dedication and loyalty to country could accomplish, Nixon would do.

Eisenhower termed the Republican party "the party of the future" and pledged to go on working to insure prosperity at home and peace in the world. He called that kind of era entirely possible.

But he added:

"It will not be obtained by revolution. It will not be obtained by the sordid politics of pitting group against group.

"It will be brought about by the ambitions and judgments and inspirations and the daring of 168 million free Americans working together and with friends abroad toward a common ideal in a peaceful world."

Party Goals Blueprinted

Eisenhower's address, carried nationwide on television and radio, blueprinted party goals that the Republicans plan to highlight in the campaign against the Democratic ticket of Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver.

Eisenhower said he was accepting nomination for a second term—"humbly but confidently" — in firm faith and conviction that Republican purposes are in league with the kind of future he envisions for America.

"I pledge you my best efforts to bring victory to our cause next November," he said.

The President underscored the administration's record in the international field, in national security measures, and with respect to the domestic economy.

He said, "A party of the future must be completely dedicated to peace, as indeed must all Americans. For without peace there is no future."

On national security, Eisenhower put it this way:

"During the past few years, our military strength has been constantly augmented, soberly and intelligently. Our country has never before in peace time been so well prepared militarily. So long as the world situation requires, our security must be vigorously sustained."

As for the economic future, he said:

"Our economic power, as everyone knows, is displaying a capacity for growth which is both rapid and sound even while supporting record military budgets. We must keep it growing."

Eisenhower set forth five reasons why he said the Republican party is the party of the future

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (INS) — Peaches Browning, perhaps the best known tabloid heroine of the 1920's, died today at age 46.

"Peaches," as she was known to headline writers and millions of newspaper readers from coast to coast, died young—just as she started to live young.

She was just 15 when she first hit the headlines, as the adored of Edward "Daddy" Browning, wealthy real estate operator and playboy who was in his 50's.

Peaches died quietly today in New York hospital. She was taken there last Saturday after falling in the bathroom of her apartment. She was divorced from her fourth husband, Ralph N. Wilson, a short time after their marriage in 1946.

Peaches was an obscure, pretty little girl named Frances Heenan when she went tripping to a sorority party and met her aging playboy "Dream Prince" Daddy Browning. She called him "Bunny," and they were married.

But soon she had started a separation suit. Browning charged in answer that she and her mother had set their caps for him, and his money, all along.

The eccentric millionaire and his young estranged bride battled through the courts over his wealth, estimated between six and ten million dollars

Miles of black headlines and millions of words made Peaches famous. She took to vaudeville and stage to make about $125,000. Browning died bankrupt in 1934. According to the still-fulsome press reports Peaches wound up with about $170,000.

West To Take Its Suez Plan To Egyptians

Mission Will Speed To Cairo; Talks End In East-West Split

LONDON, Aug. 23 (AP) — The United States and 17 other nations agreed today to speed five diplomats to Cairo to try bringing Egypt into a world system insuring international access to the Suez Canal.

But as a fateful 22-nation conference on the future of the 103-mile world trade lifeline ended, the Soviet Union and India, backed by two other nations, produced a rival plan that would leave final say on operation and control wholly in Egyptian hands.

The Soviet Union warned that any attempt to enforce the 18-nation proposal might touch off a major war. Joined by India, Ceylon and Indonesia—representatives of the neutralist feelings of Asia—the Russians predicted the majority proposal was bound to be rejected by Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Nasser Seized Canal

Nasser touched off the Suez crisis July 26 by decreeing seizure and nationalization of the internationally owned and operated Suez Canal Co.

These were the rival plans:

1. Eighteen nations, among them the United States, Britain and France, want the canal controlled by an international authority including Egypt as an equal member. The authority would be associated with the United Nations. It would pay due regard to Egypt's sovereign rights while ensuring "a definite system designed to guarantee at all times, and for all powers, the free use of the Suez maritime Canal."

Soviet-Indian Plan

2. The four dissenters—the Soviet Union, Ceylon, Indonesia and India—proposed an international canal authority charged only with "advisory, consultative and liaison functions." Under this plan, final say on running the canal would be left to Egypt's government.

After eight days of feverish parleying inside and outside the conference room in Lancaster House, the 22 nations' foreign ministers could agree only on one point. This was a 17-word communique which said:

"The conference asks its chairman to communicate the full record of its proceedings to the Egyptian government."

15 Vehicles Pile Up In Dense Fog

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 23 (AP)—Fifteen cars, trucks and buses cracked up across the six-lane New Jersey Turnpike today in a drifting fog. One man was killed and 30 others injured.

The series of crashes were sparked by the collision of a pick-up truck and station wagon on the northbound section of the superhighway after a river fog blocked visibility on the highway near the Raritan River Bridge.

The driver of the pickup truck was fatally injured. He was William Parker, 38, of Washington, D. C.

Within seconds of the initial smashup, a dozen vechicles —two buses, three trailer trucks, five cars and two pickup trucks—had rammed or sideswiped each other. Most of the injured were passengers aboard a Trailways bus. Only 10 persons were detained at hospitals.

At the same time, just across the 15-foot safety isle, a tractor trailer smacked the rears of a passenger car and oil truck which had slowed down in the murky fog on the southbound lanes.

Farley Undergoes Operation On Eye

Farley, former postmaster general and long-time power in Democratic circles, was hit on the forehead and chin by a card thrown in the burst of enthusiasm Thursday night when Adlai Stevenson was nominated as presidential candidate.

EOKA Rejects British Terms For Surrender

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Aug. 23 (AP)—EOKA rebels rejected British surrender terms today and declared they will scrap the truce if Britain does not start negotiations on the future of Cyprus by midnight next Monday.

The reply to British Gov. Sir John Harding was contained in leaflets signed "Dighenis the Leader." It said: "As the military leader of the fighting Cypriot people, to the demand for surrender I answer no—come and get us."

Leaflets Bring Cheers

The leaflets were showered by the hundreds on Nicosia's Ledra Street—often called the "Murder Mile" because of the number of shootings there in the last 16½ months of violence. Greek Cypriots who want to end British rule and unite Cyprus with Greece cheered as they read the rejection.

Harding announced last night EOKA members who surrendered during the next three weeks would be given a choice of free passage to Greece without punishment or remaining in Cyprus. If they stayed, he said, they would face trial if involved in the wounding or slaying of anyone. They would not be charged if involved in any other offense.

An official British spokesman said the government "stands firm by their offer, as already announced."

Offer To Remain Open

"The surrender offer will remain open for three weeks from midnight last nightt," he continued. "The government hopes that many EOKA members will disregard this leaflet and take advantage of the generous terms now offered to extricate themselves from their present position. If by 'resumption of liberty of action' the EOKA leader means restarting of violence and murder, public opinion in Cyprus and throughout the world will bitterly condemn him. Violence can only hinder the possibilities of a peaceful settlement and the Cyprus people are sick of futile bloodshed."

Britain's Aid Asked In Search For Info On Navy Plane Fate

China Says "Chiang" Aircraft Attacked

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The United States today enlisted the aid of the British government in its far-ranging search for information on the fate of a Navy patrol plane presumed shot down after being attacked off the Red China coast.

The State Department disclosed it has asked Britain to find out whether Peiping has any information on the plane and its 16 crewmen—objects of an intensive air-sea hunt in the waters north of Formosa.

The United States doesn't recognize the Red China government and maintains no formal diplomatic relations with it.

"Chiang" Plane Damaged

Even as the State Department made this new move, Red China volunteered some information. A Peiping broadcast said one of its planes damaged a "Chiang Kai-shek" aircraft over islands southeast of Shanghai yesterday.

This was the general area in which the U. S. plane, a four-engine P4M1 Mercator, disappeared after radioing that it was "under attack by aircraft."

Beyond referring to Chiang, the leader of the Chinese Nationalists, the broadcast did not identify the plane it claimed had intruded over its territory.

A Navy announcement said the U. S. plane was over international waters 32 miles off Red China's shore and 160 miles north of Formosa.

Sen. Mansfield Aroused

As the State Department moved to approach Peiping through the British, sterner action was demanded by Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"Diplomatic action should be taken at once to protest the shooting down of this plane," Mansfield said in a telegram to Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr.

The Navy announced here that a 17-ship fleet, including three aircraft carriers, is carrying on the search for the missing plane, which sent its last radio message at 1:25 a.m., local time, Thursday —11:25 a.m. EST Wednesday.

Dag Calls Off Trip

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Aug. 23 (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold said today he has canceled a proposed trip to Latin America. He told a news conference he could not leave the U.N. now because of a variety of problems throughout the world. He declined to cite any one problem—such as the Suez crisis—as the reason for his action.

GIs Convicted On Rape Charge

WUERZBURG, Germany, Aug. 23 (AP)—A U. S. court-martial today convicted seven American Negro soldiers of raping a 15-year-old German schoolgirl last July 9 in the woods of nearby Bamberg.

The nine-officer board deliberated 2½ hours.

After pronouncing the defendants guilty, the court adjourned until tomorrow when the sentences are expected.

The trial, which started Aug. 7, was one of the most publicized courts-martial in West Germany since World War II.

The soldiers' attack on the girl set off a nationwide protest against what the Germans called a soldier crime wave. Even the trial came under fire with the public complaining against the way it was conducted.

The convicted soldiers are Pvt. Melvin F. Carter, 24, of Harrisonburg, Va.; Pvt. Clifton Franks, 21, of Omaha, Neb.; Pfc. Edward L. Brown, 18, of Norwich, Conn.; Pvt. James Gordon, 23, of Alachua Fla.; Pfc. Raymond L. Kasey, 18, of Roanoke, Va.; Pfc. James E. Wilson Jr., 18, of Wilmington, Del.; and Pfc. Fred R. Chandler, 21, of Kansas City, Mo.

"Joe Smith" Not Whipped Yet; "Boom" Launched By New York Restaurateur

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)— Joe Smith, the political man of the hour for a minute or two last night before losing the Republican vice-presidential nomination, isn't whipped yet.

He staged a comeback today—riding the crest of possibly the smallest boom in political history. Support was reported mounting in "an increasing trickle."

Joe, the mythical creation of a Nebraska GOP convention delegate, Terry Carpenter, got one temporary grass-roots convention vote—Carpenter's—before he was uprooted.

He did, however, get about a million laughs.

From his penthouse office atop a 12-story building on 42nd Street, Cobb announced by way of his press agent that he's going to conduct a nationwide write-in vote campaign for Joe.

It will be complete with pretty girls buttonholing voters, campaign buttons and demands for speaking time on the radio-TV networks.

The Joe Smith platform, said Cobb, will be:

"The need for civic alertness to compel wide open conventions as opposed to smoke-filled rooms in selecting our candidates for local and state offices as well as for president and vice president."

Cobb, 46, a Kentucky variety of colonel and a Republican, was an admirer of Harold Stassen's campaign to "dump" Vice President Nixon from the GOP ticket but he didn't lend any muscle to the project.

However, he's turning on full steam behind good ol' Joe.

Issuing statements like a politician running for 10 offices at the same time, Cobb announced formation of "The National Citizens Committee for a Million Write-in Votes for Joe Smith for Vice President."

Soon after this word got around, Cobb announced that he had already bagged a prominent citizen to serve as honorary chairman—Carpenter.

Cobb's press agent said the campaign had hardly got going before citizens all over were wiring in offers of aid. An early estimate pegged the total at 18, including a man in Oregon. As the day wore on, the figure was upped to "many."

Prosperity, World Peace Major Goals

President Pledges His "Best Efforts" For Party Victory

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 23 (AP)—President Eisenhower, accepting the Republican presidential nomination, called his party tonight to incessant work for "a new era of good life, good will and good hope for all men."

Given a tremendous ovation, Eisenhower told the GOP partisans he took "humbly but confidently" their second-term nomination, and promised:

"I pledge you my best efforts to bring victory to our cause next November."

Eisenhower's entry on the platform at 6:06 p.m., PDT, set off a wild demonstration during which hundreds of balloons were released. Mrs. Eisenhower was at his side, carrying a big bouquet of red roses. Their son, Maj. John Eisenhower, and his wife were with them.

It was 18 minutes later before the President, after a brief introduction by Chairman Joe Martin, swung into his address. Eisenhower spoke extemporaneously for a moment before launching into his prepared speech.

Reception "Touches Hearts"

First, he expressed thanks for the reception given him and Mrs. Eisenhower.

"You have no idea how this touches our hearts," he said.

"Thank you very much."

Then he paid a brief tribute to his running mate, Vice President Nixon. He said he was sure that whatever dedication and loyalty to country could accomplish, Nixon would do.

Eisenhower termed the Republican party "the party of the future" and pledged to go on working to insure prosperity at home and peace in the world. He called that kind of era entirely possible.

But he added:

"It will not be obtained by revolution. It will not be obtained by the sordid politics of pitting group against group.

"It will be brought about by the ambitions and judgments and inspirations and the daring of 168 million free Americans working together and with friends abroad toward a common ideal in a peaceful world."

Party Goals Blueprinted

Eisenhower's address, carried nationwide on television and radio, blueprinted party goals that the Republicans plan to highlight in the campaign against the Democratic ticket of Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver.

Eisenhower said he was accepting nomination for a second term—"humbly but confidently" — in firm faith and conviction that Republican purposes are in league with the kind of future he envisions for America.

"I pledge you my best efforts to bring victory to our cause next November," he said.

The President underscored the administration's record in the international field, in national security measures, and with respect to the domestic economy.

He said, "A party of the future must be completely dedicated to peace, as indeed must all Americans. For without peace there is no future."

On national security, Eisenhower put it this way:

"During the past few years, our military strength has been constantly augmented, soberly and intelligently. Our country has never before in peace time been so well prepared militarily. So long as the world situation requires, our security must be vigorously sustained."

As for the economic future, he said:

"Our economic power, as everyone knows, is displaying a capacity for growth which is both rapid and sound even while supporting record military budgets. We must keep it growing."

Eisenhower set forth five reasons why he said the Republican party is the party of the future

Byrd Feels Tax Cut Chances Imperiled By 'Spending Spree'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP) — Sen. Byrd (D-Va) said today a government "spending spree" in this election year endangers the chances of federal tax reduction.

"The spending spree advocated in the President's budget for fiscal year 1957, which began July 1, was accelerated by Congress," Byrd said in a statement advocating a cutback in expenditures.

He signed the statement as chairman of the tax-raising Senate Finance Committee and of the Senate-House Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures.

Both the Republican and Democratic campaign platforms this year contain planks speaking cautiously of prospects of early tax cuts.

Byrd predicted federal revenues will soar to a peak of 70 billion dollars or more in this fiscal year, but he said the government will be lucky even to keep the budget balanced, let alone cut taxes, "unless the executive authorities sharply curtail probable spending" already authorized by Congress.

Byrd said President Eisenhower submitted budget requests totaling $67,700,000,000 to the last session of Congress, and that Congress raised the figure to $69,600,000,000, including 800 million for the highway program. He predicted it probably would vote more money in supplemental appropriations when it reconvenes in January.

Byrd said this means spending may total 70 billions or more in new funds, plus 75 billions of unexpended balances from appropriations voted in prior years, a total spending volume of about 145 billion.

"If revenue reaches 70 billion, it will mark the all-time peak of tax collections from the American people," the Virginian said.

Reserve Board Discount Rates Are Increased

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board, mindful of mounting inflationary pressures, today boosted its discount rates in four sections of the country. But financial sources said they expected the action to have little effect on the economy.

The board approved raising the rates from 2¾ per cent to 3 per cent in four Federal Reserve Districts—New York, Philadelphia, Richmond, Va., and Chicago.

Eight other districts—two of them already having 3 per cent rates—were not affected. But there were indications their rates also would be boosted soon.

Action Anticipated

Wall Street bankers, brokers and bond dealers said today's action had been widely anticipated and came as no surprise.

Since the discount rate is the amount of interest that federal reserve banks charge on money they lend to member banks for commercial and personal loans, any increase normally leads to a general hike in interest charges.

In this case, however, leading commercial banks apparently anticipated the increase and Tuesday boosted their prime interest rate—that charged to the biggest borrowers with top credit rating—to 4 per cent.

Discourages Borrowing

This was the highest prime rate since the 1930's. New York banking circles said it likely would cover the increase in the discount rate announced today.

Mrs. Weinberger stepped into the house for a few moments. When she returned, the baby was gone. There was a handwritten note that read:

"I hate to do this to you, but I am in great trouble. Don't notify the police. I am not asking for a lot of money, only what I need, and I am very serious about this."

There followed instructions on where to leave $2,000 in small ransom bills the next morning.

The note was signed, "Your Baby Sitter."

State Declines County Bid To Fight Segregation Suit

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 23 (AP) — The State has turned down the invitation of Anne Arundel County school officials to fight a suit seeking to compel the county school board to "establish and maintain separate schools for colored children."

The County Board of Education voted Aug. 8 to ask both the attorney general and the attorney for the State Department of Education to handle the litigation.

The suit was filed Aug. 7 on behalf of eight parents by George Washington Williams, who sought the Democratic senatorial nomination last spring on a "State's Rights" platform.

In asking the state attorneys to handle the case, Dr. David S. Jenkins, county school superintendent, said the case has statewide implications.

In a reply to Dr. Jenkins, Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert said the State is not a party to the suit. The attorney general's office may act in defense of State department but may not serve as counsel for county boards of education, Sybert said.

Williams filed a similar suit yesterday in Howard County on behalf of 28 parents, and it is reported he plans to file such suits in other Maryland counties.

Eisenhower "Notified" Of His Renomination

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23 (AP)—President Eisenhower got the official word today that he has been renominated.

Sen. Knowland of Calfironia, chairman of a Notification Committee from the Republican National Convention, made a brief notification speech and extended the formal invitation to the President to address the delegates.

States Reaped All-Time High In Taxes Last Year

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The states gathered an all-time high of $13,335,000,000 in taxes last fiscal year, a record increase of $1,738,000,000 over the previous year.

The cost per person averaged $81.60 during the year ended last June 30, $9.35 more than in fiscal 1955.

In reporting this today, the U.S. Census Bureau also said:

The 15 per cent rise in state tax revenue in fiscal 1956 was more than three times the gain in the 1955 fiscal year over 1954. Previous record jumps of more than one billion dollars were rung up in fiscal 1948 and 1951.

Sales taxes and levies on gross receipts were the biggest money raisers for the states. These levies accounted for $7,779,000,000, or more than half of the total. The income from them rose 13.3 per cent above fiscal 1955 and they amounted to $47.60 per man, woman and child.

General sales taxes brought in more than three billion dollars in fiscal 1956, the largest single yield, while the taxes on gasoline and motor fuels raised $2,683,000,000.

Individual income taxes showed a gain of nearly 26 per cent in yield, bringing in $1,377,000,000 compared with a little more than a billion in fiscal 1955.

There were 117,000 men in the armed forces in the Mexican war. The last veteran died in 1929 at the age of 98.

"and therefore carries special appeal for the young who have so much of the future before them."

His contentions:

1. "Because it is the party of long-range principle, not short-term expediency."

2. "It is the party that concentrates on the facts and issues of today and tomorrow, not the facts and issues of yesterday."

3. "It is the party that draws people together, not drives them apart."

4. "It is the party through which many things that still need doing will soonest be done—and will be done by enlisting the fullest energies of free, creative, individual people."

Dedicated To Peace

5. "A party of the future must be completely dedicated to peace, as indeed must all Americans. For without peace there is no future."

On the point of the quest for enduring world peace, Eisenhower said "three imperatives" are required for a solid foundation. He listed them as A. "the elementary necessity of maintaining our own national strength—moral, economic and military"; B. collective security to build a safeguard against any aggression, and C. "we must actively try to bridge the great chasm that separates us from the peoples under Communist rule."

State Declines County Bid To Fight Segregation Suit

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 23 (AP) — The State has turned down the invitation of Anne Arundel County school officials to fight a suit seeking to compel the county school board to "establish and maintain separate schools for colored children."

The County Board of Education voted Aug. 8 to ask both the attorney general and the attorney for the State Department of Education to handle the litigation.

Eisenhower "Notified" Of His Renomination

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23 (AP)—President Eisenhower got the official word today that he has been renominated.

Sen. Knowland of Calfironia, chairman of a Notification Committee from the Republican National Convention, made a brief notification speech and extended the formal invitation to the President to address the delegates.

States Reaped All-Time High In Taxes Last Year

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The states gathered an all-time high of $13,335,000,000 in taxes last fiscal year, a record increase of $1,738,000,000 over the previous year.

The cost per person averaged $81.60 during the year ended last June 30, $9.35 more than in fiscal 1955.

In reporting this today, the U.S. Census Bureau also said:

The 15 per cent rise in state tax revenue in fiscal 1956 was more than three times the gain in the 1955 fiscal year over 1954. Previous record jumps of more than one billion dollars were rung up in fiscal 1948 and 1951.

Sales taxes and levies on gross receipts were the biggest money raisers for the states. These levies accounted for $7,779,000,000, or more than half of the total. The income from them rose 13.3 per cent above fiscal 1955 and they amounted to $47.60 per man, woman and child.

General sales taxes brought in more than three billion dollars in fiscal 1956, the largest single yield, while the taxes on gasoline and motor fuels raised $2,683,000,000.

Individual income taxes showed a gain of nearly 26 per cent in yield, bringing in $1,377,000,000 compared with a little more than a billion in fiscal 1955.

There were 117,000 men in the armed forces in the Mexican war. The last veteran died in 1929 at the age of 98.

Prosperity

"and therefore carries special appeal for the young who have so much of the future before them."

His contentions:

1. "Because it is the party of long-range principle, not short-term expediency."

2. "It is the party that concentrates on the facts and issues of today and tomorrow, not the facts and issues of yesterday."

3. "It is the party that draws people together, not drives them apart."

4. "It is the party through which many things that still need doing will soonest be done—and will be done by enlisting the fullest energies of free, creative, individual people."

Dedicated To Peace

5. "A party of the future must be completely dedicated to peace, as indeed must all Americans. For without peace there is no future."

On the point of the quest for enduring world peace, Eisenhower said "three imperatives" are required for a solid foundation. He listed them as A. "the elementary necessity of maintaining our own national strength—moral, economic and military"; B. collective security to build a safeguard against any aggression, and C. "we must actively try to bridge the great chasm that separates us from the peoples under Communist rule."

Girls 4-H Program For 1957 Outlined And Goals Chosen

The 1957 4-H program has been arranged under five headings, Miss Betty Rhoderick, summer assistant, reports. They are clothing, family life, food and nutrition, home furnishing and home management and public affairs.

It also was decided to stress more interesting meetings for the Girls Trail; more exhibits at the Fair, and more active participation in the annual campfire, which will be held next August. There also will be a reorganization of the Junior Extension and different programs.

For the clothing project, it is planned to teach correct and useful techniques in sewing and clothing, increase interest in the county style review and the number of garments made; also have the county agent give demonstrations at each club on the color selection for better personal appearance.

Individual club leaders will participate in the programs for the family life project, using panels, skits and debates, choosing topics along that line.

Under the food and nutrition subject it was decided to teach better food demonstration work and nutritional values, and to increase the number of participants in the county demonstration day. Miss Mary Wise is asked to conduct leaders' training meetings in teaching of demonstrations.

For the first time in several years home furnishing is included in the program, stressing the importance of home furnishing and what it includes. Miss Wise will conduct a judging school in the local clubs on bedroom furnishing schemes. In home management the clubs will try to let all the girls learn all projects in the area by conducting leader training meetings in the different units, and teaching good management principles.

In the community development and public affairs area it was decided to have the county again participate in the public speaking contest in the spring, on both local and district levels; and to hold 4-H camp at Algawa in June.

Hyndman Church of the Brethren will hold a basket picnic Sunday at 12:30 in Constitution Park. Rev. Earl Harper announces everyone is welcome.

The official visit of Mrs. Eleanor Mills, Snow Hill, great Pocahontas, will feature the meeting of Algonquin Council 54, Degree of Pocahontas, tonight.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD QUATTRO

Mary Ann Cangley Becomes Bride Of Edward Quattro

Miss Mary Ann Cangley, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Cangley, Thomas, W. Va. and the late Gus Cangley, became the bride of Edward Quattro, son of Mrs. Mary Grecco and the late Crispin Quattro, July 28. The wedding ceremony was solemnized in St. Thomas Catholic Church, Thomas, W. Va., with Father Spillar officiating. Bouquets of white gladioli and candelabra of lighted tapers decorated the altar.

Miss Jean Lamont was the bride's maid of honor; while Miss Mary Suder and Miss Mary B. La Camera, Clarksburg, cousin of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Vincent DiBacco served as his cousin's best man and John V. DiBacco and Matthew Quattro, other cousins, were the ushers.

A program of nuptial music and the traditional marches were played by Miss Patricia Santangelo, who accompanied Miss Carmon Monda singing "Ave Maria," "The Lord's Prayer," and "Mother at Thy Feet I'm Kneeling."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Robert Cangley, of Weirton, W. Va., was attired in a gown of white net and lace over taffeta, with which she wore a matching lace jacket. Her fingertip-length veil was held by a crown headdress of lace. Completing her costume, she carried a white lace-covered prayerbook with white orchid and white satin streamers.

Her maid of honor wore a rose colored taffeta gown with matching half hat, and carried a corsage of pink rosebuds. The bridesmaids' dresses were of net over taffeta. With them they wore yellow rosebud headdress and corsage. Miss Suder's was blue and Miss LaCamera's green.

Mrs. Cangley chose a rose and gray printed chiffon dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. With it she wore a pink rosebud corsage. Mrs. Grecco wore a pink lace over satin with white accessories and also has a pink rosebud corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Thomas High School, and until her resignation was employed at Rubenstein's Market. The bridegroom is a graduate of Thomas High School and Fairmont State College. He accepted a position on the faculty of Southern High School in Oakland.

Immediately following the ceremony a dinner was served the bridal party and immediate families at the Varsity. The wedding reception was at the City Hall from 2 until 4. Mrs. Michael LaCamera and Mrs. Hansel Armentrout, aunts of the bridegroom, served the cake, and Mrs. Robert Congley, sister-in-law of the bride presided at the punch bowl. Virginia Close, niece of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

For traveling the bride chose a blue linen suit with white accessories, and wore her orchid. After a wedding trip to Atlantic City, Chester, Pa., and Baltimore, Mr. and Mrs. Quattro will reside in Oakland.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. George C. Stein, Mrs. George T. Stein, Mrs. Carlton Hanks, Mr. and Mrs. John Gross, Cumberland; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rollman, Deer Park; Mrs. Amos Pierce, Chester; Michael LaCamera, Clarksburg; Robert Cangley Jr., Mrs. Thomas Carso, Weirton; Mrs. Cecil Burdock and son, David, Elk Garden; Mrs. Weltha Dice and son, Joseph, Mrs. Myrtle Kight, Leadmine, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Otto B. Gross, Martinsburg; Miss Joann Shrader, Miss Fredericka Shaffer, Miss Macy Cunningham, Pittsburgh; Mr. and Mrs. William Renn, Bayard; Mr. and Mrs. Tony Osretkar, College Park; Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Brandeau, Jeanne and John Brandeau, Melrose, N. Y.; Elizabeth and Margaret Harper, Akron; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Petrella, James Petrella, Mary Jean Marlotta, Hartford, Conn., Mrs. Zella Tyson, Davis, W. Va., Mrs. Donald Dice, Catherine and Thomas Dice, Kingston, Tenn.; Mrs. John Leshin, Milwaukee, Wis.; John Cangley, Cleveland, Virginia Close, and Joyce Liller, Baltimore.

Meeting Date Is Changed

The date of the regular meeting of the East Side Homemakers Club was changed and reports were given at the monthly meeting held in the form of a covered dish picnic at the Celanese Park. Mrs. Thomas Buser presided.

The first Tuesday of the month, beginning in September, was selected for the meeting date instead of the second Monday. It was decided to have the next meeting in the form of a wiener and corn roast September 4. It will be in Grove 1, Constitution Park, beginning at 7:30.

Mrs. Buser reported on the county chairmen meeting. Committee reports were given by Mrs. Herman Curry, Clothing; Mrs. William Flora, Family Life; Mrs. Clare Flora, Nutrition; and Mrs. John Aaron, Home Furnishing. The fair booth also was discussed. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Charles Rudolph, Mrs. Edward Naughton and Mrs. Hilda Stewart.

A blessing was offered by Mrs. Carl Smith, and the group recited the Lord's Prayer. The history of the hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," was read by Mrs. William Flora, after which the club sang the hymn, then recited the Homemaker creed. Roll call was answered with favorite picnic dishes. The closing song was "Beautiful Ohio."

Miss Frances Pretzel was a visitor. Others present were Miss Erma Wilmot, Mrs. Earl Smith, Clare Flora, Carl Smith, William Flora, and son, John Aaron and Lloyd Stewart.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the LaVale Firemen will meet at 8 tonight at the fire hall. Hostesses for the social hour will be Mrs. Leola Knierium, Mrs. Elizabeth Moody and Mrs. Ford Lee.

The date of the regular meeting of the East Side Homemakers Club was changed and reports were given at the monthly meeting held in the form of a covered dish picnic at the Celanese Park. Mrs. Thomas Buser presided.

The first Tuesday of the month, beginning in September, was selected for the meeting date instead of the second Monday. It was decided to have the next meeting in the form of a wiener and corn roast September 4. It will be in Grove 1, Constitution Park, beginning at 7:30.

Mrs. Buser reported on the county chairmen meeting. Committee reports were given by Mrs. Herman Curry, Clothing; Mrs. William Flora, Family Life; Mrs. Clare Flora, Nutrition; and Mrs. John Aaron, Home Furnishing. The fair booth also was discussed. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Charles Rudolph, Mrs. Edward Naughton and Mrs. Hilda Stewart.

A blessing was offered by Mrs. Carl Smith, and the group recited the Lord's Prayer. The history of the hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," was read by Mrs. William Flora, after which the club sang the hymn, then recited the Homemaker creed. Roll call was answered with favorite picnic dishes. The closing song was "Beautiful Ohio."

Miss Frances Pretzel was a visitor. Others present were Miss Erma Wilmot, Mrs. Earl Smith, Clare Flora, Carl Smith, William Flora, and son, John Aaron and Lloyd Stewart.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the LaVale Firemen will meet at 8 tonight at the fire hall. Hostesses for the social hour will be Mrs. Leola Knierium, Mrs. Elizabeth Moody and Mrs. Ford Lee.

Legion Convention Is Told Of Drive Against UNESCO

BALTIMORE, Aug. 23 (AP)—The American Legion's campaign in Maryland against the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) was described today at the State Legion convention.

Delegates also heard a plea from their traffic safety chairman for stronger laws to reduce highway accidents.

The campaign against UNESCO, conducted during the last year by the State Legion's Americanism Commission, was reported upon by the commission chairman, Woodrow W. Bousman of Cheverly.

He said the campaign in Maryland was carried out in connection with the Legion's national policy. During the 1955 national convention, the Legion rejected a report favorable to UNESCO and approved a campaign of opposition to the agency.

Bousman said more than 100,000 pieces of literature attacking UNESCO were distributed in Maryland by his commission during the last year. The commission worked closely with Maryland units of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Daughters of the American Revolution, the American Coalition of Patriotic Societies, and with the National Republic, the Manion Forum of Public Opinion and other patriotic groups and individuals, he said.

The Bousman report will be acted on by the delegates at a later session.

Cattle Judged At Fair

GAITHERSBURG, Md., Aug. 23 (AP)—Beef judging highlighted today's events at the eighth annual Montgomery County Fair.

With Herefords and Shorthorns scheduled to parade through the judging ring, fair officials predicted a crowd in excess of the estimated 30,000 who attended yesterday.

Top Test Pilot Says 15,200-MPH Planes Possible

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 23 (AP)—American research airplanes, if developed under a crash program, could be flying at 20 times the speed of sound, or 15,200 miles an hour at sea level within 10 years, says the top test pilot of the U.S. Air Force.

Lt. Col. Frank K. (Pete) Everest, who recently flew the Bell X-2 research plane almost three times the speed of sound, says that "under a crash program we could probably have a manned satellite and an airplane that could fly to it in 10 years."

Such a plane, he said, would have to fly at 20 times the speed of sound.

Everest, who is taking a respite from test flying to attend the Armed Forces Staff College here, said he feels this country's inventory of research airplanes is "more advanced than any other nation."

He indicated, however, that America does not have enough of the research vehicles because of a lack of funds.

Retired Baltimore Broker Succumbs

BALTIMORE, Aug. 23 (AP)—Milton F. Westheimer, 84, retired Baltimore broker, died today at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

He was the father of Julius M. Westheimer, president of Julius Gutman & Co., department store firm.

A native of St. Joseph, Mo., Westheimer came to Baltimore in 1903. He entered the brokerage business following World War I and was a partner in Westheimer & Co. when he retired in 1940.

Other survivors include his wife; one daughter, Mrs. Jerry Ransohoff, of Cincinnati; and four brothers, Henry F. Westheimer, of Baltimore, and Irvin, David and Eugene Westheimer, all of Cincinnati.

Funeral services will be held at noon Sunday.

D. C. Employment Up

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The addition of 700 persons to the working population in July raised employment in Washington and nearby suburban areas to a post-World War II peak of 646,300.

The upward trend continues a steady increase that began in 1955.

Bethlehem Receives Navy Ship Contract

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Navy today awarded a contract to the Bethlehem - Sparrows Point shipyard, Baltimore, to build three ammunition ships at a total fixed price of $40,477,000.

The Navy said that the new vessels will be similar to three ammunition ships previously built by the same shipyard, but will have improved machinery for rapid handling of ammunitions and explosives.

The three ships will be 512 feet long, 72 feet wide and will displace 7,500 tons. The contract was awarded on the basis of competitive negotiations, the Navy said. Invitations to bid were sent to eleven shipyards. Seven of them submitted proposals.

Origin of insurance is ascribed to the Roman emperor Cladius in 43 A. D.

President Sends Greetings To Firemen's Convention

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 23 (AP)—President Eisenhower sent a telegram to the Cumberland Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association convention today, praising its members for the services they render and extending "best wishes for a successful convention."

The telegram, from San Francisco, was addressed to R. J. Long of Martinsburg, convention chairman.

The telegram read:

"To the Cumberland Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association, meeting in their 55th annual convention, I send greetings.

"Those people of Pennsylvania and Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia who live within the area of your responsibility have come to depend upon your organizations as it meets the countless emergencies of every day, and the people of America also depend upon you and organizations like you for our national safety.

"Congratulations to you for the spirit of volunteer community service and best wishes for a successful convention."

It was signed, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Addresses and committee reports consumed today's business sessions. Election of officers is set for tomorrow.

About 175 delegates were registered.

Bids On Air Guard Project Are Opened

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 23 (AP)—W. Harley Miller of Martinsburg, was low among seven bidders today to construct buildings and fuel storage facilities for the West Virginia Air National Guard at the Martinsburg Municipal Airport.

Lt. Col. Walter S. Mather, executive officer of the Huntington District U. S. Engineers, said the bid was $1,376,845.15. The engineers' estimate for the work was $1,238,532.25.

Improvements Slated At West Va. Airports

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The three-year, 250-million-dollar program for aviation safety announced by the government will mean expenditures of approximately $650,000 at seven West Virginia airports.

Kanwha Airport at Charleston will get the biggest portion of the program to start in 1957—high intensity approach lights costing some $110,000 and additional air-ground communications channels for airport traffic control, costing $14,500.

Very high frequency omnidirectional radio ranges, costing about $86,000 each, will be installed at airports in Charles Town, Clarksburg, Huntington, Princeton, Bluefield and Rainelle.

The telegram, from San Francisco, was addressed to R. J. Long of Martinsburg, convention chairman.

"To the Cumberland Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association, meeting in their 55th annual convention, I send greetings.

"Those people of Pennsylvania and Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia who live within the area of your responsibility have come to depend upon your organizations as it meets the countless emergencies of every day, and the people of America also depend upon you and organizations like you for our national safety.

"Congratulations to you for the spirit of volunteer community service and best wishes for a successful convention."

It was signed, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Addresses and committee reports consumed today's business sessions. Election of officers is set for tomorrow.

About 175 delegates were registered.

Bids On Air Guard Project Are Opened

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 23 (AP)—W. Harley Miller of Martinsburg, was low among seven bidders today to construct buildings and fuel storage facilities for the West Virginia Air National Guard at the Martinsburg Municipal Airport.

Lt. Col. Walter S. Mather, executive officer of the Huntington District U. S. Engineers, said the bid was $1,376,845.15. The engineers' estimate for the work was $1,238,532.25.

Improvements Slated At West Va. Airports

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The three-year, 250-million-dollar program for aviation safety announced by the government will mean expenditures of approximately $650,000 at seven West Virginia airports.

Kanwha Airport at Charleston will get the biggest portion of the program to start in 1957—high intensity approach lights costing some $110,000 and additional airground communications channels for airport traffic control, costing $14,500.

Very high frequency omnidirectional radio ranges, costing about $86,000 each, will be installed at airports in Charles Town, Clarksburg, Huntington, Princeton, Bluefield and Rainelle.

No Dixie Democratic Party Bolt Indicated

ATLANTA, Aug. 23 (AP) — While recognized leaders of Southern Democrats don't average out as wildly enthusiastic about their party's 1956 presidential ticket and platform, there are few signs today that they'll join any bolt.

If there is any defection from the Adlai Stevenson-Estes Kefauver ticket among working Democrats, it's unlikely to be in the direction of the Republicans. Instead, it would be a move to name presidential electors either uninstructed or pledged to some other candidate.

This strategy is being advanced, without support of top party leaders, in Mississippi and Louisiana by Democrats who entertain a seemingly far-fetched hope that they thus can deprive both Stevenson and Eisenhower of the required majority of electoral college votes and throw the election into the House of Representatives.

A check of the 11 states generally regarded as making up the "Solid South" today disclosed the party's top men lined up in behalf of the ticket in eight — Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina and Tennessee. No authoritative comment was available from Texas, South Carolina and Virginia.

In 1952 Florida, Texas, Tennessee and Virginia voted for Eisenhower.

Florida Sen. Holland To "Scrap" For Adlai

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Sen. Holland (D-Fla) who was cool to Adlai Stevenson in 1952, said today he will "scrap for him" in this year's presidential election campaign.

Holland announced he will attend a "grass roots" campaign strategy conference at Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 30, called by Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

Stevenson's personal telegraphed invitation to Holland, said, "I look forward to getting your advice on how we can best mobilize to win."

Holland told a reporter he considers Stevenson "a marvelously improved candidate." Stevenson campaigned four years ago without any active support from Holland.

The Florida senator said, "I felt he was dominated by Harry Truman and much too close to ADA—Americans for Democratic Action—in those days."

Hot Coffee Burns Wiley Ford Child

An 11-month-old Wiley Ford child was admitted to Memorial Hospital Wednesday after pulling a pot of hot coffee on herself.

Hospital attaches said Donna Jean Aqualla, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Aqualla, sustained burns about the chest, forehead and body in the accident at her home.

Attaches said the coffee pot was on top of a cabinet and the child pulled it off. The degree of her burns has not been determined. Her condition is reported as "satisfactory."

Local Trooper Involved In Shooting Case

A Cumberland man who is a member of the Maryland State Police was among 10 troopers and four sheriff's deputies who were held at bay Wednesday by a 63-year-old woman armed with a shotgun before she was routed by tear bas and then shot in the leg.

He is Trooper Joseph Helmstetter, who became a member of the State Police about a year ago.

The incident occurred at Oakville in St. Mary's County.

Authorities had sought to question Mrs. Mary Jennie McGinnis about a stolen truck wrecked and abandoned near Mechanicsville, Md.

State Troopers R. M. Bikle and Helmstetter said Mrs. McGinnis refused to let them enter her small frame home. She fired three shots from her shotgun to emphasize her objections.

The troopers radioed for help. Eight other troopers, St. Marys County Sheriff Robert Miedzinski and three of his deputies hastened to the scene.

When Mrs. McGinnis remained adamant in her refusal to leave the house, the troopers fired a tear gas shell into the home. The fumes drove her into the back yard where, ignoring demands to halt, she fired another blast from her shotgun.

One of the deputies finally shot Mrs. McGinnis in the leg and, while being taken to a hospital in Leonardtown, she was quoted by Miedzinski as saying she acted as she did "to guard her home."

The sheriff said he did not believe Mrs. McGinnis had any connection with the stolen truck. Police investigated because they said it had been reported she was seen getting out of the truck earlier.

Local Trooper Involved In Shooting Case

A Cumberland man who is a member of the Maryland State Police was among 10 troopers and four sheriff's deputies who were held at bay Wednesday by a 63-year-old woman armed with a shotgun before she was routed by tear bas and then shot in the leg.

He is Trooper Joseph Helmstetter, who became a member of the State Police about a year ago.

The incident occurred at Oakville in St. Mary's County.

Authorities had sought to question Mrs. Mary Jennie McGinnis about a stolen truck wrecked and abandoned near Mechanicsville, Md.

State Troopers R. M. Bikle and Helmstetter said Mrs. McGinnis refused to let them enter her small frame home. She fired three shots from her shotgun to emphasize her objections.

The troopers radioed for help. Eight other troopers, St. Marys County Sheriff Robert Miedzinski and three of his deputies hastened to the scene.

When Mrs. McGinnis remained adamant in her refusal to leave the house, the troopers fired a tear gas shell into the home. The fumes drove her into the back yard where, ignoring demands to halt, she fired another blast from her shotgun.

One of the deputies finally shot Mrs. McGinnis in the leg and, while being taken to a hospital in Leonardtown, she was quoted by Miedzinski as saying she acted as she did "to guard her home."

The sheriff said he did not believe Mrs. McGinnis had any connection with the stolen truck. Police investigated because they said it had been reported she was seen getting out of the truck earlier.

Moorefield Lions Hear Talk By Commissioner Of Labor

Club Asked To Aid Petersburg Hospital

MOOREFIELD — Charles Sattler, West Virginia commissioner of labor, addressed the Moorefield Lions Club at the Hotel McNeill, on the duties of his department in the state. He said his department is responsible for the inspection of all boilers in the state with a pressure of over 15 pounds per inch, for industrial safety, for all bedding and furniture inspections in the state, and the inspection of all scales and weighing devices.

Commissioner Sattler had an interesting display of short weight grocery items which had been condemned by his department, and included some nationally advertised items. He said that short weight packages were not necessarily deliberate on the part of the manufacturer as there was a possibility of a mechanical failure in the packaging The condemned items were replaced by the manufacturers. Satter also showed a series of slides showing shortages in gasoline pump measures, counter scales and and stock scales. Commissioner Sattler stated that his department saved West Virginians a minimum of $25,000,000 a year.

Accompanying the commissioner were inspectors Forrest Grady and Frank M. Kellar.

Dave Cuppett, Petersburg attorney, spoke to the Lions requesting help in raising funds for the Grant County Memorial Hospital. Cuppett explained that the hospital would serve Hardy County as well as Grant County and that financial help was desperately needed to assure the hospital. Cuppett said that the low bid was nearly $70,000 more than originally planned and that an additional $15,000 would have to be raised to construct a sewage disposal system.

The delegation from Petersburg included Dr. W. C. Van Meter, C. H. Park, Jettie Simmons and the Rev. Robert A. Yeomans.

Wendell Hester, manager of Pierce Pre-Cooked Foods, Inc., pledged $500 for that company towards building the hospital.

William L. Clark, president of the Moorefield Lions Club, announced the annual Lions Club picnic would be held at Fort Buttermilk on Labor Day, September 3 beginning at 2 p. m.

Clark also read a letter from Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company thanking the club for assistance during the annual Poultry Convention and requesting the Lions to take over the responsibility of arranging entertainment and accommodations for the Poultry Princesses next year

Garrett County Improves 48; Miles Rural Roadways

Four Bridge Projects Also Completed

OAKLAND—Forty-eight and one-half miles of basically farm market roads have been constructed or substantially improved in Garrett County during the past four years, an examination of the records of the county roads department reveals.

In addition, four major bridge projects, costing in the neighborhood of $45,000 each, were completed.

In compiling these statistics, roads around Deep Creek Lake or those used principally for vacationists and others in reaching recreation areas, were not included.

Some of the projects were completed over a period of several years, with roadbed being finished one year, grading another and paving the next. In these cases, the mileage was counted only once, although the road appeared on work records for more than one year.

W. W. DeWitt, county roads engineer, listed the bridge projects as the Browning Dam bridge, two over the Yough River, one near Oakland and the other at Savage River. Each of these steel bridges, he said, cost about $45,000.

DeWitt said the mileage figures given included only roads actually completed up until January 1 of this year, and did not include any work finished in 1956 or any work underway which is not entirely completed.

He said that short weight packages were not necessarily deliberate on the part of the manufacturer as there was a possibility of a mechanical failure in the packaging. The condemned items were replaced by the manufacturers. Satter also showed a series of slides showing shortages in gasoline pump measures, counter scales and and stock scales. Commissioner Sattler stated that his department saved West Virginians a minimum of $25,000,000 a year.

Accompanying the commissioner were inspectors Forrest Grady and Frank M. Kellar.

Dave Cuppett, Petersburg attorney, spoke to the Lions requesting help in raising funds for the Grant County Memorial Hospital. Cuppett explained that the hospital would serve Hardy County as well as Grant County and that financial help was desperately needed to assure the hospital. Cuppett said that the low bid was nearly $70,000 more than originally planned and that an additional $15,000 would have to be raised to construct a sewage disposal system.

The delegation from Petersburg included Dr. W. C. Van Meter, C. H. Park, Jettie Simmons and the Rev. Robert A. Yeomans.

Wendell Hester, manager of Pierce Pre-Cooked Foods, Inc., pledged $500 for that company towards building the hospital.

William L. Clark, president of the Moorefield Lions Club, announced the annual Lions Club picnic would be held at Fort Buttermilk on Labor Day, September 3 beginning at 2 p. m.

Clark also read a letter from Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company thanking the club for assistance during the annual Poultry Convention and requesting the Lions to take over the responsibility of arranging entertainment and accommodations for the Poultry Princesses next year

Garrett County Improves 48; Miles Rural Roadways

Four Bridge Projects Also Completed

OAKLAND—Forty-eight and one-half miles of basically farm market roads have been constructed or substantially improved in Garrett County during the past four years, an examination of the records of the county roads department reveals.

In addition, four major bridge projects, costing in the neighborhood of $45,000 each, were completed.

In compiling these statistics, roads around Deep Creek Lake or those used principally for vacationists and others in reaching recreation areas, were not included.

Some of the projects were completed over a period of several years, with roadbed being finished one year, grading another and paving the next. In these cases, the mileage was counted only once, although the road appeared on work records for more than one year.

W. W. DeWitt, county roads engineer, listed the bridge projects as the Browning Dam bridge, two over the Yough River, one near Oakland and the other at Savage River. Each of these steel bridges, he said, cost about $45,000.

DeWitt said the mileage figures given included only roads actually completed up until January 1 of this year, and did not include any work finished in 1956 or any work underway which is not entirely completed.

Theme Booth Wins Prize

FROSTBURG—The theme booth constructed by the Frostburg Homemakers Club, was awarded first prize at the Cumberland Fair this week.

The booth depicted a beautiful green countryside, with a hard surfaced road in the foreground, two miniature cars were passing each other on this road, and a traffic marker at the edge of the highway contained a plus sign. Next, to the right was a billboard built to scale, which spelled out the words of the Golden Rule, another traffic sign contained an "equal" sign, and large white letters on the road surface spelled out "safety," the theme being "good driving plus the golden rule equals safety."

This idea was suggested by Mrs. Sara Dolder, a member of the local club. It was carried out by Mrs. Mary Jane Hager, art chairman of the club, and the following committee; Mrs. Marge Reuning, Mrs. Perry Myers, Mrs. Ruth Morgan, Mrs. Marion Skidmore, Mrs. Mildred Walker, Mrs. Peggy Aldridge, and Mrs. Amy Richardson.

Westernport To Stop Water Service Unless UPRC Pays Bill Due Since April

WESTERNPORT — The Mayor and Council last night authorized Town Clerk George P. DeWitt to inform the Upper Potomac River Commission that water service to the superintendent's house at Savage River dam will be discontinued after Saturday unless a bill for water and tapping fees is paid.

The bill amounts to $619.08, it was pointed out, and is for the period from April 1, 1951, through July 31, 1956.

In other action at Wednesday's meeting, Council ordered that the Bloomington Water Company be informed that new annual rates for water supplied by the Town of Westernport will go into effect after 90 days.

The new charges will be $6.50 for residences, and $10 for business places. Residents in the Savage River area will be charged $10 annually, and $15 will be assessed against business places, Council stated. The fees are to be paid in advance on a semi-annual basis.

Since the two towns will be supplied raw water, the customers in the Bloomington area will be requested to sign agreements with the Town of Westernport that the town will not be responsible for illnesses caused by the water.

The Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company officially informed Council of its purchase of 250 acres of land on the Westernport side of the town on which 150 homes will be constructed.

The firm's letter also requested permission to connect raw sewage into the Westernport sewage system, and specified that the request did not include drainage. The request was being made, the letter stated, so that such information could be obtained well in advance of the long-range development plan.

The request was referred to the Glaze and Glaze firm of Harrisburg, Pa., engineering firm which has been handling the town's sewage and water supply systems, and the town clerk was ordered to notify the paper company of the sanitary engineering firm's decision. If approved, Council specified that the rate charged would be based on a fair return for the town's investment in the new sewage system.

Commissioner Alvin Pence reported that an inspection of homes and business places in town had been completed by Gerald and Thomas Guy, with the result that a gain of $6,000 had been made in water receipts. The annual revenue from this source, he continued, now totals $37,500.

The second complaint within a week on speeding on town streets was also received at the council meeting. A petition carrying the names of 44 residents of Church Street reported speeding on that street was endangering the lives of children. At last week's council meeting, a similar petition was received from residents along the upper end of Main Street.

The petition was referred to Police Commissioner Leo Herbert.

Harry Richards, inspector of the newly-constructed water storage tank in the vicinity of new Bruce High School, reported that the 590,000-gallon tank was expected to be filled by the first of next week.

It was announced that the annual corn roast of the club will be held September 12 a the home of Jesse Jacobs, 98 West College Avenue. The committee in charge of this event is John Bone, chairman, Eugene Valentine and Joseph Colosimo.

Theme Booth Wins Prize

FROSTBURG—The theme booth constructed by the Frostburg Homemakers Club, was awarded first prize at the Cumberland Fair this week.

The booth depicted a beautiful green countryside, with a hard surfaced road in the foreground, two miniature cars were passing each other on this road, and a traffic marker at the edge of the highway contained a plus sign. Next, to the right was a billboard built to scale, which spelled out the words of the Golden Rule, another traffic sign contained an "equal" sign, and large white letters on the road surface spelled out "safety," the theme being "good driving plus the golden rule equals safety."

This idea was suggested by Mrs. Sara Dolder, a member of the local club. It was carried out by Mrs. Mary Jane Hagen, art chairman of the club, and the following committee; Mrs. Marge Reuning, Mrs. Perry Myers, Mrs. Ruth Morgan, Mrs. Marion Skidmore, Mrs. Mildred Walker, Mrs. Peggy Aldridge, and Mrs. Amy Richardson.

Westernport To Stop Water Service Unless UPRC Pays Bill Due Since April

WESTERNPORT — The Mayor and Council last night authorized Town Clerk George P. DeWitt to inform the Upper Potomac River Commission that water service to the superintendent's house at Savage River dam will be discontinued after Saturday unless a bill for water and tapping fees is paid.

The bill amounts to $619.08, it was pointed out, and is for the period from April 1, 1951, through July 31, 1956.

In other action at Wednesday's meeting, Council ordered that the Bloomington Water Company be informed that new annual rates for water supplied by the Town of Westernport will go into effect after 90 days.

The new charges will be $6.50 for residences, and $10 for business places. Residents in the Savage River area will be charged $10 annually, and $15 will be assessed against business places, Council stated. The fees are to be paid in advance on a semi-annual basis.

Since the two towns will be supplied raw water, the customers in the Bloomington area will be requested to sign agreements with the Town of Westernport that the town will not be responsible for illnesses caused by the water.

The Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company officially informed Council of its purchase of 250 acres of land on the Westernport side of the town on which 150 homes will be constructed.

The firm's letter also requested permission to connect raw sewage into the Westernport sewage system, and specified that the request did not include drainage. The request was being made, the letter stated, so that such information could be obtained well in advance of the long-range development plan.

The request was referred to the Glaze and Glaze firm of Harrisburg, Pa., engineering firm which has been handling the town's sewage and water supply systems, and the town clerk was ordered to notify the paper company of the sanitary engineering firm's decision. If approved, Council specified that the rate charged would be based on a fair return for the town's investment in the new sewage system.

Commissioner Alvin Pence reported that an inspection of homes and business places in town had been completed by Gerald and Thomas Guy, with the result that a gain of $6,000 had been made in water receipts. The annual revenue from this source, he continued, now totals $37,500.

The second complaint within a week on speeding on town streets was also received at the council meeting. A petition carrying the names of 44 residents of Church Street reported speeding on that street was endangering the lives of children. At last week's council meeting, a similar petition was received from residents along the upper end of Main Street.

The petition was referred to Police Commissioner Leo Herbert.

Harry Richards, inspector of the newly-constructed water storage tank in the vicinity of new Bruce High School, reported that the 500,000-gallon tank was expected to be filled by the first of next week.

OF FROSTBURG

On The Line

by Bob Considine

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23 (INS)—Dwight D. Eisenhower's dynamic appearance Tuesday night at the airport and yesterday in his news conference must constitute the worst break the Democratic high command has had since the battle line of November began to be drawn.

This looked like a man who could go 10 rounds with a tiger, and, not only that, was itching to. This most certainly did not look like a man who is going to pull up a rocking chair in front of a TV camera, let Bob Montgomery smear on the pancake and the eye pencil, and espouse principles. This was a breezy, healthy, free-swinging fellow with much more confidence than the uncertain general of four years ago.

He made it look as if it's all over but the pouting.

Henry J. Taylor, one of the abler men in the business, missed his first weekly broadcast in 11 years during the Republican convention. It would have been his 711th in a row. Taylor, who is a distinguished financial analyst as well as intrepid domestic and foreign correspondent, looks as frail and pale as his old friend Ernie Pyle. But he has been wearing out muscle men for a generation and shows no sign of letting up on us, his biggers.

General Motors, his sponsor, has offered Taylor a six-week vacation during each of the years he has worked for them. Taylor has scoffed at the notion. He has never been late for a broadcast, never failed to get one in on time, even though they have come from 38 countries through the years. Taylor has spoken 1,400,000 words over the air in the course of his broadcasts (though many, many more off the air) and these would fill 20 or 25 modern sized books.

Good-natured but hard-hitting Harry was the first U. S. war correspondent to be accredited to all the major theaters of World War II. A single postwar broadcast on the failure of our colleges to teach American history (Taylor charged that one could graduate from Harvard, Yale, Princeton and three out of four teacher's colleges without taking the subject) resulted in 40,000 letters and cards. Since that time, more than 200 colleges have made the course obligatory.

Chances are that if you wear a political button between now and November, Manny Ress made it. Manny is a big, balding, out-of-breath fellow who used to work in Wall Street until he fell for Wendell Willkie. He quit his job, went to work for his hero, and soon was out of work again. So was Willkie.

Manny has been playing both sides of the political fence since then. The grass has been equally green. The country is button crazy, and Manny's there in his white coat to administer to the lunacy as best he can.

Manny got interested in buttons while thinking up bright sayings as a Willkie worker, like "Win with Willkie." He would have gone into the business as soon as Willkie lost to F.D.R., but before he could find the right spot he was grabbed by the Army and was not seen again until the end of 1945.

But it was water seeking a natural level. Soon, Manny had his own company and another hero. This new hero, Dwight D. Eisenhower, sold 75,000,000 "I Like Ike Buttons. Manny says he is the author of that tricky slogan but mourns that in his game there is no such thing as the copyright.

He has done pretty well at San Francisco by taking not only the pro and con on the Stassen-Nixon row but also the hyphen. One of his buttons says "Dump Everybody!" A Nixon supporter ordered 25,000 of his "Ike and Dick—Sure to Click" buttons at 12-½ cents each. Manny can't understand why his "YCERSOYA" button is moving slowly. Before he could be a square and asked what it meant Manny said, "Everybody should know it stands for 'You Can't Elect Republicans Sitting On Your Aspiration.' "

It was pretty mortifying, having to have it explained.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23 (INS)—Dwight D. Eisenhower's dynamic appearance Tuesday night at the airport and yesterday in his news conference must constitute the worst break the Democratic high command has had since the battle line of November began to be drawn.

This looked like a man who could go 10 rounds with a tiger, and, not only that, was itching to. This most certainly did not look like a man who is going to pull up a rocking chair in front of a TV camera, let Bob Montgomery smear on the pancake and the eye pencil, and espouse principles. This was a breezy, healthy, free-swinging fellow with much more confidence than the uncertain general of four years ago.

He made it look as if it's all over but the pouting.

Henry J. Taylor, one of the ablermen in the business, missed his first weekly broadcast in 11 years during the Republican convention. It would have been his 711th in a row. Taylor, who is a distinguished financial analyst as well as intrepid domestic and foreign correspondent, looks as frail and pale as his old friend Ernie Pyle. But he has been wearing out muscle men for a generation and shows no sign of letting up on us, his biggers.

General Motors, his sponsor, has offered Taylor a six-week vacation during each of the years he has worked for them. Taylor has scoffed at the notion. He has never been late for a broadcast, never failed to get one in on time, even though they have come from 38 countries through the years. Taylor has spoken 1,400,000 words over the air in the course of his broadcasts (though many, many more off the air) and these would fill 20 or 25 modern sized books.

Good-natured but hard-hitting Harry was the first U. S. war correspondent to be accredited to all the major theaters of World War II. A single postwar broadcast on the failure of our colleges to teach American history (Taylor charged that one could graduate from Harvard, Yale, Princeton and three out of four teacher's colleges without taking the subject) resulted in 40,000 letters and cards. Since that time, more than 200 colleges have made the course obligatory.

P.S.—He's also the undisputed mambo champion of his profession . . . and a helluva nice bloke.

Chances are that if you wear a political button between now and November, Manny Ress made it. Manny is a big, balding, out-of-breath fellow who used to work in Wall Street until he fell for Wendell Willkie. He quit his job, went to work for his hero, and soon was out of work again. So was Willkie.

Manny has been playing both sides of the political fence since then. The grass has been equally green. The country is button crazy, and Manny's there in his white coat to administer to the lunacy as best he can.

Manny got interested in buttons while thinking up bright sayings as a Willkie worker, like "Win with Willkie." He would have gone into the business as soon as Willkie lost to F.D.R., but before he could find the right spot he was grabbed by the Army and was not seen again until the end of 1945.

But it was water seeking a natural level. Soon, Manny had his own company and another hero. This new hero, Dwight D. Eisenhower, sold 75,000,000 "I Like Ike Buttons. Manny says he is the author of that tricky slogan but mourns that in his game there is no such thing as the copyright.

He has done pretty well at San Francisco by taking not only the pro and con on the Stassen-Nixon row but also the hyphen. One of his buttons says "Dump Everybody!" A Nixon supporter ordered 25,000 of his "Ike and Dick—Sure to Click" buttons at 12-½ cents each. Manny can't understand why his "YCERSOYA" button is moving slowly. Before he could be a square and asked what it meant Manny said. "Everybody should know it stands for 'You Can't Elect Republicans Sitting On Your Aspiration.' "

It was pretty mortifying, having to have it explained.

We Like Ike In '56 And Dick Nixon Too

As most Americans undoubtedly fervently hoped and expected, Dwight D. Eisenhower has been nominated by the Republican party again to be its standard-bearer in the presidential election this November against the same Democratic aspirant he so soundly trounced four years ago.

We sincerely hope and believe that Ike will be re-elected to his second term as President of the United States so that the American people can be assured of the continued progress of this country along the moderate lines that his administration has followed in the past four years.

The policies of the Eisenhower administration have brought to America a state of peace and prosperity about which there can be no argument. There is prosperity; there is no war, which is more than the Democrats can claim for their past administrations.

President Eisenhower has not believed in or practiced extreme policies. He has been tough when it has been necessary to be tough, but generally he has followed the road of moderation and tact that has kept honorable peace in the world, although from time to time it has seemed that only a spark was necessary to set off the tinder box of war. Ike's guidance has put out that spark.

On another phase of the election, we are inclined to agree with George Sokolsky, a Cumberland News columnist, that the vice presidency is no more important today than it has been in the past. All men are mortal and the vice presidency always has been an important office, but the vigor and leadership brought to it during the Eisenhower administration by Vice President Nixon has served to emphasize the value of this position.

There is nothing wrong with Dick Nixon, although the Democrats would have us believe there is. Nixon has been an integral part of the Eisenhower administration and has performed many services at the behest of or with the knowledge and concurrence of President Eisenhower.

Ike and Dick in '56 will make as strong a ticket, with a record behind them this time, as did Ike and Dick in '52.

Two years ago, during the congressional elections of 1954, Democratic politicians espoused their party's cause with the claims that their congressional nominees would forget party lines and support the Eisenhower program. The Democrats that year won control of both the House and the Senate but no sooner had they been seated than they began their opposition to the Eisenhower program. Actions speak louder than words. That in itself should be enough to cause the American voters to give Ike a Republican Congress this time. For that reason, among others, Senator John Marshall Butler and Representative DeWitt S. Hyde should be returned to Congress. Ike needs a working majority of Republicans.

Herewith, The Cumberland News heartily and sincerely endorses Dwight D. Eisenhower and Richard Nixon for president and vice president, respectively, John Marshall Butler for the United States Senate and DeWitt S. Hyde for Congress from the Sixth District of Maryland.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Machiavellians

Every quadrennial political convention produces its share of Machiavellians, master-minds who manipulate delegations and leaders and the chemistry of democracy that is euphemistically called public opinion. Often the Machiavellians live only during one convention and are never heard of again. Sometimes, they are of sterner quality and longer life.

For instance, Colonel George Harvey, who managed the smoke-filled room that made Warren Harding the Republican candidate for President, was a distinguished editor and publisher; Colonel Edward House, who devoted himself to the career of Woodrow Wilson, was an obscure Texan until the world went to war, whereupon House became an international celebrity and a mastermind of American policy.

In the recent Democratic Convention, Senator Lyndon Johnson, it was expected, would produce a marvelous compromise between Stevenson and Harriman, but Lyndon Johnson did not produce anything, not even a successful candidate for the vice presidency. George Backer and Judge Sam Rosenman were the manipulators of the Harriman effort and it is astonishing that Judge Rosenman did not succeed, what with his wealth of White House experience, but the fact is that he did not.

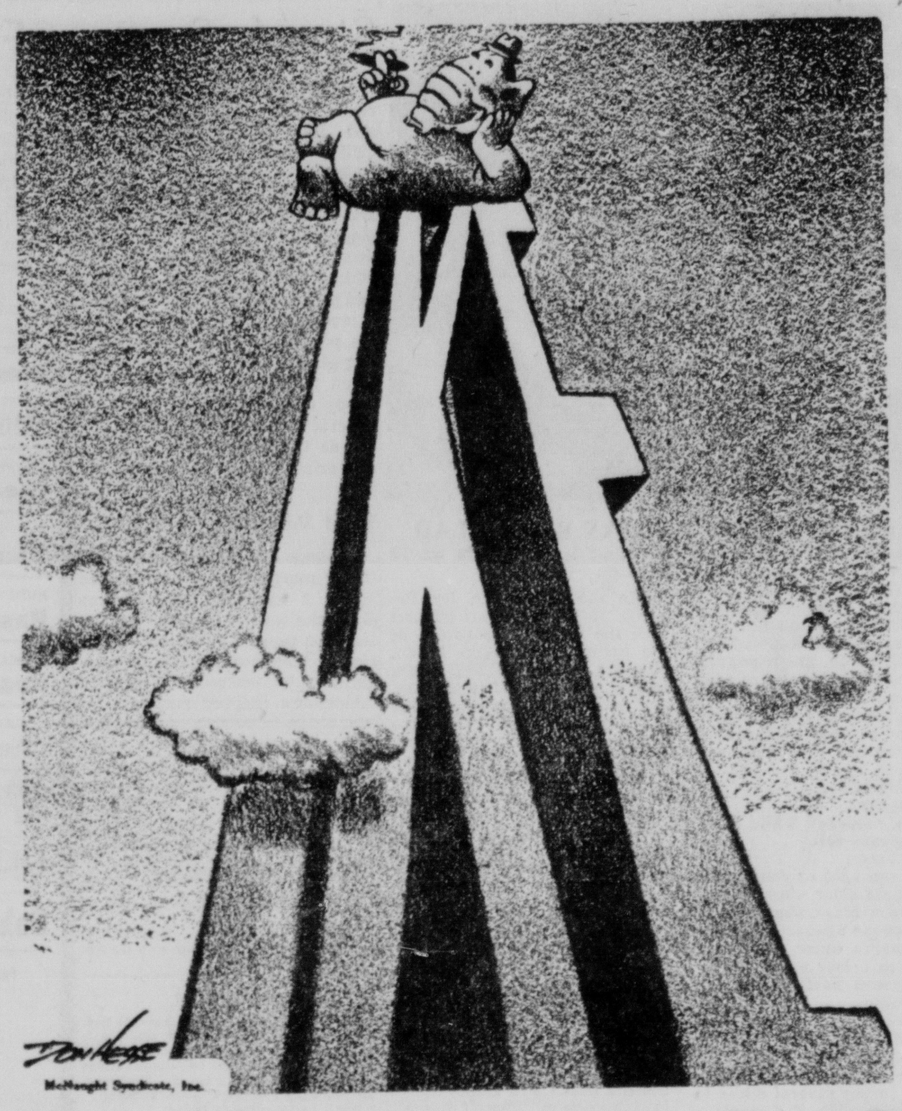

In the Republican Convention, the Machiavellians' real effort was to dump Vice President Nixon. In this, the Machiavellian is not Harold Stassen who does not possess that type of mind, being somewhat more simple. Originally the design for dumping Nixon came from outside the Republican party and the White House; it came from the ADA, the Americans for Democratic Action, which is managed by Joseph Rauh of Cincinnati and Professor Arthur Schlesinger Jr. of Harvard. Joining them in the original thinking was the Committee for an Effective Congress which is not part of the Republican apparatus although it was employed by some Republicans to destroy the effectiveness of Senator Joe McCarthy. They did not succeed but claim success; it was the voters who in 1954 elected a Democratic Senate and left Joe without a committee chairmanship which made him less effective.

Some folks in the White House, when they recognized the character of the dump Nixon campaign, thought that it was good because it might have produced Sherman Adams as vice president. The governor of California, Goodwin Knight, thought the campaign not bad at all because he is possessed of a public ambition to be vice president. Harold Stassen grabbed the ball and tried to run with it, avoiding to tell the public that he wanted the vice presidency for himself but claiming it for Christian Herter who promptly removed himself from the picture. Governor Theodore McKeldin of Maryland was willing.

This was not a movement against Nixon at all. The Machiavellians believe that they can utilize certain dissenting factors in the Republican party to split the party and thus defeat it. No one can object to the Democrats, the ADA or the Committee for an Effective Congress employing such tactics; it is part of the game of politics, war and love. They might be called diversionary tactics. One is astonished that any Republicans fall for them, particularly as these are the tactics that resulted in Republican defeats again and again and again.

"Ah-h-h-h!–What A View!"

Attempt At Smear Against Nixon Didn't Succeed

By David Lawrence

SAN FRANCISCO—This convention has presented the climax to a big story that has been unfolding for many months. The story now can be entitled: "The smear that didn't succeed."

Never in the history of American politics has anything so insidious been attempted—a palpable effort to ruin the personal and political reputation of Richard Nixon by a whispering campaign about his lack of integrity that had not the slightest foundation in fact.

The renomination of Vice President Nixon is not merely a triumph for the man but for the common sense of the Republican party's leadership, which refused to disqualify a man just because he had been a vigorous campaigner and had aroused the ire of the opposite party.

Whispering Campaign

Long before President Eisenhower suffered a heart attack, the whispering campaign against Nixon was under way. In fact, it was initiated about 18 months ago by certain extremist groups which resented bitterly his exposure in 1949 of Alger Hiss, a prominent officer of the Democratic administration, as having been a Communist who passed papers on to a Soviet spy. The smear was given further momentum by some labor groups close to the Communist side which Nixon had criticized in his California campaign for the United States Senate.

It seems odd to suggest that anyone should be disqualified for high office just because he offended his political opponents, but that was the main basis for a rash of articles and broadcasts from Democratic party sympathizers who decided that the vice presidency should be given "more attention." At first, it was not an out-and-out attack on Nixon, but ostensibly an argument for careful selection of a vice president. It was, however, recognized as a subtle means of discrediting Nixon. The effort suddenly gained renewed attention when the President became ill in September 1955.

From that time on the stories of an anti-Nixon tone, with plenty of innuendos, began to appear—originating mostly from New York. This was traced in part to some influential Ike supporters there who preferred some other candidate—anybody but Nixon. The objections to Nixon usually advanced were vague. First it was contended that he was an "isolationist" and, if he became president, would not be liberal with grants of money in a foreign aid program. This type of gossip was spread throughout Europe, where anti-Nixon comments frequently appeared in some of the newspapers in England, France and Italy.

Qualifications Not Defined

When it was pointed out by defenders of Nixon that he had carried the ball for the administration on Capitol Hill in trying to get both the domestic and foreign policies of the President adopted, then the attack was switched to another direction. It was asserted, for instance, that "Nixon simply doesn't have the qualifications." This very criticism was voiced repeatedly and given wide currency by certain big newspapers in this country which themselves had been constantly critical of the government's drive against Communists in federal employ. Nobody ever pointed out clearly what was meant by "qualifications."

The whispering campaign continued to spread throughout the country and abroad. People in Washington who knew Nixon well in the House and the Senate were astounded. The President himself was bewildered at this form of political warfare. He knew Nixon intimately. He sent him around the world on important trips. He entrusted him with missions of importance every day—in fact, no vice president has been admitted to the high councils of an administration as much as has the present vice president.

It became a bigger and bigger mystery as to what was giving such continuous momentum to the campaign of whispering slander.

Then, when the President had to undergo a stomach operation in June and the question of the vice presidency received renewed attention, Mr. Eisenhower was subsequently drawn into the matter through sharp questioning at his press conferences. He didn't want, of course, to be placed in the position of dictating the choice of a national convention. So he confined his remarks to a statement that Nixon would be "acceptable" to him. This promoted rumors of another list of vice preidential possibilities that Mr. Eisenhower was supposed to be preparing.

Then Harold Stassen came into the picture. Being ambitious himself and a man with an itch for publicity in politics, he came forth with some so-called "polls." Naturally, after the whispering campaign, there were voters who had been led to believe there was something wrong with Dick Nixon and that his nomination would prove a handicap to the ticket. A lie repeated often enough is believed by many who hear only one side. Hitler capitalized on that technique.

Dick No Handicap

Nobody has ever been able to demonstrate to the Republican leaders that Nixon would be a "handicap." In fact, he disproves it on the stump and captivates big audiences. And nobody has yet been able to find a single sentence which Nixon ever uttered saying that the Democrats were "a party of treason." What can be found is a speech at Milwaukee by Dwight Eisenhower in the 1952 campaign in which he mentioned "treason" three times in describing some Communist infiltration into the Truman regime. But the Democrats haven't had the temerity to attack Eisenhower on that point. So they tried to reach in behind him and attack Nixon. The President, however, saw through all this and remained loyal to the vice president.

Small wonder that, on arriving here, the President emphatically told a press conference that Nixon had done "an extraordinary job" and is "as good a man as you can get." The vast majority of the delegates to the Republican convention had already concluded: "If he's good enough for Ike, he's good enough for us."

The smear didn't succeed.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

When I was here for the 1920 political solstices San Francisco was Democratic. Thirty-six years and many investigations later it's Republican to the last drop.

It made the change gradually postoffice by postoffice.

Back in 1920 the Democritters were setting as pretty as nutmeg on egg-nog. Woodrow Wilson was prexola and Josephus Daniels secretary of the Navy. The Pacific fleet was holding a riveted regatta in the bay. There were rumors it would fire on the city in case of a deadlock.

Daniels had dried the Navy up and the lads were thirstier than a flat-backed camel. My old pal Surgeon Kaveney asked Runyon and me to smuggle some contraband of monotony out to the flagboat.

I was piped aboard with whispers and the first bird I bumped into was Daniels. Every time we shook hands the bottle under my left arm joined in the conversation. Joe's aide came down to the wardroom later to help kill the quart.

He was as handsome a duke as I ever gandered on sea or wharf. Illness had not yet struck Franklin Roosevelt. That was one time I was bootlegger for the four-stripers. They all joined me in a song I wrote for the duration of the quart, "I'm dancing with tears in my eyes because the girl on my arm is tattooed."

It's okay to tell the tale 36 years later. Today the ammunitions hoists have elbows again.

All those companions are gone with the fleet. All memories have iron bays.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith As Vice President Discussed Behind Scenes

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The Democrats at Chicago seriously considered putting a Catholic on their ticket for vice president. The Republicans at San Francisco considered —less seriously—the idea of nominating a woman.

The question came up in a closed door argument of Maine delegates over nominating the only lady who has ever been elected to the Senate twice in the history of the U. S. A. Paradoxically, it was ex-Senator Owen Brewster of Maine, who once frowned on Sen. Margaret Chase Smith for re-election, who this time rallied to her defense. Senator Smith, in turn, had once been quite chilly to Brewster's re-election. But at San Francisco, Brewster was Sir Lancelot in defense of the lady.

The closed door argument began when Peter Garland, young delegate from Saco, Me., moved to table the proposal to nominate Senator Smith.

"Why do you make a motion like that?" asked Brewster. "You realize that Maine faces a hard election fight next month and Mrs. Smith is in Maine working her head off right now for the Republicans. Nothing could help her more right now than to have her name before the convention."

Garland had no adequate reply.

"Do you want to prevent Mrs. Smith's name from being placed in nomination?" Brewster pressed.

"What are you picking on him for?" interrupted Fred Schribner, another Maine delegate who is counsel to Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

"I'm not picking on him," countered Brewster. "He's made a motion against a valiant lady, and we're entitled to discuss the motion. We're entitled to know the reasons for his motion. After all, this is counter to the resolution passed by our state central committee that Mrs. Smith's name should be placed in nomination."

After further argument it was agreed that Senator Smith's name would be placed in nomination "if feasible." However, John Weston, the Fryeburg horse and cattle dealer, was picked to make the nominating speech, instead of Brewster.

Women's Hope

It hasn't made headlines, but thousands of women all over the U. S. A. have been intensely interested in moves to name or block a woman as vice president.

At the Chicago GOP Convention in 1952 when the vice presidency at first was wide open, Senator Smith had 250 pledged delegates, when suddenly Governor Dewey sent word by Mary Donlan, now on the Court of Claims, that Mrs. Smith's name could not be placed in nomination.

He feared that many Taft delegates, then bitterly opposed to Eisenhower, would vote for Senator Smith in revenge for Taft's defeat, thus prevent Nixon from winning on the first ballot.

As a result, Clare Boothe Luce rose on the convention floor and without consulting Mrs. Smith said that Senator Smith had asked that her name not be placed before the convention. This brought a storm of protest from women, especially Judge Sarah Hughes, president of the Business and Professional Women.

"The Republicans," said Judge Hughes, "wouldn't even let the name of Margaret Chase Smith be placed in nomination while the Democrats placed two in nomination (Mrs. India Edwards and Judge Hughes)."

Later, GOP grand dame Bertha Adkins asked Senator Smith to repudiate Judge Hughes. Mrs. Smith refused.

So, regardless of 1952 and 1956 conventions, the two major parties sooner or later will have to consider seriously the nomination of a lady vice president.

California's Favorites

The friction between California's blunt, outspoken Governor "Goody" Knight and California's smooth and smiling Dick Nixon got plenty of headlines, but some of the wrangling with California's Senator Bill Knowland was behind closed doors.

Knowland's switch from Knight to Nixon is one of the most amazing in a political merry-go-round where almost any miracle is possible. Most people have forgotten it, but just two years ago this summer Knowland dropped important duties in the Senate, including the pending censure of Joe McCarthy, to fly to Sacramento. Reason for the sudden flight was to stop Nixon from securing control of the California GOP organization.

Nixon wanted to get his man, Ray Arbuthnot, elected as state GOP chairman. Knowland and Knight wanted their man, Howard Almanson, to be state chairman. Knowland threw his weight behind Governor Knight and against Nixon. He and Knight won.

But in San Francisco this week, how different!

"You either take Nixon as the candidate," threatened Senator Knowland in one stormy closed deer session, "or you get out as chairman of the California delegation."

"That's putting a pistol to my head and I don't do business that way," shot back the governor of California.

Then he countered: "All right, I'll get out as chairman, and simultaneously 23 delegates from the State of California will tell the world exactly how they feel about Nixon."

Such publicity was the last thing Knowland wanted. He didn't force the issue. But all during the convention the feud flamed between Nixon and Knowland on one side, and the one important state governor who dared come out flat-footed and say he was against the party bosses' choice for vice president.

GOP Merry-Go-Round

Convention Presiding Officer Joe Martin should now have the biggest individual collection of gavels in the country. This is the fifth time Martin has presided over a convention. Each time, Vermont admirers have sent him a batch of gavels. In addition, Martin is the proud owner of the world's biggest gavel, a gift of California Republicans and carved out of a redwood tree that was a sapling at the start of the Christian era. Joe didn't bring this one to San Francisco. It weighs 60 pounds. . . . Secretary Dulles was most unhappy at being absent from San Francisco. He was planning to be a star performer in writing a foreign policy plank for the GOP platform which would tell of his many so-called diplomatic victories.

Sewed-Up Convention

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

SAN FRANCISCO

The endless babble about an "open convention" here in San Francisco simply proves that American politicians are just about the most superstitious people on earth. There is a superstition in favor of open conventions, so they go on talking about an open convention. But this has been a sewed-up convention — just about as completely sewed-up as a convention can be.

Furthermore, this could never have been an open convention, because there were only two ways to open it up, and neither was feasible. The President was not willing to open it up by sponsoring a movement to get another vice president. And no other serious Republican contender was willing to open it up, by coming forward as an active candidate and seeking nationwide support for his candidacy.

This leaves only one question unanswered. Why did the President himself, a deeply sincere man, go on talking about an open convention and even making gestures to suggest that the convention really was open?

Two-Part Answer

The answer, clearly, comes in two parts. Eisenhower was not at first fully aware how far key people in his entourage were taking advantage of his own passivity, in order to sew up the convention for Dick Nixon. And when he was finally confronted by the accomplished fact of a sewed-up convention, he was just superstitious enough to go on with the elaborate pretense of encouraging a convention open to all contenders.

The crucial stage of the sewing-up process occurred in the period between the President's decision to run again despite his heart attack and the President's emergence from his ileitis attack. The man who carried the ball in public was Republican National Chairman Len Hall, who kept saying that "it was still going to be Dick Nixon."

The efforts of Hall, the attitude of such leaders as Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the ex-Taftites' liking for Nixon, all combined to create what might be called a Republican consensus. In this period, no pledges were asked or given. But by the time of the President's operation for ileitis, when Hall declared that "it was still going to be Dick Nixon," he was stating a practical fact.

Stassen Started Blitz

This stage was ended by the sudden intervention of Harold Stassen. Stassen was sinking into political oblivion. His action seems to have been as purely instinctive and un-thought-out as the last desperate wallowings of a moose just before the quicksand sucks it down. At any rate, the principal effect of Stassen's intervention was to produce a blitz campaign to round up delegate pledges for Nixon. Stassen's call for support for Gov. Christian Herter was taken as liberating Nixon from the self-denying ordinance, by which he had previously refrained from seeking delegate pledges.

Former Gov. Dewey, Sen. Andrew Schoeppel of Kansas, Rep. Richard Simpson, other Nixon supporters and Nixon himself got on the telephone to sew up the votes. Before very many days had passed, they had solid pledges from a very great majority of the future Republican delegates. After that the convention was sewed-up in form as well as in fact.

Even so, partly because of the impression left by the exciting Democratic vice presidential race, President Eisenhower was still anxious to preserve the open convention fiction. To this end, he actually requested his chief of staff, Sherman Adams, his close friend, Gen. Lucius Clay, and one or two others, to do something about it here in San Francisco. These men in turn briefly tried to encourage Gov. Langlie of Washington, Gov. Thornton of Colorado and one or two more to come forward as vice presidential candidates.

Invited Contenders Declined

But this was just for the look of the thing. There was no intention of stopping Nixon, if only because it was already well known that Nixon had a solid majority in his pocket. But for exactly the same reason, the curious attempt to maintain the pretense of open-ness was doomed to early failure. No other candidate could muster even the minimum number of delegates that would seem respectable. To avoid ridicule, the invited contenders all declined.

"Homemade" Convulsions For Specific Purposes

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many medical textbooks are too dry and scientific for the layman but Clinical Studies in Neurology, by Dr. Harry Lee Parker, now of the Mayo Clinic, is an exception. Each chapter is a lecture in a series he gave to the medical students in Trinity College, Dublin. They begin with a short description of what this neurologist saw or thought he saw on his way to class.

One morning, Dr. Parker passed the famous Davy Byrnes Tavern in Anne Street and was reminded of a character called Soapy Mouth Burke. He chew soap until his mouth emitted a good froth. Then he would fall on the street corner nearest Davy's place of refreshment and convulse in a genuinely scientific manner.

As soon as the sympathetic crowd gathered he came out of his seizure long enough to gasp, "Surgeon McCarthy told me many a time that if I had one of them fits in the street, I was to be brought directly to Mr. Byrnes' public house and made to take three glasses of raw brandy"

In the midst of the spell his face and shoulders started itching and he took time out to scratch. This was the giveaway because a person is unconscious during a bona fide convulsion.

Meanwhile the prisoners and guards gathered and it was obvious I was supposed to do something. With my fingers crossed I said to the guards: "Put him in a cold shower to revive and clean him."

Our skid row friend suddenly stopped his shenanigans, stood up, and mumbled, "You win, doc." All he wanted was a soft bed in the infirmary rather than a hard bunk in the prison cell.

We Like Ike In '56 And Dick Nixon Too

As most Americans undoubtedly fervently hoped and expected, Dwight D. Eisenhower has been nominated by the Republican party again to be its standard-bearer in the presidential election this November against the same Democratic aspirant he so soundly trounced four years ago.

We sincerely hope and believe that Ike will be re-elected to his second term as President of the United States so that the American people can be assured of the continued progress of this country along the moderate lines that his administration has followed in the past four years.

The policies of the Eisenhower administration have brought to America a state of peace and prosperity about which there can be no argument. There is prosperity; there is no war, which is more than the Democrats can claim for their past administrations.

President Eisenhower has not believed in or practiced extreme policies. He has been tough when it has been necessary to be tough, but generally he has followed the road of moderation and tact that has kept honorable peace in the world, although from time to time it has seemed that only a spark was necessary to set off the tinder box of war. Ike's guidance has put out that spark.

On another phase of the election, we are inclined to agree with George Sokolsky, a Cumberland News columnist, that the vice presidency is no more important today than it has been in the past. All men are mortal and the vice presidency always has been an important office, but the vigor and leadership brought to it during the Eisenhower administration by Vice President Nixon has served to emphasize the value of this position.

There is nothing wrong with Dick Nixon, although the Democrats would have us believe there is. Nixon has been an integral part of the Eisenhower administration and has performed many services at the behest of or with the knowledge and concurrence of President Eisenhower.

Ike and Dick in '56 will make as strong a ticket, with a record behind them this time, as did Ike and Dick in '52.

Two years ago, during the congressional elections of 1954, Democratic politicians espoused their party's cause with the claims that their congressional nominees would forget party lines and support the Eisenhower program. The Democrats that year won control of both the House and the Senate but no sooner had they been seated than they began their opposition to the Eisenhower program. Actions speak louder than words. That in itself should be enough to cause the American voters to give Ike a Republican Congress this time. For that reason, among others, Senator John Marshall Butler and Representative DeWitt S. Hyde should be returned to Congress. Ike needs a working majority of Republicans.

Herewith, The Cumberland News heartily and sincerely endorses Dwight D. Eisenhower and Richard Nixon for president and vice president, respectively, John Marshall Butler for the United States Senate and DeWitt S. Hyde for Congress from the Sixth District of Maryland.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Machiavellians

Every quadrennial political convention produces its share of Machiavellians, master-minds who manipulate delegations and leaders and the chemistry of democracy that is euphemistically called public opinion. Often the Machiavellians live only during one convention and are never heard of again. Sometimes, they are of sterner quality and longer life.

For instance, Colonel George Harvey, who managed the smoke-filled room that made Warren Harding the Republican candidate for President, was a distinguished editor and publisher; Colonel Edward House, who devoted himself to the career of Woodrow Wilson, was an obscure Texan until the world went to war, whereupon House became an international celebrity and a mastermind of American policy.

In the recent Democratic Convention, Senator Lyndon Johnson, it was expected, would produce a marvelous compromise between Stevenson and Harriman, but Lyndon Johnson did not produce anything, not even a successful candidate for the vice presidency. George Backer and Judge Sam Rosenman were the manipulators of the Harriman effort and it is astonishing that Judge Rosenman did not succeed, what with his wealth of White House experience, but the fact is that he did not.

In the Republican Convention, the Machiavellians' real effort was to dump Vice President Nixon. In this, the Machiavellian is not Harold Stassen who does not possess that type of mind, being somewhat more simple. Originally the design for dumping Nixon came from outside the Republican party and the White House; it came from the ADA, the Americans for Democratic Action, which is managed by Joseph Rauh of Cincinnati and Professor Arthur Schlesinger Jr. of Harvard. Joining them in the original thinking was the Committee for an Effective Congress which is not part of the Republican apparatus although it was employed by some Republicans to destroy the effectiveness of Senator Joe McCarthy. They did not succeed but claim success; it was the voters who in 1954 elected a Democratic Senate and left Joe without a committee chairmanship which made him less effective.

Some folks in the White House, when they recognized the character of the dump Nixon campaign, thought that it was good because it might have produced Sherman Adams as vice president. The governor of California, Goodwin Knight, thought the campaign not bad at all because he is possessed of a public ambition to be vice president. Harold Stassen grabbed the ball and tried to run with it, avoiding to tell the public that he wanted the vice presidency for himself but claiming it for Christian Herter who promptly removed himself from the picture. Governor Theodore McKeldin of Maryland was willing.

This was not a movement against Nixon at all. The Machiavellians believe that they can utilize certain dissenting factors in the Republican party to split the party and thus defeat it. No one can object to the Democrats, the ADA or the Committee for an Effective Congress employing such tactics; it is part of the game of politics, war and love. They might be called diversionary tactics. One is astonished that any Republicans fall for them, particularly as these are the tactics that resulted in Republican defeats again and again and again.

"Ah-h-h-h!—What A View!"

Attempt At Smear Against Nixon Didn't Succeed

By David Lawrence

SAN FRANCISCO—This convention has presented the climax to a big story that has been unfolding for many months. The story now can be entitled: "The smear that didn't succeed."

Never in the history of American politics has anything so insidious been attempted—a palpable effort to ruin the personal and political reputation of Richard Nixon by a whispering campaign about his lack of integrity that had not the slightest foundation in fact.

The renomination of Vice President Nixon is not merely a triumph for the man but for the common sense of the Republican party's leadership, which refused to disqualify a man just because he had been a vigorous campaigner and had aroused the ire of the opposite party.

Whispering Campaign

Long before President Eisenhower suffered a heart attack, the whispering campaign against Nixon was under way. In fact, it was initiated about 18 months ago by certain extremist groups which resented bitterly his exposure in 1949 of Alger Hiss, a prominent officer of the Democratic administration, as having been a Communist who passed papers on to a Soviet spy. The smear was given further momentum by some labor groups close to the Communist side which Nixon had criticized in his California campaign for the United States Senate.

It seems odd to suggest that anyone should be disqualified for high office just because he offended his political opponents, but that was the main basis for a rash of articles and broadcasts from Democratic party sympathizers who decided that the vice presidency should be given "more attention." At first, it was not an out-and-out attack on Nixon, but ostensibly an argument for careful selection of a vice president. It was, however, recognized as a subtle means of discrediting Nixon. The effort suddenly gained renewed attention when the President became ill in September 1955.

From that time on the stories of an anti-Nixon tone, with plenty of innuendos, began to appear—originating mostly from New York. This was traced in part to some influential Ike supporters there who preferred some other candidate—anybody but Nixon. The objections to Nixon usually advanced were vague. First it was contended that he was an "isolationist" and, if he became president, would not be liberal with grants of money in a foreign aid program. This type of gossip was spread throughout Europe, where anti-Nixon comments frequently appeared in some of the newspapers in England, France and Italy.

Qualifications Not Defined

When it was pointed out by defenders of Nixon that he had carried the ball for the administration on Capitol Hill in trying to get both the domestic and foreign policies of the President adopted, then the attack was switched to another direction. It was asserted, for instance, that "Nixon simply doesn't have the qualifications." This very criticism was voiced repeatedly and given wide currency by certain big newspapers in this country which themselves had been constantly critical of the government's drive against Communists in federal employ. Nobody ever pointed out clearly what was meant by "qualifications."

The whispering campaign continued to spread throughout the country and abroad. People in Washington who knew Nixon well in the House and the Senate were astounded. The President himself was bewildered at this form of political warfare. He knew Nixon intimately. He sent him around the world on important trips. He entrusted him with missions of importance every day—in fact, no vice president has been admitted to the high councils of an administration as much as has the present vice president.

It became a bigger and bigger mystery as to what was giving such continuous momentum to the campaign of whispering slander.

Then, when the President had to undergo a stomach operation in June and the question of the vice presidency received renewed attention, Mr. Eisenhower was subsequently drawn into the matter through sharp questioning at his press conferences. He didn't want, of course, to be placed in the position of dictating the choice of a national convention. So he confined his remarks to a statement that Nixon would be "acceptable" to him. This promoted rumors of another list of vice preidential possibilities that Mr. Eisenhower was supposed to be preparing.

Then Harold Stassen came into the picture. Being ambitious himself and a man with an itch for publicity in politics, he came forth with some so-called "polls." Naturally, after the whispering campaign, there were voters who had been led to believe there was something wrong with Dick Nixon and that his nomination would prove a handicap to the ticket. A lie repeated often enough is believed by many who hear only one side. Hitler capitalized on that technique.

Dick No Handicap

Nobody has ever been able to demonstrate to the Republican leaders that Nixon would be a "handicap." In fact, he disproves it on the stump and captivates big audiences. And nobody has yet been able to find a single sentence which Nixon ever uttered saying that the Democrats were "a party of treason." What can be found is a speech at Milwaukee by Dwight Eisenhower in the 1952 campaign in which he mentioned "treason" three times in describing some Communist infiltration into the Truman regime. But the Democrats haven't had the temerity to attack Eisenhower on that point. So they tried to reach in behind him and attack Nixon. The President, however, saw through all this and remained loyal to the vice president.

Small wonder that, on arriving here, the President emphatically told a press conference that Nixon had done "an extraordinary job" and is "as good a man as you can get." The vast majority of the delegates to the Republican convention had already concluded: "If he's good enough for Ike, he's good enough for us."

The smear didn't succeed.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

When I was here for the 1920 political solstices San Francisco was Democratic. Thirty-six years and many investigations later it's Republican to the last drop.

It made the change gradually postoffice by postoffice.

Back in 1920 the Democritters were setting as pretty as nutmeg on egg-nog. Woodrow Wilson was prexola and Josephus Daniels secretary of the Navy. The Pacific fleet was holding a riveted regatta in the bay. There were rumors it would fire on the city in case of a deadlock.

Daniels had dried the Navy up and the lads were thirstier than a flat-backed camel. My old pal Surgeon Kaveney asked Runyon and me to smuggle some contraband of monotony out to the flagboat.

I was piped aboard with whispers and the first bird I bumped into was Daniels. Every time we shook hands the bottle under my left arm joined in the conversation. Joe's aide came down to the wardroom later to help kill the quart.

He was as handsome a duke as I ever gandered on sea or wharf. Illness had not yet struck Franklin Roosevelt. That was one time I was bootlegger for the four-stripers. They all joined me in a song I wrote for the duration of the quart, "I'm dancing with tears in my eyes because the girl on my arm is tattooed."

It's okay to tell the tale 36 years later. Today the ammunitions hoists have elbows again.

All those companions are gone with the ffeet. All memories have iron bays.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith As Vice President Discussed Behind Scenes

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The Democrats at Chicago seriously considered putting a Catholic on their ticket for vice president. The Republicans at San Francisco considered —less seriously—the idea of nominating a woman.

The question came up in a closed door argument of Maine delegates over nominating the only lady who has ever been elected to the Senate twice in the history of the U. S. A. Paradoxically, it was ex-Senator Owen Brewster of Maine, who once frowned on Sen. Margaret Chase Smith for re-election, who this time rallied to her defense. Senator Smith, in turn, had once been quite chilly to Brewster's re-election. But at San Francisco, Brewster was Sir Lancelot in defense of the lady.

The closed door argument began when Peter Garland, young delegate from Saco, Me., moved to table the proposal to nominate Senator Smith.

"Why do you make a motion like that?" asked Brewster. "You realize that Maine faces a hard election fight next month and Mrs. Smith is in Maine working her head off right now for the Republicans. Nothing could help her more right now than to have her name before the convention."

Garland had no adequate reply.

"Do you want to prevent Mrs. Smith's name from being placed in nomination?" Brewster pressed.

"What are you picking on him for?" interrupted Fred Schribner, another Maine delegate who is counsel to Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

"I'm not picking on him," countered Brewster. "He's made a motion against a valiant lady, and we're entitled to discuss the motion. We're entitled to know the reasons for his motion. After all, this is counter to the resolution passed by our state central committee that Mrs. Smith's name should be placed in nomination."

After further argument it was agreed that Senator Smith's name would be placed in nomination "if feasible." However, John Weston, the Fryeburg horse and cattle dealer, was picked to make the nominating speech, instead of Brewster.

Women's Hope

It hasn't made headlines, but thousands of women all over the U. S. A. have been intensely interested in moves to name or block a woman as vice president.

At the Chicago GOP Convention in 1952 when the vice presidency at first was wide open, Senator Smith had 250 pledged delegates, when suddenly Governor Dewey sent word by Mary Donlan, now on the Court of Claims, that Mrs. Smith's name could not be placed in nomination.

He feared that many Taft delegates, then bitterly opposed to Eisenhower, would vote for Senator Smith in revenge for Taft's defeat, thus prevent Nixon from winning on the first ballot.

As a result, Clare Boothe Luce rose on the convention floor and without consulting Mrs. Smith said that Senator Smith had asked that her name not be placed before the convention. This brought a storm of protest from women, especially Judge Sarah Hughes, president of the Business and Professional Women.

"The Republicans," said Judge Hughes, "wouldn't even let the name of Margaret Chase Smith be placed in nomination while the Democrats placed two in nomination (Mrs. India Edwards and Judge Hughes)."

Later, GOP grand dame Bertha Adkins asked Senator Smith to repudiate Judge Hughes. Mrs. Smith refused.

So, regardless of 1952 and 1956 conventions, the two major parties sooner or later will have to consider seriously the nomination of a lady vice president.

California's Favorites

The friction between California's blunt, outspoken Governor "Goody" Knight and California's smooth and smiling Dick Nixon got plenty of headlines, but some of the wrangling with California's Senator Bill Knowland was behind closed doors.

Knowland's switch from Knight to Nixon is one of the most amazing in a political merry-go-round where almost any miracle is possible. Most people have forgotten it, but just two years ago this summer Knowland dropped important duties in the Senate, including the pending censure of Joe McCarthy, to fly to Sacramento. Reason for the sudden flight was to stop Nixon from securing control of the California GOP organization.

Nixon wanted to get his man, Ray Arbuthnot, elected as state GOP chairman. Knowland and Knight wanted their man, Howard Almanson, to be state chairman. Knowland threw his weight behind Governor Knight and against Nixon. He and Knight won.

But in San Francisco this week, how different!

"You either take Nixon as the candidate," threatened Senator Knowland in one stormy closed deer session, "or you get out as chairman of the California delegation."

"That's putting a pistol to my head and I don't do business that way," shot back the governor of California.

Then he countered: "All right, I'll get out as chairman, and simultaneously 23 delegates from the State of California will tell the world exactly how they feel about Nixon."

Such publicity was the last thing Knowland wanted. He didn't force the issue. But all during the convention the feud flamed between Nixon and Knowland on one side, and the one important state governor who dared come out flat-footed and say he was against the party bosses' choice for vice president.

GOP Merry-Go-Round

Convention Presiding Officer Joe Martin should now have the biggest individual collection of gavels in the country. This is the fifth time Martin has presided over a convention. Each time, Vermont admirers have sent him a batch of gavels. In addition, Martin is the proud owner of the world's biggest gavel, a gift of California Republicans and carved out of a redwood tree that was a sapling at the start of the Christian era. Joe didn't bring this one to San Francisco. It weighs 60 pounds. . . . Secretary Dulles was most unhappy at being absent from San Francisco. He was planning to be a star performer in writing a foreign policy plank for the GOP platform which would tell of his many so-called diplomatic victories.

Sewed-Up Convention

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

SAN FRANCISCO

The endless babble about an "open convention" here in San Francisco simply proves that American politicians are just about the most superstitious people on earth. There is a superstition in favor of open conventions, so they go on talking about an open convention. But this has been a sewed-up convention — just about as completely sewed-up as a convention can be.

Furthermore, this could never have been an open convention, because there were only two ways to open it up, and neither was feasible. The President was not willing to open it up by sponsoring a movement to get another vice president. And no other serious Republican contender was willing to open it up, by coming forward as an active candidate and seeking nationwide support for his candidacy.

This leaves only one question unanswered. Why did the President himself, a deeply sincere man, go on talking about an open convention and even making gestures to suggest that the convention really was open?

Two-Part Answer

The answer, clearly, comes in two parts. Eisenhower was not at first fully aware how far key people in his entourage were taking advantage of his own passivity, in order to sew up the convention for Dick Nixon. And when he was finally confronted by the accomplished fact of a sewed-up convention, he was just superstitious enough to go on with the elaborate pretense of encouraging a convention open to all contenders.

The crucial stage of the sewing-up process occurred in the period between the President's decision to run again despite his heart attack and the President's emergence from his ileitis attack. The man who carried the ball in public was Republican National Chairman Len Hall, who kept saying that "it was still going to be Dick Nixon."

The efforts of Hall, the attitude of such leaders as Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the ex-Taftites' liking for Nixon, all combined to create what might be called a Republican consensus. In this period, no pledges were asked or given. But by the time of the President's operation for ileitis, when Hall declared that "it was still going to be Dick Nixon," he was stating a practical fact.

Stassen Started Blitz

This stage was ended by the sudden intervention of Harold Stassen. Stassen was sinking into political oblivion. His action seems to have been as purely instinctive and un-thought-out as the last desperate wallowings of a moose just before the quicksand sucks it down. At any rate, the principal effect of Stassen's intervention was to produce a blitz campaign to round up delegate pledges for Nixon. Stassen's call for support for Gov. Christian Herter was taken as liberating Nixon from the self-denying ordinance, by which he had previously refrained from seeking delegate pledges.

Former Gov. Dewey, Sen. Andrew Schoeppel of Kansas, Rep. Richard Simpson, other Nixon supporters and Nixon himself got on the telephone to sew up the votes. Before very many days had passed, they had solid pledges from a very great majority of the future Republican delegates. After that the convention was sewed-up in form as well as in fact.

Even so, partly because of the impression left by the exciting Democratic vice presidential race, President Eisenhower was still anxious to preserve the open convention fiction. To this end, he actually requested his chief of staff, Sherman Adams, his close friend, Gen. Lucius Clay, and one or two others, to do something about it here in San Francisco. These men in turn briefly tried to encourage Gov. Langlie of Washington, Gov. Thornton of Colorado and one or two more to come forward as vice presidential candidates.

Invited Contenders Declined

But this was just for the look of the thing. There was no intention of stopping Nixon, if only because it was already well known that Nixon had a solid majority in his pocket. But for exactly the same reason, the curious attempt to maintain the pretense of open-ness was doomed to early failure. No other candidate could muster even the minimum number of delegates that would seem respectable. To avoid ridicule, the invited contenders all declined.

"Homemade" Convulsions For Specific Purposes

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many medical textbooks are too dry and scientific for the layman but Clinical Studies in Neurology, by Dr. Harry Lee Parker, now of the Mayo Clinic, is an exception. Each chapter is a lecture in a series he gave to the medical students in Trinity College, Dublin. They begin with a short description of what this neurologist saw or thought he saw on his way to class.

One morning, Dr. Parker passed the famous Davy Byrnes Tavern in Anne Street and was reminded of a character called Soapy Mouth Burke. He chew soap until his mouth emitted a good froth. Then he would fall on the street corner nearest Davy's place of refreshment and convulse in a genuinely scientific manner.

As soon as the sympathetic crowd gathered he came out of his seizure long enough to gasp, "Surgeon McCarthy told me many a time that if I had one of them fits in the street, I was to be brought directly to Mr. Byrnes' public house and made to take three glasses of raw brandy"

The story brought to mind an incident that occurred when I was a senior medical student and had an externship at the Bridewell jail in Chicago. I was called to the admitting room of the infirmary where an old derelict was having a first class convulsion on the floor.

You're Telling Me!

One consolation those tailender Giants and Athletics have is that they don't need to worry about being the "goats" of this year's World Series.

Chief trouble with Indian summer, comments Grandpappy Jenkins (who's probably trying to take his mind off the August heat), is that it seems to be named after those "blanket" Indians.

Grillwiches are the answer when a hearty meal is called for—pronto! All based on a spread of canned spaghetti sauce with meat, grillwiches can be topped with bacon, onion, cheese, meat leftovers or whatever. They're teriff!

Grillwiches Go Fast--Easy

Long hours of summer fun. Then suddenly it's mealtime, big appetites and no food ready! Save the day with GRILLWICHES!

Made with canned spaghetti sauce with meat, these hot sandwiches hit a new high. Spoon the sauce (right from the can) onto bread or rolls. Top sauce with onion rings, shredded cheese, frizzled bacon or ham strips or whathave-you. Then grill a few minutes under the broiler; and voila!—a bubbling delicious main course.

With GRILLWICHES, serve watercress and garden lettuce salad, a vinegar and oil dressing. Tall glasses of iced tea or coffee and chilled melon wedges make a perfect finale.

Spaghetti Sauce Grillwiches

8 slices white bread
1 can (1¼ cups) spaghetti sauce with meat
8 thin onion slices or ½ cup shredded mild process cheese or 8 slices bacon, cut in half, partially cooked

Toast one side of 8 slices of bread under the broiler. Make open-face sandwiches by placing a couple spoonfuls of sauce and one onion slice on each slice of bread. Broil about 3 inches from heating element until hot and bubbly. 8 sandwiches.

Spaghetti Sauce On Rolls

¼ pound boiled ham, cut in strips
1 can (1¼ cups) spaghetti sauce with meat
8 hamburger rolls, split in half

Place ham strips on half of roll; broil until ham begins to frizzle. Top with a couple spoonfuls of sauce; broil 3 inches from heating element until hot and bubbly. Makes 8 servings.

AUTHENTIC — HOT GERMAN RICE SALAD

This is an authentic version of an old favorite German salad. After strips of bacon are fried crisp, sugar and vinegar are stirred into the bacon fat. This sauce is slightly thickened. Then pimientos, onion, green pepper, celery and celery seed are added. This sauce mixture is poured over the hot rice. The crumbled bacon and chopped hard-cooked eggs are stirred into the hot rice mixture.

INGREDIENTS:
3 cups water
1½ cups uncooked white rice
1½ teaspoons salt
8 strips bacon
¾ to 1 cup beet or cane sugar
1 cup apple cider vinegar
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
3 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon celery seed
3 tablespoons finely chopped raw onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup diced celery
¼ cup chopped pimientos
3 hard-cooked eggs, coarsely diced (make several slices to use for garnish, if desired)

METHOD: Put the water, rice and salt in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover with a lid and leave over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove the saucepan from the heat but leave the lid on 10 minutes.

While the rice cooks, fry the bacon until crisp. Pour off and save the fat as it cooks out of the bacon. Remove the bacon. Measure 1/3 cup of the fat back into the skillet. If necessary, fry more bacon to make the 1/3 cup fat. Stir ¾ cup of the sugar, the vinegar and black pepper into the hot bacon fat. Cook slowly until the sugar dissolves. Slowly stir the 3 tablespoons water into the flour to make a smooth paste. Stir some of the hot mixture into the flour mixture. Slowly stir the flour and water mixture back into the hot sugar-vinegar mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until the mixture thickens. Stir in the celery seed, onion, green pepper, celery and pimientos. Taste and add the other ¼ cup sugar, if desired.

After the rice cooks, gently stir the green pepper-pimiento mixture through the hot rice. Crumble the bacon and gently stir it into the rice mixture. If desired, save some of the bacon to crumble over the top. Gently stir in the hard-cooked eggs. Garnish with the egg slices.

Serve the salad hot or at least warm. This recipe makes 8 to 10 servings.

Grillwiches are the answer when a hearty meal is called for—pronto! All based on a spread of canned spaghetti sauce with meat, grillwiches can be topped with bacon, onion, cheese, meat leftovers or whatever. They're teriff!

Grillwiches Go Fast--Easy

Long hours of summer fun. Then suddenly it's mealtime, big appetites and no food ready! Save the day with GRILLWICHES!

Made with canned spaghetti sauce with meat, these hot sandwiches hit a new high. Spoon the sauce (right from the can) onto bread or rolls. Top sauce with onion rings, shredded cheese, frizzled bacon or ham strips or what-have-you. Then grill a few minutes under the broiler; and voila!—a bubbling delicious main course.

With GRILLWICHES, serve watercress and garden lettuce salad, a vinegar and oil dressing. Tall glasses of iced tea or coffee and chilled melon wedges make a perfect finale.

Spaghetti Sauce Grillwiches

8 slices white bread
1 can (1¼ cups) spaghetti sauce with meat
8 thin onion slices or ½ cup shredded mild process cheese or 8 slices bacon, cut in half, partially cooked

Toast one side of 8 slices of bread under the broiler. Make open-face sandwiches by placing a couple spoonfuls of sauce and one onion slice on each slice of bread. Broil about 3 inches from heating element until hot and bubbly. 8 sandwiches.

Spaghetti Sauce On Rolls

¼ pound boiled ham, cut in strips
1 can (1¼ cups) spaghetti sauce with meat
8 hamburger rolls, split in half

Place ham strips on half of roll; broil until ham begins to frizzle. Top with a couple spoonfuls of sauce; broil 3 inches from heating element until hot and bubbly. Makes 8 servings.

AUTHENTIC — HOT GERMAN RICE SALAD

This is an authentic version of an old favorite German salad. After strips of bacon are fried crisp, sugar and vinegar are stirred into the bacon fat. This sauce is slightly thickened. Then pimientos, onion, green pepper, celery and celery seed are added. This sauce mixture is poured over the hot rice. The crumbled bacon and chopped hard-cooked eggs are stirred into the hot rice mixture.

INGREDIENTS:
3 cups water
1½ cups uncooked white rice
1½ teaspoons salt
8 strips bacon
¾ to 1 cup beet or cane sugar
1 cup apple cider vinegar
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
3 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon celery seed
3 tablespoons finely chopped raw onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup diced celery
¼ cup chopped pimientos
3 hard-cooked eggs, coarsely diced (make several slices to use for garnish, if desired)

METHOD: Put the water, rice and salt in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover with a lid and leave over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove the saucepan from the heat but leave the lid on 10 minutes.

While the rice cooks, fry the bacon until crisp. Pour off and save the fat as it cooks out of the bacon. Remove the bacon. Measure 1/3 cup of the fat back into the skillet. If necessary, fry more bacon to make the 1/3 cup fat. Stir ¾ cup of the sugar, the vinegar and black pepper into the hot bacon fat. Cook slowly until the sugar dissolves. Slowly stir the 3 tablespoons water into the flour to make a smooth paste. Stir some of the hot mixture into the flour mixture. Slowly stir the flour and water mixture back into the hot sugar-vinegar mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until the mixture thickens. Stir in the celery seed, onion, green pepper, celery and pimientos. Taste and add the other ¼ cup sugar, if desired.

After the rice cooks, gently stir the green pepper-pimiento mixture through the hot rice. Crumble the bacon and gently stir it into the rice mixture. If desired, save some of the bacon to crumble over the top. Gently stir in the hard-cooked eggs. Garnish with the egg slices.

Serve the salad hot or at least warm. This recipe makes 8 to 10 servings.

Meanwhile, add the 3 tablespoons butter and savory to the hot cooked rice. Serve rice with cooked shrimp. Garnish with parsley. Makes 6 servings.

8 teaspoons instant tea; 1 cup water; 4 (7 oz.) bottles ginger ale.

Put 2 teaspoons instant tea in the bottom of each of 4, (10 oz.) glasses. Add ¼ water to each glass and stir to dissolve tea. Add ice cubes to each glass. Add the contents of a bottle of ginger ale to each glass. Garnish with a sprig of mint. Makes 4 servings.

Congressional Viewpoint

by Sen. John M. Butler

WASHINGTON — Unfortunately, the clatter of political conventions, during this period of August, has made obscure most all else in the way of contemporary affairs. Every four years these gatherings give vent to much political enthusiasm and expression — some constructive, some not. But, the common denominator of both conventions is the promise of solving the problems and ills of the world.

Important among these, in terms of the ceaseless conflict between freedom and communism is the renewed possibility of another attempt to gain admission to the United Nations for Red China. Much significance must be attached to the recognition of Communist China by Egypt, and one can reasonably assume that out of the shadows of the iron curtain, other countries will join in supporting a new drive to obtain a cloak of respectability for this aggressor.

These apprehensions prompted me recently to enquire of my former colleague in the Senate, now United States representative to the United Nations, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., as to whether the United States would use the much-discussed "veto" when, and if, again faced with the issue of Red China's admission. His response to me is not reassuring:

". . . It is unthinkable that a regime that stands convicted of aggression by the United Nations and whose conduct continues to be that of any international bandit and blackmailer should be permitted to sit in the United Nations as the representative of China. During the time that I have been United States representative here, this issue has been raised by the Soviet Union almost 30 times and, on each occasion, the viewpoint of the United States has received overwhelming support. We will not relax our efforts to see that this continues to be the case. Should the situation change, I can assure you, as I have publicly stated, that I would not shrink from using the veto on this question in the (U.N.) Security Council."

The alacrity and frequency with which Russia has used, or misused, this unusual "veto" power, gives Ambassador Lodge's words special and timely meaning. So much so that a representative of Tass, the Russia news agency (for propaganda and espionage) in America, called at my office to obtain the full text of his letter.

Only through a policy of resolute purpose, as indicated by Ambassador Lodge, can this international bandit and Soviet benefactor be foiled.

PRIMER for PARENTS

THE MUSIC TEACHER . . . Choosing a teacher should be a serious business for parents who want children to start loving music.

Papa Loves Steak

Ask most any man what's his favorite dinner choice, and the answer will most always be, "a thick, juicy steak." He may praise your skill at turning out any number of intricate dishes, but somehow steak seems to reign as favorite in Papa's book.

So to pamper Pop on Father's Day, treat him to that big, juicy steak, and with all the trimmings he loves—plenty of fried onions . . potatoes, fluffy mashed or French fried . . a crisp green salad . . . ice cream.

No painful budget-stretching necessary to present this dinner treat to Dad. For even though choice cuts of steak—sirloin, porterhouse, T-bone, club — cost more per pound than other beef cuts, they are still a food bargain. These are days of heavy supplies of beef, with a large proportion of the supplies in the tender and tasty U. S. Choice grade.

Recent studies on the marketing costs and retail prices for beef, made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, prove that beef is a good food buy. Consumer incomes have been higher than ever, but retail prices for beef have declined.

Planked Steak

Broiling a steak is the easiest thing in the world. If you're of a mind to show off your culinary skill, offer the impressively attractive Planked Steak for special occasions. These intsructions are from the American Meat Institute.

Use 1 steak (porterhouse, sirloin, or club) cut 1 to 2 inches thick; 4 large mushroom caps; 4 medium tomatoes; 2 tablespoons grated cheese; 4 slices bacon; 4 medium onions; 2 tablespons butter; mashed potatoes; salt; pepper; paprika.

Place the steak in the center of broiler rack, leaving about three inches between the top of the steak and the heat. When the steak is well browned on one side, season, and turn to complete cooking on the other side. About ten minutes before the steak is done, transfer it to a large hot, oiled wooden plank or heat-proof platter. It takes about 20 minutes to broil a one-inch steak and 35 minutes to broil a two-inch steak.

Arrange around it the mushroom caps, which have been cooked in butter; tomato halves sprinkled with grated cheese and topped with bacon squares; and parboiled onions, dotted with butter. Pipe a border of mashed potatoes around the plank, and return to the broiling oven until the bacon and tomatoes are cooked and potatoes and onions browned.

Serve immediately, garnished with crisp parsley or cress.

CAPE HOOD COAT of turquoise and taupe imported "honeycomb" tweed is from George Carmel's fall and winter collection. The shaped hood can be worn flat on the shoulders as a banded collar. The natural waistline is marked by tweed streamer bows.

Jade is the most popular of precious stones in China, where it is said to possess the virtues of wisdom, justice, charity, courage and modesty.

Fully Prepared Chinese Dishes Aid Meal Plans

The weather may be too hot—the cook in no mood to spend hours in the kitchen—still, summer is the entertaining-est season of all. And the gang that gathers around expects to be fed more than finger foods. True?

You can do one of two things in such situations. Take them to the nearest restaurant. Or lay in a supply of storable, ready-prepared foods that will solve any dinner emergency.

With the variety of ready to heat and eat foods at the homemaker's disposal nowadays, warm weather entertaining is no chore. In many cases you can prepare a wholly satisfactory meal in less than an hour. Even a truly elaborate feast—perhaps based on the currently popular foreign theme—is possible.

Chinese dinners, for example, have acquired a host of devoted fans in the last few years. In answer to this growing interest in Oriental cruisine, several companies now offer a variety of Chinese foods in cans and packages. Such exotic foods as bean sprouts, water chestnuts, chicken chop suey, and chow mein dinners, to mention a few, reguire a minimum of preparation since the intricate slicing and just-so shredding of vegetables and meats employed by the Oriental cook has been done for you. The foods need only be heated and served.

Every item suggested in these American Chinese menus can be found at most neighborhood stores.

Meatless Chow Mein

Recipe For A Perfect Summer's Evening

Mix one big, cool, delectable Chicken Supper Salad. Add a fragrant hot bread and a frosty drink. Season with light conversation. Serve to family and special guests . . . then await the compliments!

A salad supper can be as welcome as a summer shower, if it's substantial enough to be satisfying. And this one is! Mainstay of the salad is canned, boned chicken (or turkey). The delicate flavor of the chicken is combined with chopped hard-cooked eggs, celery, stuffed olives, and mayonnaise. This tantalizing mixture is served, well chilled, in the center of a sparkling ring of lemon or lime gelatin (generously laden with crisp shredded cabbage and sliced olives).

Designed to tempt tired appetites . . . this hale and hearty salad combination will prove a cool taste treat.

Warm weather requires suppers that are refreshingly cool, yet satisfying. Treat yourself to this Chicken Supper Salad, a tantalizing mixture of boned chicken, hard-cooked eggs, celery, olives, and mayonnaise in a ring of lemon gelatin and shredded cabbage.

CHICKEN SUPPER SALAD

- 2 cans (5-ounce each) boned chicken or turkey
- 4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 1½ cups chopped celery
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- ¼ cup chopped stuffed olives or sweet pickles
- Salt and black pepper, if desired

Mix contents of cans of boned chicken with eggs, celery, mayonnaise and olives; season to taste. Chill. Serve in center of ring of gelatin salad on crisp salad greens:

- 2 packages lemon or lime flavored gelatin
- 2 cups finely shredded cabbage
- ½ cup sliced stuffed olives or ripe olives

Prepare gelatin as directed on package; chill until slightly thickened. Fold in remaining ingredients; pour into a 3-quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with mint, watercress, lettuce or endive. Makes 8 delicious servings.

Chicken For Patio Dining

Chicken in some form or other is bound to be included on most everyone's list of favorite foods. The whole family may cast a unanimous vote for fried chicken, crisp and golden . . . or barbecued chicken, tangy and tender.

For the gourmet's taste, offer Gourmet Roast Chicken, suggested by the Poultry and Egg National Board. The two plump chickens make a lovely-looking platter for festive dining on the patio or indoors.

For 8 to 10 servings, use 2 broiler-fryer chickens, 2½ to 3 pounds each, ready-to-cook weight.

The delectable stuffing requires 2 chicken livers; 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; 2 cups cooked rice; 1½ cups drained tomatoes; ½ cup chopped onion; ½ cup chopped green pepper; ½ cup chopped celery; ½ teaspoon ground sage; 1¼ teaspoons salt; ¼ teaspoon ground pepper.

Cook liver in the butter or margarine about 5 minutes. Chop and combine with remaining stuffing ingredients. Loosely stuff both body and wishbone cavities and truss chickens. Place birds, breast up, on rack in shallow open roasting pan. Arrange four bacon strips across each breast.

Combine the following sauce ingredients and pour over chickens: ½ cup melted butter or margarine; juice of 2 lemons; 2 teaspoons salt; ½ teaspoon ground pepper; 2 teaspoons paprika; ½ teaspoon brown sugar; ⅛ teaspoon ground nutmeg; dash Hot Sauce.

Roast in moderate oven (325°F.) for 2 to 2½ hours, basting with the sauce occasionally. When done, drumstick meat should be very soft when pressed between fingers.

Jiffy Salad Dressing

1 cup liquefied instant nonfat dry milk, chilled; 1 tablespoon vinegar, ½ tablespoon aromatic bitters; dash of salt.

Combine all ingredients; shake well. Chill. Serve on cooked vegetables, salad greens, shrimp or lobster.

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Two of hearts.

The doctrine, "Always return your partner's lead," was propounded if not exclusively for the benefit of the blind, then surely for those whose vision is at least slightly impaired. But when one is in full possession of his sense of sight, he is at liberty to depart from all manner of "canned advice." Had East followed the line of least resistance and woodenly returned his partner's lead, South would have romped off with his contract.

The final contract was sound enough. North, having nine points in high cards and a readily established six card suit, felt that he had ample values for partner.

West chose to make the noncommittal lead of the two of hearts. Dummy played low and the queen forced the ace. A low diamond play brought forth the ten, the queen, and the ace. Had East thoughtlessly returned the king and another heart, declarer would have won with the ten and cleared the diamond suit in time to make nine tricks. But East had put on his thinking cap at the opening lead. When declarer played low from dummy and then won with the ace, he marked himself with the ten of hearts, because if he had not held that card it would have been obligatory for him to play the jack from dummy in the hope that the lead had been from the king-queen.

On this line of reasoning, East could count nine tricks for declarer on the assumption that he held both the ace of spades and the ace of clubs. In order to defeat the contract, some spade tricks would have to be cashed before his second diamond stopper was dislodged. He, therefore, shifted to a spade. Declarer took the single finesse and, when it lost to West's king, a heart was continued. East won with the king and drove out the ten of hearts so that the setting trick was cashed with the nine when his diamond trick was yielded to him.

Fruity Sherbets Are Leading Summer Refreshers

Not too many years ago, sherbet, like ice cream, was strictly Sunday fare. It was a joyful, yet time consuming project to turn out a half gallon or so of the luscious frozen dessert in the old, hand cranked days.

Today, of course, making sherbet or ice cream at home is usually a once in a "blue moon" occasion. It's fun but we don't rely on it for the thousands of gallons of sherbet we Americans consume annually. Since dairy companies have taken the work out of our hands these chilly foods—nourishing foods too—have become virtually staple items in many kitchens.

During the warmest days of summer, sherbet is particularly popular. Just as fresh fruits always appeal more in hot weather, icy tart sherbet is especially satisfying and less filling. The variety of flavors is more extensive, too. Orange sherbet continues to lead the popularity parade. But lime, pineapple, lemon, and even raspberry sherbets have their devotees.

Bill Rigney, the New York Nationals manager, was suspended for three days for jostling an umpire. Maybe Bill could consider it a sort of brief vacation since he wouldn't have to undergo such a close view of his Giants, who are way down in last place.

Caesar Salad Is Favorite

Since Mexico's famous chef — Caesar — tossed the first Caesar Salad many years ago it has become a popular favorite in homes North and South of the border and is featured on menus of famous restaurants the world over. It is a tasty treat the year round!

But as fine as the combined ingredients in any salad may be, the final test of truly tempting flavor is in the salad dressing. Fine American and foreign chefs seeking added flavor in salad dressings add one ingredient which can mean the difference between an ordinary tasting or a zestfully flavored salad.

Zesty wine vinegar is the added touch that makes the big difference!

There are endless varieties to the number of ingredients that can be combined in a flavorful Caesar Salad but the delicious and reliable Caesar Salad recipe included in the wine vinegar booklet is as follows:

1 large head iceberg lettuce
1 large head Romaine
¼ cup crumbled Bleu cheese
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
½ cup salad oil
1 tablespoon Worcestershire Sauce
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of fresh ground pepper
1 raw egg
¼ cup garlic wine vinegar
2 cups croutons

Sprinkle prepared greens with cheese. Combine ¼ cup salad oil with Worcestershire Sauce, salt and pepper. Toss lightly with greens until each piece is coated. Break whole egg into greens; sprinkle with garlic wine vinegar; toss until all egg particles disappear. Combine remaining oil and croutons; toss with salad.

Makes 8 servings.

More than 2,000 years ago, the Romans began shipping olive oil to Spain. The Spaniards found it so useful for cooking, food and beauty purposes that they planted their own olive groves and today Spain is the world's largest producer of the oil.

Mid-Summer Refreshment

With vacations in full swing and plenty of warm weather ahead, long cooling drinks are tops in refreshment. On a sultry day your guests will perk up at the sight of a tray of cold drinks and the family will enjoy a thirst-quencher during the hours spent together in relaxation.

It's a good idea to be prepared to offer a choice of drinks—so easy when the refrigerator contains the makings. There's quinine water for those who like a dry, slightly bitter drink, ginger ale and fruit flavors, such as black cherry, orange and grape for those who prefer them. Pre-packaged ice cream should be in the freezing compartment for quick wonderful sodas to be made with any of the bottled carbonated beverages.

Keep a can of applesauce there, too, to be able to whip up this delicious coler in a jiffy, when callers arrive.

Foamy Vermont Cooler

1½ cups applesauce; ½ cup maraschino cherry juice; ½ tablespoon cinnamon; Lemon soda.

Combine applesauce, maraschino cherry juice and cinnamon; mix well. Divide among 4 tall glasses. Fill each glass with ice cold lemon soda. Stir gently to mix.

If you are always interested in other people, you need never be unpopular.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Be A Charmer

Often the most popular girl in a crowd is not pretty at all. Watch her. You will see that she has many friends because she makes others happier when they are with her.

One of the most important lessons a teenager has to learn is to forget herself and think about other people. She thinks before she speaks and she strives to become a good conversationalist. She looks at conversation as a friendly game played by more than one and according to rule. For winning talk, here are a few rules:

1—Avoid all questions that pry into the privacy of others. This is a crudeness that a charming woman shuns.

2—Lend your ear and look directly at the speaker. Being a good listener is half of being a good conversationalist.

3—Stay away from all unpleasant or highly emotional subjects. If any start, change the subject quickly and pleasantly.

4—Respect the opinions of others. Never say, "You are wrong!" . . . however incorrect you may think someone to be. It is always wiser to preface your personal beliefs on the subject with, "There is truth in what you say, but will you allow me to express my thought?" Or, "I could be wrong, but . . . "

5—Try to draw out others present — don't monopolize the conversation with your pet conversational topic. You can accomplish this by thinking about the interests of others.

Tomorrow — Permanent Insurance.

Surprise Elements In Cookies Are Sure To Please

Crisp, crunchy cookies are favorite picnic packers. But do change the flavor once in a while. Here are some cookies which use two of the small-fry's most highly prized munchables — peanut butter and candy bars.

Pinwheel Cookies

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
½ cup cream-style peanut butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
3 candy bars, finely chopped

Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in peanut butter, vanilla, egg and milk. Add sifted dry ingredients, mixing well. Chill dough throughly. Roll out dough on lightly floured surface, in shape of rectangle, about 15 by 8 inches. Sprinkle candy over dough; roll surface lightly with rolling pin to imbed candy. Then roll up like a jelly roll; wrap in wax paper. Chill until firm enough to slice. Cut into ¼-inch slices. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven for 10-12 minutes. Makes 4 dozen.

Moab is the name given to a people occupying the high tableland east of the Dead Sea and the southern section of the Jordon.

WIFE PRESERVERS

If members of your family, especially the children, don't like to drink milk, give it to them as soup, a creamed vegetable, custard or pudding. The milk serves the body equally well in these forms as it does when drunk.

Be A Charmer

Often the most popular girl in a crowd is not pretty at all. Watch her. You will see that she has many friends because she makes others happier when they are with her.

One of the most important lessons a teenager has to learn is to forget herself and think about other people. She thinks before she speaks and she strives to become a good conversationalist. She looks at conversation as a friendly game played by more than one and according to rule. For winning talk, here are a few rules:

1—Avoid all questions that pry into the privacy of others. This is a crudeness that a charming woman shuns.

2—Lend your ear and look directly at the speaker. Being a good listener is half of being a good conversationalist.

3—Stay away from all unpleasant or highly emotional subjects. If any start, change the subject quickly and pleasantly.

4—Respect the opinions of others. Never say, "You are wrong!" . . . however incorrect you may think someone to be. It is always wiser to preface your personal beliefs on the subject with, "There is truth in what you say, but will you allow me to express my thought?" Or, "I could be wrong, but . . ."

5—Try to draw out others present — don't monopolize the conversation with your pet conversational topic. You can accomplish this by thinking about the interests of others.

Tomorrow — Permanent Insurance.

Surprise Elements In Cookies Are Sure To Please

Crisp, crunchy cookies are favorite picnic packers. But do change the flavor once in a while. Here are some cookies which use two of the small-fry's most highly prized munchables — peanut butter and candy bars.

Pinwheel Cookies

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
½ cup cream-style peanut butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
3 candy bars, finely chopped

Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in peanut butter, vanilla, egg and milk. Add sifted dry ingredients, mixing well. Chill dough throughly. Roll out dough on lightly floured surface, in shape of rectangle, about 15 by 8 inches. Sprinkle candy over dough; roll surface lightly with rolling pin to imbed candy. Then roll up like a jelly roll; wrap in wax paper. Chill until firm enough to slice. Cut into ¼-inch slices. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven for 10-12 minutes. Makes 4 dozen.

Moab is the name given to a people occupying the high tableland east of the Dead Sea and the southern section of the Jordon.

WIFE PRESERVERS

If members of your family, especially the children, don't like to drink milk, give it to them as soup, a creamed vegetable, custard or pudding. The milk serves the body equally well in these forms as it does when drunk.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23 (INS)—It was nothing short of a love feast between Katharine Hepburn and the cast and crew of "The Rainmaker" when it came time to say adieu on the Hal Wallis picture.

Now hold on for this, Hal's gift to Katie was a "money tree"—that's right, a florist's tree with nice greenbacks providing the foliage.

Not to be outdone, Miss Hepburn gave Wallis, co-star Burt Lancaster and others of the company small oil paintings she did herself. Don't be surprised to see Hepburn signed for another with Wallis, and not because of the money tree, either.

If Producer Aaron Rosenberg has his way, Elizabeth Taylor and Rock Hudson will be the stars of "Flight," his next at U-I. You can't blame Rosey for trying. After "Giant" Liz and Rock will be a hot combo.

"Flight" is Ketti Frings' original set in the Dodecanese Islands. It's about an Amercan playboy who falls for a beautiful girl living almost as a prisoner on an island with her older and possessive husband.

Considering that U-I loaned Rock to MGM for "Something of Value" MGM can be expected to return the compliment and let U-I have Elizabeth.

George Jessel makes no bones about admitting that the sensational success of "My Fair Lady" is responsible for his buying James M. Barrie's "Dear Brutus." Jessel's idea is to "musicalize" the play which starred Helen Hayes in 1918 and when he finishes emoting George is off to New York to talk to Alan Lerner and Fred Lowe about the score.

He told me, "It's too early in the game to talk about a start, but since there will be such emphasis on the music, we're handling the idea with Anna Maria Alberghetti in the star role."

Apparently, Jack Warner can do just as much business from Europe as he can with his feet under his desk at Warner's. Via word from the French Riviera where he's vacationing, he's signed Raoul Walsh on a multiple directing contract.

First assignment to go to Walsh, noted for he-man adventure type films, is Robert Penn Warren's "Band of Angels," a Civil War story. Walsh checks in on the Warner lot immediately after Labor Day.

Still another topnotch TV man, Alex March, has been signed by Bill Dozier for an RKO berth. This studio recently acquired TV's boy wonder, Sidney Lumet.

March formerly produced Studio One Summer Theatre and his first stint in Hollywood will be a series of half-hour length TV as well as one hour dramatic anthology segments. Later, there are plans to switch March to feature film production.

Says Bob Hope, playing Jimmy Walker in "Beau James" at Paramount, "I'm the only politcian alive not working on a civil rights plank at the moment."

The James Masons, including Portland, go to Germany from England before he reports for "Island In the Sun" in Jamaica.

Mrs. Tom Duggan, wife of the controversial TV commentator, quietly divorced him Tnuesday in Chicago under her legal name of Ann Bon Henke Duggan.

Ann Miller and Hal Hays a duo at La Rue.

Jeanne and Dean Martin tell me the baby is due on Christmas Day.

"The War and Peace" premiere was a gilt edge affair that brought out all the celebrities who aren't otherwise occupied appearing at the Republican convention in San Francisco.

That busy gentleman in and out of Rhonda Fleming's new home which he's completely redecorating, is Tom Lane—whom you may or may not recall as redheaded Rhonda's first husband.

A high tip of the hat to mystery writer Craig Rice who, though she herself has been confined to a wheelchair for four years as a result of injuries, is actively heading up a drive for multiple sclerosis victims. She writes to ask contributions to the MS hope chest with the plea that, " Multiple sclerosis cripples four times as many people as does polio."

Joan Shawlee, just back from Europe where she completed the "Aggie" TV series, lunching at the Brown Derby and saying hello to friends.

Theft Suspect Is Cleared

A local resident who was picked up by Baltimore police as a suspect in an $1,800 safecracking here has been released.

Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, and City Police Detective James E. Van went to Baltimore yesterday to question Kenneth N. Chaney in connection of the burglary which occurred August 16 at the home of an uncle, Loren H. Chaney, 11 Weber Street.

The youth had been picked up by authorities of the Essex Police Station in Baltimore and held for questioning by local authorities, who obtained a warrant from Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason.

Young Chaney's alibi was checked out, and Van said last night Chaney was in Baltimore at the time of the burglary.

Lighting Plans

Nuzum, expressing concern over the additional cost of the lighting system to the city, said the PE offered to put in the lights using present incandescant lighting at a cost of $66 per month per light to the city. He said PE would charge the city $125 per light for fluorescent or mercury vapor lights.

Nuzum said he felt Potomac Edison should draw the lighting system plans and install the lights in conjunction with the plans of the superstructure being designed by Green Associates.

The Baltimore engineering consultants said their experience indicated better results were obtained if the lighting system was installed by the general contractor who would bid on it as a part of the overall construction.

The power company or city then could supply the lighting standards and luminaires to be erected after all conduits and cables were in place.

They pointed out that there was no contract between the Baltimore company and the SRC which would include the lighting system for the expressway.

At a question from Finan, Wolf said the engineering firm's fee for including the lighting system in the expressway design would be approximately six per cent of cost.

Wolf noted that while the $100,000 cost of the lighting plant is only a fraction of one per cent of the overall $8,000,000 cost of the structure, it nevertheless is one of the most important items to be considered.

Robert L. Wiseman of Ellicott City, president, said the committee will urge the central committee to give the nomination to George Washington Williams.

Williams, a one-time federal judge, sought the Democratic nomination in the primary last May. He campaigned on a pro-segregation platform.

Wiseman said letters would be written to each member of the central committee. Williams said. "We realize the machines that are functioning are powerful, but we don't agree that the politicians are entirely running this thing."

Theft Suspect Is Cleared

A local resident who was picked up by Baltimore police as a suspect in an $1,800 safecracking here has been released.

Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, and City Police Detective James E. Van went to Baltimore yesterday to question Kenneth N. Chaney in connection of the burglary which occurred August 16 at the home of an uncle, Loren H. Chaney, 11 Weber Street.

The youth had been picked up by authorities of the Essex Police Station in Baltimore and held for questioning by local authorities, who obtained a warrant from Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason.

Young Chaney's alibi was checked out, and Van said last night Chaney was in Baltimore at the time of the burglary.

Nuzum, expressing concern over the additional cost of the lighting system to the city, said the PE offered to put in the lights using present incandescant lighting at a cost of $66 per month per light to the city. He said PE would charge the city $125 per light for fluorescent or mercury vapor lights.

Nuzum said he felt Potomac Edison should draw the lighting system plans and install the lights in conjunction with the plans of the superstructure being designed by Green Associates.

The Baltimore engineering consultants said their experience indicated better results were obtained if the lighting system was installed by the general contractor who would bid on it as a part of the overall construction.

The power company or city then could supply the lighting standards and luminaires to be erected after all conduits and cables were in place.

They pointed out that there was no contract between the Baltimore company and the SRC which would include the lighting system for the expressway.

At a question from Finan, Wolf said the engineering firm's fee for including the lighting system in the expressway design would be approximately six per cent of cost.

Wolf noted that while the $100,000 cost of the lighting plant is only a fraction of one per cent of the overall $8,000,000 cost of the structure, it nevertheless is one of the most important items to be considered.

Chisox Blast Yanks, 8-3, 6-4; Fox Gets 7 Consecutive Hits

Mantle Hits Homer No. 43 In Nightcap

Also Belts Triple, Single; Keegan And Howell Are Victors

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—Mickey Mantle finally unloaded his 43rd home run today, but the big guy with the bat was tobacco-chewin' Nellie Fox, who squirted seven consecutive hits through the New York Yankees as the Chicago White Sox swept a doubleheader from the American League leaders 8-3 and 6-4.

NELSON FOX

Mickey Shakes Slump

Mantle, who had been in one of his longest slumps, dumped a bunt and 457-foot triple in addition to the home run in the nightcap after going hitless in the opener. The homer, a two-out, ninth-inning shot into the upper left field stands, was his first since Aug. 14 and left him only five games ahead of Babe Ruth's record-60 pace in 1927.

The third-place White Sox, who have won nine of their last 11 while the Yankees have lost six of the last nine, rolled up three-run first innings in both games.

Keegan Wins Opener

Bob Keegan went all the way for his fourth victory in the opener, getting tagged for Yogi Berra's 23rd home run in the second inning. His only real trouble, however, came in the ninth when three hits produced a run.

Chicago got things started with five hits for the three first inning runs against Rip Coleman, who lost his fourth and gave way to Don Larsen in the second.

Three runs in the eighth put it well beyond New York's reach. Jim Rivera opened the frame with his eighth homer and Fox, after four straight singles, capped it with a two-run triple.

In the nightcap, the Sox went with veteran righthander Millard (Dixie) Howell. He lasted until the sixth, good enough for his fifth victory in 11 decisions.

In the third inning, Dixie put a third strike past Mantle with the bases loaded and none out.

Turley Is Battered

The White Sox battered Bob Turley for five-straight hits in the first, including Larry Doby's 407-foot triple, for the righthander's third defeat in 10 decisions.

Bud Smith To Defend Ring Title

Faces Joe Brown At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 23 (AP)—Wallace (Bud) Smith risks his lightweight title for the second time in his short tenure as champion tomorrow night against ambitions Joe Brown, anxious to fulfill a dream thwarted four years ago.

The 27-year-old champion is expected to enter the ring a slight favorite over the 30-year-old New Orleans challenger who beat him once this year. But the 9,200 fans expected to swarm into Municipal Auditorium for the nationally-televised fight (NBC, TV and radio, 9 p.m. EST) wouldn't be surprised at a Brown victory.

The promoting Louisiana Boxing Club anticipates a $60,000 gate since the New Orleans area will be blacked out on television and Brown has a chance to join Pete Herman and Tony Canzoneri as the only New Orleans fighters to win the world titles.

The Cincinnati-born champion has avoided a title bout since a successful defense last October against Jimmy Carter, the man he whipped for the championship in June, 1955. In three outings this year, Smith was stopped by former welterweight king Tony DeMarco and dropped decisions to Larry Boardman and Brown.

Smith's seven-year professional record lists 33 victories, 14 losses and five draws. His triumphs include 18 knockouts.

Brown, who has shuffled in and out of the division's top ten for several years and is presently ranked eighth, is confident of victory. He was well on his way to a title shot in 1952 when rugged George Araujo stopped him in seven rounds.

Braves Trounce Phillies, 11-5

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 23 (AP)—The front-running Milwaukee Braves paralyed two big, bat-around innings and three home runs, including a grand slam by Bobby Thomson, into an 11-5 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies tonight.

Sets Speed Record

CAMBRIDGE, Aug. 23 (AP)—A 49-year-old salesman from Alexandria Bay, N.Y., drove his speedboat to a new national record today as the 8th annual National Stock Outboard Championships began.

Hunter Grimes piloted his "Uncle Sam" at an average speed of 55.907 miles an hour in the mile trials, a preliminary to the competitive racing which will begin tomorrow. Grimes' speed is a new record for Class C utility runabouts.

Time Between Wins

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi trails Vanderbilt in their football series yet Vanderbilt has not beaten the Rebels since 1951. The teams tied in 1952 and for the next three years the Rebels won by 28-6, 22-7 and 13-0, respectively. The series shows 25 Vanderbilt wins, 7 losses and one tie. The teams meet here on Oct. 13.

Giants Sweep Doubleheader From Chicago

Antonelli, Surkont Notch 2-1, 8-5 Wins

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP)—The New York Giants today weathered a late five run rally by the Chicago Cubs to win an 8-5 curtailed seven inning nightcap and sweep a doubleheader. Johnny Antonelli took the opener 2-1 in a duel with Moe Drabowski, a Cubs' bonus baby.

The Giants, with Max Surkont allowing one hit, had a 8-0 lead going into the seventh inning of the second game, but, the Cubs rocked Surkont for five straight hits, including a grand slam home run by Gene Baker.

Windy McCall relieved Surkont as darkness set in at Wrigley Field. Then, Hoyt Wilhelm halted the Cub threat after the Chicagoans had again loaded the bases. Wilhelm struck out Don Hoak and made Dee Fondy pop out to end the game.

The Giants scored all their runs in the fourth inning. Sparked by Bill White's 16th home run, a three run affair, the Giants collected eight hits and two walks.

Boston Beats Indians, 2-1

Lemon Loses Duel To Mel Parnell

BOSTON, Aug. 23 (AP) — Jim Piersall's sacrifice fly in a hitless eighth inning tonight provided the margin of Boston southpaw Mel Parnell's brilliant three-hit 2-1 victory over Cleveland's Bob Lemon, who also tossed a three-hitter.

Parnell's only miscue was a fat pitch to the Tribe's Rocky Colavito in the fifth inning which the outfielder planted in the left field screen for his 15th homer of the season.

Dapper Dan A's, Red Sox Gain Finals

Phillies, Senators Defeated, 6-3, 15-5

Manager Bob Ziler's Athletics and the Senators, piloted by Jim Wilson and Joe Felten, marched into the playoff finals of the Dapper Dan Little League last night by disposing of the Phillies and Senators, respectively, at Penn Avenue Field.

In the opening game in which only five hits were registered, the A's swept their series in two games with the Phillies by winning to the tune of 6-3. It was the 9th consecutive triumph for the Zilermen. The A's bagged the series opener by the score of 6-3.

The winners had three hits, singles by Charley "Butch" Cross, Wellington Donahue and "Jug" Adams while the Phillies' two safeties were Rice's double and Smith's single.

Five bases on balls and "Butch" Cross' two-run single featured a four-run rally that broke a 2-2 tie in the fourth inning and put the game on ice. Adams, second sacker, and Billy Norris, outfielder, featured afield for the victors.

The Red Sox tore into two Senator pitchers for 20 hits, including circuit clouts by Homer Hardinger and Bill Sheetz to win the nightcap by the score of 15-5. The Senators, playoff winners in 1955 and 1954, lost the series opener by the score of 6-2.

Mike Long struck out 13 Senators, also issued 13 bases on balls and led his team's attack with five hits in five trips, including a double. Harold Hardinger hurled the last inning for the Sox.

Sheetz had two singles in addition to his homer, Pat Wilson banged four singles in five trips and Homer Hardinger had a single in addition to his homer. Kaplon obtained two of the three hits yielded by Long and Hardinger. The other was a triple by Cameron.

The Red Sox and Athletics will clash next week in the league's championship series. Scores:

Labine, Brooks' Game-Saver, Suffers Chipped Wrist Bone

May Miss Remaining Games; Hurled In 52, Saved 16 This Year

CINCINNATI, Aug. 23 (AP)—Clem Labine, Brooklyn's relief-pitching mainstay, was found to have a chipped bone in his right wrist today as the Dodgers headed into five of the season's most important games. He will miss most of the remaining season.

Clem Labine

Labine was hit by a ball pitched by the Cardinals' Larry Jackson in the ninth inning of last night's game in St. Louis.

X-rays today revealed the chipped bone, and the righthander was sent back to Brooklyn with his wrist in a cast. Physicians said he probably would be unable to pitch for three or four weeks.

Plans Are Confused

As a result, Manager Walt Alston's pitching plans for Brooklyn's three games here against the third-place Redlegs and two in Milwaukee against the league-leading Braves were thrown into confusion.

Labine's injury came just after the Dodgers apparently had obtained some much-needed pitching help with the return to form of Don Bessent. After Monday's fine relief performance, Alston had been considering using Bessent as a starter and had counted on him to help the overworked Labine as a reliever.

Since the walloping Redlegs, only one game behind Brooklyn and three behind Milwaukee, usually hit Dodger pitching rather hard, it appeared likely that both would be called upon.

Saved 16 Games

Labine, who has appeared in 52 games this season, set a Brooklyn club record last night when he finished his 42nd. He has saved 16 games for the Dodgers and has a season record of nine victories and six losses.

After being struck by Jackson's pitch, Labine pitched the last half of the ninth inning, yielded one run and saved a 5-3 victory for Roger Craig. After the game his wrist "numbed up" and when the Dodgers reached here today he was taken to Christ Hospital for X-ray examination.

Chisox Blast Yanks, 8-3, 6-4; Fox Gets 7 Consecutive Hits

Also Belts Triple, Single; Keegan And Howell Are Victors

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—Mickey Mantle finally unloaded his 43rd home run today, but the big guy with the bat was tobacco-chewin' Nellie Fox, who squirted seven consecutive hits through the New York Yankees as the Chicago White Sox swept a doubleheader from the American League leaders 8-3 and 6-4.

NELSON FOX

Mickey Shakes Slump

Mantle, who had been in one of his longest slumps, dumped a bunt and 457-foot triple in addition to the home run in the nightcap after going hitless in the opener. The homer, a two-out, ninth-inning shot into the upper left field stands, was his first since Aug. 14 and left him only five games ahead of Babe Ruth's record-60 pace in 1927.

The third-place White Sox, who have won nine of their last 11 while the Yankees have lost six of the last nine, rolled up three-run first innings in both games.

Keegan Wins Opener

Bob Keegan went all the way for his fourth victory in the opener, getting tagged for Yogi Berra's 23rd home run in the second inning. His only real trouble, however, came in the ninth when three hits produced a run.

Chicago got things started with five hits for the three first inning runs against Rip Coleman, who lost his fourth and gave way to Don Larsen in the second.

Three runs in the eighth put it well beyond New York's reach. Jim Rivera opened the frame with his eighth homer and Fox, after four straight singles, capped it with a two-run triple.

In the nightcap, the Sox went with veteran righthander Millard (Dixie) Howell. He lasted until the sixth, good enough for his fifth victory in 11 decisions.

In the third inning, Dixie put a third strike past Mantle with the bases loaded and none out.

Turley Is Battered

The White Sox battered Bob Turley for five-straight hits in the first, including Larry Doby's 407-foot triple, for the righthander's third defeat in 10 decisions.

Bud Smith To Defend Ring Title

Faces Joe Brown At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 23 (AP)—Wallace (Bud) Smith risks his lightweight title for the second time in his short tenure as champion tomorrow night against ambitions Joe Brown, anxious to fulfill a dream thwarted four years ago.

The 27-year-old champion is expected to enter the ring a slight favorite over the 30-year-old New Orleans challenger who beat him once this year. But the 9,200 fans expected to swarm into Municipal Auditorium for the nationally-televised fight (NBC, TV and radio, 9 p.m. EST) wouldn't be surprised at a Brown victory.

The promoting Louisiana Boxing Club anticipates a $60,000 gate since the New Orleans area will be blacked out on television and Brown has a chance to join Pete Herman and Tony Canzoneri as the only New Orleans fighters to win the world titles.

The Cincinnati-born champion has avoided a title bout since a successful defense last October against Jimmy Carter, the man he whipped for the championship in June, 1955. In three outings this year, Smith was stopped by former welterweight king Tony DeMarco and dropped decisions to Larry Boardman and Brown.

Smith's seven-year professional record lists 33 victories, 14 losses and five draws. His triumphs include 18 knockouts.

Brown, who has shuffled in and out of the division's top ten for several years and is presently ranked eighth, is confident of victory. He was well on his way to a title shot in 1952 when rugged George Araujo stopped him in seven rounds.

An erratic performer, Brown shows 60 victories, 14 losses and eight draws with 24 kayos.

Smith claims an off night in discounting the loss to Brown and even ventured a prediction Brown would finish the fight on the canvas.

Hunter Grimes piloted his "Uncle Sam" at an average speed of 55.907 miles an hour in the mile trials, a preliminary to the competitive racing which will begin tomorrow. Grimes' speed is a new record for Class C utility runabouts.

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi trails Vanderbilt in their football series yet Vanderbilt has not beaten the Rebels since 1951. Giants Sweep Doubleheader From Chicago

Antonelli, Surkont Notch 2-1, 8-5 Wins

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP)—The New York Giants today weathered a late five run rally by the Chicago Cubs to win an 8-5 curtailed seven inning nightcap and sweep a doubleheader. Johnny Antonelli took the opener 2-1 in a duel with Moe Drabowski, a Cubs' bonus baby.

The Giants, with Max Surkont allowing one hit, had a 8-0 lead going into the seventh inning of the second game, but, the Cubs rocked Surkont for five straight hits, including a grand slam home run by Gene Baker.

Windy McCall relieved Surkont as darkness set in at Wrigley Field. Then, Hoyt Wilhelm halted the Cub threat after the Chicagoans had again loaded the bases. Wilhelm struck out Don Hoak and made Dee Fondy pop out to end the game.

The Giants scored all their runs in the fourth inning. Sparked by Bill White's 16th home run, a three run affair, the Giants collected eight hits and two walks.

Lemon Loses Duel To Mel Parnell

BOSTON, Aug. 23 (AP) — Jim Piersall's sacrifice fly in a hitless eighth inning tonight provided the margin of Boston southpaw Mel Parnell's brilliant three-hit 2-1 victory over Cleveland's Bob Lemon, who also tossed a three-hitter.

Parnell's only miscue was a fat pitch to the Tribe's Rocky Colavito in the fifth inning which the outfielder planted in the left field screen for his 15th homer of the season.

Dapper Dan A's, Red Sox Gain Finals

Phillies, Senators Defeated, 6-3, 15-5

Manager Bob Ziler's Athletics and the Senators, piloted by Jim Wilson and Joe Felten, marched into the playoff finals of the Dapper Dan Little League last night by disposing of the Phillies and Senators, respectively, at Penn Avenue Field.

In the opening game in which only five hits were registered, the A's swept their series in two games with the Phillies by winning to the tune of 6-3. It was the 9th consecutive triumph for the Zilermen. The A's bagged the series opener by the score of 6-3.

The winners had three hits, singles by Charley "Butch" Cross, Wellington Donahue and "Jug" Adams while the Phillies' two safeties were Rice's double and Smith's single.

Five bases on balls and "Butch" Cross' two-run single featured a four-run rally that broke a 2-2 tie in the fourth inning and put the game on ice. Adams, second sacker, and Billy Norris, outfielder, featured afield for the victors.

The Red Sox tore into two Senator pitchers for 20 hits, including circuit clouts by Homer Hardinger and Bill Sheetz to win the nightcap by the score of 15-5. The Senators, playoff winners in 1955 and 1954, lost the series opener by the score of 6-2.

Mike Long struck out 13 Senators, also issued 13 bases on balls and led his team's attack with five hits in five trips, including a double. Harold Hardinger hurled the last inning for the Sox.

Sheetz had two singles in addition to his homer, Pat Wilson banged four singles in five trips and Homer Hardinger had a single in addition to his homer. Kaplon obtained two of the three hits yielded by Long and Hardinger. The other was a triple by Cameron.

The Red Sox and Athletics will clash next week in the league's championship series. Scores:

Labine, Brooks' Game-Saver, Suffers Chipped Wrist Bone

May Miss Remaining Games; Hurled In 52, Saved 16 This Year

CINCINNATI, Aug. 23 (AP)—Clem Labine, Brooklyn's relief-pitching mainstay, was found to have a chipped bone in his right wrist today as the Dodgers headed into five of the season's most important games. He will miss most of the remaining season.

Clem Labine

Labine was hit by a ball pitched by the Cardinals' Larry Jackson in the ninth inning of last night's game in St. Louis.

X-rays today revealed the chipped bone, and the righthander was sent back to Brooklyn with his wrist in a cast. Physicians said he probably would be unable to pitch for three or four weeks.

Plans Are Confused

As a result, Manager Walt Alston's pitching plans for Brooklyn's three games here against the third-place Redlegs and two in Milwaukee against the league-leading Braves were thrown into confusion.

Labine's injury came just after the Dodgers apparently had obtained some much-needed pitching help with the return to form of Don Bessent. After Monday's fine relief effort, Alston had been considering using Bessent as a starter and had counted on him to help the overworked Labine as a reliever.

Since the walloping Redlegs, only one game behind Brooklyn and three behind Milwaukee, usually hit Dodger pitching rather hard, it appeared likely that both would be called upon.

Saved 16 Games

Labine, who has appeared in 52 games this season, set a Brooklyn club record last night when he finished his 42nd. He has saved 16 games for the Dodgers and has a season record of nine victories and six losses.

After being struck by Jackson's pitch, Labine pitched the last half of the ninth inning, yielded one run and saved a 5-3 victory for Roger Craig. After the game his wrist "numbed up" and when the Dodgers reached here today he was taken to Christ Hospital for X-ray examination.

Harry Larrick Hurls Outdoor To R. C. Finals

Eliminates VFW, 9-1; Elliott Pounds Ball

A four-hit pitching stint by Harry Larrick and Floyd "Pete" Elliott's slugging were the highlights as the Outdoor Club made it two straight wins over the V. F. W. at Stitcher Field and advanced to the finals of the Rocking Chair Softball League playoffs. The score was 9-1.

OUTDOOR	220	050	0—9	11	1
V. F. W.	000	000	1—1	4	1

Larrick and Brady, Klavuhn and Clark.

Shuffle Circuit To Meet Tonight, Stitcher Resigns

The Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League will meet tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the Purple Heart Club, Greene Street, to elect officers for the 1956-57 and make plans for the coming season.

This will be the 10th season for the county circuit. The 20 teams played in two divisions last season.

Paul A. Stitcher, league secretary and statistician, will announce his resignation tonight because of the fact that he is being transferred from this city by the Beech-nut Packing Company and Life-savers, Inc., by whom he is employed.

Celebrities Beat Safe Tracs, 5-2, Take Kelly Title

Rallying for three runs in the 7th inning, Celebrity whipped the Safe Tracs yesterday at Naval Reserve Field by the score of 5-2 and captured the championship of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company Softball League.

The series went the limit of five games, Celebrity winning the first, second and fifth and the Safe Tracs the third and fourth.

CELEBRITY	001	100	3—5	9	1

Swaps Rated 2-5, Howdy Baby 15-1 In Chicago Race

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP)—Clifford Mooers' Howdy Baby, an American turf record holder, is expected to be about a 15-1 longshot in the $50,000 added Ward Memorial Handicap Saturday—that's how Swaps is such a redhot favorite.

The 4-year-old daughter of Buster is weighted at only 102 pounds for the Ward. The handicap is for 1 3-16 miles on Washington Park's grass course.

Lucky Mel Injured, Passes Up Big Race

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP) — Lucky Mel, 2-year-old colt owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis of Los Angeles, today was shipped back to California and will pass up the $75,000 added Washington Park Futurity Sept. 1. Lucky Mel finished fourth in the Prairie State Stakes yesterday after bruising himself in the gate while starting slowly.

Cage's Circuit Clout In Eighth Beats Hygienic

Johnson's Captures Series Opener, 3-1

Ronnie Cage's two-run homer to deep right field in the eighth inning broke up an extra inning pitching duel between Glenn Kauffman and George Harris and gave Johnson's Grocery a 3-1 decision over Hygienic Sanitation in the opening game of the City Softball League series yesterday at East Side field.

Cage and Horwath accounted for four of the Grocers' eight hits and the former was robbed of another bid for an extra base hit by Mickey Cunningham who made a nice catch of Ronnie's drive to centerfield in the fifth and doubled Joe Wolfe off second base.

Glenn Kauffman, Johnson's ace, held Hysanco to two hits, singles by Mickey Clark and George Harris, and struck out eight. Harris, who suffered a mangled big toe while operating a power lawn mower, was back in action for the first time since the accident and also turned in a nice pitching performance.

The second game of the best-of-three series is scheduled for today at 6 p. m. at Stitcher Field. Score:

HYGIENIC	001	000	00—1	2	1
JOHNSON'S	100	000	02—3	8	1

Sammy Snead, Bud Holscher Lead Tourney

Vet And Youth Post 66s In St. Paul Open

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 23 (AP)—Sammy Snead, a veteran of the golfing wars, and young Bud Holscher of Apple Valley, Calif., shot six-under-par 66s today to take the first round lead in the $20,000 St. Paul Open.

They grabbed a one-stroke lead over six others deadlocked at 67. They are Dave Douglas of Newark, Del., Ted Rhodes of Chicago, Howie Johnson of Houston, Tex., Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., and Fred Haas of New Orleans.

Two shots off the pace with 68s were Harold Henning of Johannesburg, South Africa, Don January of Lampasas, Tex., Jerry Barber of Los Angeles and Bob Rosburg of San Francisco.

Snead had four birdies and a bogie on the first nine, one-putting five greens as he dropped putts from three to ten feet. He three-putted the par three sixth for his bogie.

Snead, the all-time top money winner in the St. Paul Open with almost $12,000 through the years, birdied four holes on the second nine with putts from 3 to 25 feet and had his second three-putt green of the round on the par three 13th hole.

Jersey Lad Twirls No-Hit Contest In L. L. World Series

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 23 (INS) — Fred Shapiro, righthander for the Delaware Township, N. J., team, made little league world series history today when he pitched the first perfect game while blanking Colton, Calif., 2 to 0, in the semi-finals at Williamsport.

Shapiro also struck out 14 of the 18 batters he faced during the six-inning affair, fanning the side in the first, fourth and sixth inning. Colton hit only one ball to the outfield.

Musial Booed Then Cheered By Home Fans

Stan Calls It Worst Game He Ever Played

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 23 (AP) — "It was the worst game I ever played."

This was St. Louis' Stan Musial talking in the locker room after last night's 5-3 defeat by Brooklyn in which the $80,000-a-year Musial went hitless for the second straight night and committed two errors to help let in four unearned runs.

When Musial stepped to the plate for his last time at bat in the eighth inning, a chorus of boos, the loudest he had ever known since starting his brilliant career with the Red Birds in 1941, rang across Busch Stadium.

Then, suddenly, the boos were drowned out by cheers, real loud cheers.

General Manager Frank Lane said:

Swaps Rated 2-5, Howdy Baby 15-1 In Chicago Race

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP)—Clifford Mooers' Howdy Baby, an American turf record holder, is expected to be about a 15-1 longshot in the $50,000 added Ward Memorial Handicap Saturday—that's how Swaps is such a redhot favorite.

An early morning line lists Rex C. Ellsworth's Swaps at 2-5 and many experts consider this liberal.

The 4-year-old daughter of Buster is weighted at only 102 pounds for the Ward. The handicap is for 1 3-16 miles on Washington Park's grass course.

Swaps will pack 130 pounds. He holds the track mark of 1:54 3-5 set in the 1955 American Derby in his first and only grass venture to date.

Cage's Circuit Clout In Eighth Beats Hygienic

Johnson's Captures Series Opener, 3-1

Ronnie Cage's two-run homer to deep right field in the eighth inning broke up an extra inning pitching duel between Glenn Kauffman and George Harris and gave Johnson's Grocery a 3-1 decision over Hygienic Sanitation in the opening game of the City Softball League series yesterday at East Side field.

Johnny Horwath's single preceded Cage's game-winning smash.

Cage and Horwath accounted for four of the Grocers' eight hits and the former was robbed of another bid for an extra base hit by Mickey Cunningham who made a nice catch of Ronnie's drive to centerfield in the fifth and doubled Joe Wolfe off second base.

Glenn Kauffman, Johnson's ace, held Hysanco to two hits, singles by Mickey Clark and George Harris, and struck out eight. Harris, who suffered a mangled big toe while operating a power lawn mower, was back in action for the first time since the accident and also turned in a nice pitching performance.

The second game of the best-of-three series is scheduled for today at 6 p. m. at Stitcher Field. Score:

HYGIENIC	001	000	00—1	2	1
JOHNSON'S	100	000	02—3	8	1

G. Harris and Farrell. G. Kauffman and B. Frye.

Lytle's Wins, 17-6, Over Post's, Goes To Rec Loop Finals

Paced by James Hamilton and Hank Page both of whom collected four hits, Lytle's Sign Shop crushed Post's Playground yesterday at Post Field by the score of 17-6 and gained the final round in the Men's Rec Softball League playoffs.

Page hit a grand slam homer in the first inning and had three other hits. Hamilton banged a pair of doubles and two singles. Lewis led Post's at the plate with three safeties.

LYTLE'S	761	300	0—17
POST'S	100	500	0—16

Sammy Snead, Bud Holscher Lead Tourney

Vet And Youth Post 66s In St. Paul Open

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 23 (AP)—Sammy Snead, a veteran of the golfing wars, and young Bud Holscher of Apple Valley, Calif., shot six-under-par 66s today to take the first round lead in the $20,000 St. Paul Open.

Putting well for a change, Snead shot Keller's par 36-36—72 course in 33-33 and Holscher turned the round in 31-35.

They grabbed a one-stroke lead over six others deadlocked at 67. They are Dave Douglas of Newark, Del., Ted Rhodes of Chicago, Howie Johnson of Houston, Tex., Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., and Fred Haas of New Orleans.

Two shots off the pace with 68s were Harold Henning of Johannesburg, South Africa, Don January of Lampasas, Tex., Jerry Barber of Los Angeles and Bob Rosburg of San Francisco.

Snead had four birdies and a bogie on the first nine, one-putting five greens as he dropped putts from three to ten feet. He three-putted the par three sixth for his bogie.

Snead, the all-time top money winner in the St. Paul Open with almost $12,000 through the years, birdied four holes on the second nine with putts from 3 to 25 feet and had his second three-putt green of the round on the par three 13th hole.

The 25-year-old Holscher also rolled in putts from all sections of the greens.

Cresaptown Tops Barrelville, 1-0, To Reach Finals

Cresaptown and the LaVale Orioles will launch their best-of-three final series Tuesday at 6 p. m., in LaVale.

Bill Lovett and Roger Flanagan held Barrelville to one hit, a single by Bridges in the fourth inning off Flanagan. Lovett, who hurled the first three frames, got credit for the win. He fanned three and Flanagan struck out two. Bob Uhl went the route for Barrelville, yielded only four hits and struck out three. Ernie Stouffer and Kermit Clem banged two-baggers for the winners. Score:

Jersey Lad Twirls No-Hit Contest In L. L. World Series

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 23 (INS) — Fred Shapiro, righthander for the Delaware Township, N. J., team, made little league world series history today when he pitched the first perfect game while blanking Colton, Calif., 2 to 0, in the semi-finals at Williamsport.

Shapiro also struck out 14 of the 18 batters he faced during the six-inning affair, fanning the side in the first, fourth and sixth inning. Colton hit only one ball to the outfield.

Musial Booed Then Cheered By Home Fans

Stan Calls It Worst Game He Ever Played

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 23 (AP) — "It was the worst game I ever played."

This was St. Louis' Stan Musial talking in the locker room after last night's 5-3 defeat by Brooklyn in which the $80,000-a-year Musial went hitless for the second straight night and committed two errors to help let in four unearned runs.

When Musial stepped to the plate for his last time at bat in the eighth inning, a chorus of boos, the loudest he had ever known since starting his brilliant career with the Red Birds in 1941, rang across Busch Stadium.

Then, suddenly, the boos were drowned out by cheers, real loud cheers.

General Manager Frank Lane said:

"That's more like it. I knew the fans here couldn't forget 15 years in 15 minutes."

Lane added that Musial has had too great of a career to be booed for just "one bad night."

Minimum Exposure

Sunday night Frank Sinatra monopolized the three television networks almost as thoroughly as the Democrats last week and the Republicans this week. Mr. Sinatra was plugging a cowboy picture he produced and starred in and one can hardly blame him for taking advantage of all the networks if they were generous enough to turn the joints over to him.

And the Sinatra name probably attracted a great many viewers, so the networks are not altogether foolish in agreeing to his nonsense. It was only the viewers who were wasting their time. Sinatra one of the greatest all-around performers we have, did no acting, no singing, no anything. He had a case of laryngitis, it was explained, and could do no more than walk on.

On the Steve Allen Show, he toyed with a cup of coffee while Mr. Allen mouthed the words to "A Foggy Day In London Town," as one of Mr. Sinatra's records was played. "I guess that was kind of a silly bit we just did," said Mr. Allen. It sure was.

However, it wasn't any sillier than what Sinatra did on the Ed Sullivan Show, where Red Skelton was handling the affair for the injured columnist. Skelton used the singer as a straight man in some old, old, old and interminable vaudeville routines. Then he read a long piece from Collier's about Mr. Sinatra, while Mr. S. registered humility. It was real dull.

On his way from the Allen show to the Sullivan show, Sinatra had managed to drop in at ABC too for a few fast words with Donald Woods, host of Famous Film Festival.

There is a word for this sort of thing that has come into great fashion in the last couple of years. "It's "exposure." The very use of the word and its wide popularity in the upper echelons of television is indicative of what is happening in show business.

Years ago an entertainer was hired for a performance. Then as the extent of his performance dwindled, he was said to make an appearance. Now it's exposure—a word heretofore associated with the click of a camera shutter. And that's about all you get, too.

You find actors all over the place worried about their "exposure." If they don't get enough exposure, or don't get any, it's supposed to be bad for their health. If they get too much—like sunburn—it's ruinous. A network program is automatically an awful lot of exposure, so you're supposed to cover up, revealing as little skin as possible. That way you won't get burned. As exposures go, Sinatra's was down to about the irreducible minimum; of course, he might have phoned in or sent a letter. This way we could at least look at him, so we should all be properly grateful.

On the same night, Alcoa Theater presented "The Big Vote," by David Karp. In the light of a whole week of political convention which preceded it and another one to follow it, this was really flying in the face of percentages.

But then television has always operated on the theory that you can't get enough of a good thing. When we have Christmas, brother, we celebrate it for weeks—at least on television. When politics comes along, again we get a heaping plateful until no one can look the stuff in the face again for weeks.

Mr. Karp's little essay was a simple, straightforward drama about an old line district leader who operates on the patronage level, and a rising young politician who believes in taking the issues to the voters. As a lesson in politics, it was rather rudimentary, but not much more so than some of the things that have come out of Chicago and San Francisco. As the old line politician, Ed Begley gave a performance of great solidity and power, and that alone made the hour well worth watching.

4,000 Campaign Buttons

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP) — F. Joseph O'Neill's collection of 4,000 political campaign buttons went on display in a Rockefeller Center bank window this week, but O'Neill believes the buttons are mainly good for collecting. "It has yet to be proved," said O'Neill, "that they ever elected a candidate or influenced even a single ballot."

The Census bureau estimates that there will be 26 million, 500 thousand Americans over 64 years of age in the year 2000.

North Carolina was separated from South Carolina in 1712.

Market Rallies For Best Gain In Over Two Months

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP) — The stock market scored its biggest advance in more than two months today to snap a string of six consecutive declines.

The upswing, however, was accompanied by extremely selective trading in a light turnover. Key issues rose between 1 and 3 points.

There were only 1,087 issues traded, the smallest number since Nov. 11, 1955.

Metals, steels, motors, aircrafts and oils were in demand, with best gains generally in high-priced stocks which recently have been hardest hit.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed $1.40 to $185.20, biggest rise since a jump of $1.80 on June 12 when President Eisenhower was recovering from his illness.

The industrial component went up $2.90, rails rose 90 cents and utilities dipped 10 cents.

After the close, the Federal Reserve Board announced an increase to 3 per cent from 2¾ per cent in the discount rate for four of its regional banks. Wall Street had speculated all week about the prospects of this anti-inflation move, and thus its effects on the market may already have been pretty much discounted.

Gulf Oil took honors as the most active stock, rising 1⅝ to 125⅛ on 21,500 shares. It was followed by Standard Oil (NJ), up ½ at 56⅞ on 21,400 shares.

Market Rallies For Best Gain In Over Two Months

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP) — The stock market scored its biggest advance in more than two months today to snap a string of six consecutive declines.

The upswing, however, was accompanied by extremely selective trading in a light turnover. Key issues rose between 1 and 3 points.

There were only 1,087 issues traded, the smallest number since Nov. 11, 1955.

Volume of 1,590,000 shares just topped yesterday's 1,570,000 shares, the lowest since June 25.

Metals, steels, motors, aircrafts and oils were in demand, with best gains generally in high-priced stocks which recently have been hardest hit.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed $1.40 to $185.20, biggest rise since a jump of $1.80 on June 12 when President Eisenhower was recovering from his illness.

The industrial component went up $2.90, rails rose 90 cents and utilities dipped 10 cents.

After the close, the Federal Reserve Board announced an increase to 3 per cent from 2¾ per cent in the discount rate for four of its regional banks. Wall Street had speculated all week about the prospects of this anti-inflation move, and thus its effects on the market may already have been pretty much discounted.

Gulf Oil took honors as the most active stock, rising 1⅝ to 125⅛ on 21,500 shares. It was followed by Standard Oil (NJ), up ½ at 56⅞ on 21,400 shares.

Lighting Plans For Expressway Are Outlined

Would Boost Cost By About $100,000

City officials yesterday heard a proposed modern lighting system for the new Cumberland Expressway which would boost the total cost by about $100,000.

Presenting the tentative lighting program were representatives of Green Associates, Inc., of Baltimore, who will design the partly overhead highway for the State Roads Commission.

No definite decision as to type of lighting, overall cost, or who would design and assume operation and maintenance of the lights was made at the two-hour session held in Mayor Roy W. Eves' office in City Hall yesterday afternoon.

Attending the conference were Mayor Eves, City Solicitor Thomas B. Finan, City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum, Commissioner of Water and Light William J. Edwards, James Alfred Avirett, chairman of the city Planning and Zoning Commission, and representatives of the consultant engineering firm. They were E. W. Wolf, vice president of the Baltimore concern, R. A. Groves, chief of the structures section of Green Associates, and Ernest F. Siegel, chief of the mechanical electrical division of the firm.

Seeks Definite Plan

At the conclusion of the meeting Mayor Eves asked Commissioner Edwards to contact Potomac Edison Company officials to talk over the proposal so a definite basic plan for the lighting system could be worked out with Green Associates.

Potomac Edison, which now furnishes all lighting service to the city, has offered to assume engineering, and to supply standards and luminaires to be rented to the city under the present contract between the company and the city.

Any design and engineering planned by PE would have to be integrated with plans for the overall expressway design being prepared by the Baltimore firm for the SRC.

Mayor Poses Questions

Mayor Eves, commenting on the problems to be worked out, said three things should be kept in mind:

1. What will be the overall cost to the city?

2. Will the design, if drawn by Green Associates and installed by a general contractor, have any effect on the existing contract for lighting between the city and PE?

3. Will a modern lighting system contrast too much with present lighting facilities throughout the city?

Siegel, who is in charge of the lighting design for the new $1,500,000 Patapsco Tunnel in Baltimore, outlined his views on the proper lighting system for the Cumberland expressway.

"Highway lighting now is as much a part of the structure as the paving," he said. "It should be designed as a safety measure, for the prevention of crime and to generally make the motorist like to use the highway rather than dread it.

"A Matter Of Money"

"It is a matter of money and so lights are needed only in the city area where there is background lighting which hampers the driver," said Siegel. "Lights should be placed to guide the motorist on and off the expressway, on ramps and at interchanges. There is no need for lights in rural areas."

He explained that electricity could be fed into the expressway system from conventional places now existing, and could be metered if necessary. It would have automatic controls which would turn on the lights at dusk and shut them off at dawn, he added.

Siegel pointed out that the best lighting effects were obtained from fluorescent or mercury vapor luminaires.

Fluorescents Better

A tentative system would call for 100 standards, staggered along the expressway about 100 to 130 feet apart. This would give about 0.6 foot candles based on the use of luminaires giving between 20,000 to 23,000 lumens of light. Siegel said part of the city's present lighting system is made of 10,000 lumen lights which give off about 0.3 foot candles of light.

Fluorescent lighting, Siegel pointed out, would cost more to install but less to maintain, and would use less power. The city's present lights use about 430 watts, while fluorescent lights would use 400 watts and give off twice as much light.

Expressway Taking Shape In Blueprints

Plans Show Tentative Route

The crosstown Cumberland Expressway tentatively began to take shape as representatives of Green Associates, Inc., of Baltimore, displayed drawings and blue prints of the overhead route of the highway here yesterday.

The throughway drawings and blueprints were first-stage studies of the planned expressway, taken from surveys compiled by the Baltimore firm which has contracted with the Maryland State Roads Commission to design the structure. Officials of the firm were here yesterday to talk to city officials about plans for lighting the expressway.

E. W. Wolf, vice president of the engineering firm, said the overhead route is still subject to much change as the studies are continued, but expressed the opinion that the preliminary drawings would be very nearly correct

Route Outlined

R. A. Groves, chief of the structures section of Green Associates, said the approachway from the east cuts across Central Avenue, and between Emily Street and Central Avenue it begins its ascent over the city.

The expressway will cross south of the Queen City Hotel and pass over the entrance of the new Blue Bridge on West Side before angling along the Potomac River levee to meet with Route 220 south of Cumberland.

Terming the plans an "unveiling of first ideas" on the proposed highway, Wolf said the overhead bridge would have ony one-half of one per cent grade at its beginning on Maryland Avenue at the intersection of Central Avenue.

Six-Lane Bridge

The structure will have six lanes, 12 feet wide, two 2-foot-wide sidewalks, and a 4-foot-wide medial strip.

As the bridge crosses the city it will narrow to a pair of 27-foot-wide lanes with two 24-foot-wide ramps and two 20-foot-wide ramps off the bridgeway for the entrance and exit of automobiles in town.

The ramps tentatively will let westbound traffic off and eastbound traffic at South Mechanic Street. Westbound traffic will enter the bridge at South Centre Street, where eastbound will leave.

Groves explained the entire structure would be possibly 170 feet wide across the city.

76 Register For Vote In November

October 6 Is Sign-Up Deadline

Yesterday was the busiest day for voter registration at the office of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors since before the May 7 primary election.

Some 10 citizens — five Democrats and five Republicans—signed up yesterday with Irvin J. Neat and C. William McDermott, registrars who have an offce in the Court House basement.

The registrars remind residents that an erroneous report was being circulated that yesterday was the final day for registration. That will not come until October 6, a full 30 days before the November 6 general election.

Conventions Help

August has proved a comparatively busy month for voter registration in view of the interest stimulated by the political conventions of the two major parties. Since August 1, 76 have signed up at the Court House so they may vote in November.

The new registrants include 41 Repubicans (21 men and 20 women), 34 Democrats (nine men and 25 women) and one independent woman.

Registrars are required by state law to sit at Frostburg, Mt. Savage, Westernport and Lonaconing from 1 until 5 p. m. and from 6 until 8 p. m. the final four days for registrations. The four days will be observed October 3, 4, 5 and 6.

Will Travel

A tentative schedule calling for registrars to visit most communities of the county beginning September 19 has been arranged by the Board of Election Supervisors. Permission to use certain facilities has not yet been received by the board.

Places to be visited include Little Orleans, Flintstone, Oldtown, North Branch, McCoole, Luke, Shaft, Zihlman, Barton, Midland, Eckhart, Cresaptown, Ellerslie, Corriganville, LaVale, the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto, Rawlings and South Cumberland.

The office in the Court House basement is open for registration from 9 a. m. until noon every Saturday.

Anyone who will have reached the age of 21 before November 6, will have lived in Maryland one year and Allegany County six months November 6 may register now and vote in November.

Judge To Address Local Rotary Club

Chief Judge George Henderson will address the Rotary Club of Cumberland at its meeting Tuesday at the 12:15 p. m. meeting of the group at Central YMCA.

Judge Henderson, an honorary member of the organization, will address the group with interesting "Experiences As A Judge."

Reynold Wallach, program chairman of the club, has decreed the Tuesday meeting as "Must Attend Day" to hear Judge Henderson speak.

Oakland Youth Heads FFA Unit

Other regional officers are George Bishoff, vice president; David Otto, secretary; Ted Robinette, treasurer; William Hout, reporter; Eugene Brenneman, sentinel; Richard Bishoff, Southern High School, new adviser.

A mid-winter meeting of the regional FFA group will be conducted in late February or early March at Southern High School in Oakland. It will feature a basketball tournament involving the FFA clubs at Flintstone, Oldtown, Southern and Northern.

George Lipscomb of Southern and Lawrence Faith of Northern will serve as advisers for the basketball tournament. FFA members who will work with them are Roger Deberry and Donald Raley of Southern, and William Geohringer, George Bishoff and Edward Rush of Northern.

Other advisers attending yesterday's meeting at Fairgo were James H. House, Oldtown, and Kenneth Malone, Flintstone.

Many Added Attractions At Fair Today

Midwestern Hayride Gets Top Billing

Climaxed by a "double-barrelled" fireworks display last night and several added attractions, yesterday at the Cumberland Fair was a bright, cheerful and happy one for the youngsters. The second of two scheduled matinees brought out a record number of kiddies and parents to swell the crowds which have been growing bigger each afternoon and night.

As promised by Harry J. Barton, general manager, the fireworks which were rained out Monday night were added to last night's display, and in addition, the juvenile fair fans also witnessed two performances of the grandstand revue, a tractor driving contest and a parade of prize-winning cattle.

But even with all these extras in the way of entertainment, the Fair management promises ever more interesting activity this afternoon and tonight.

Two Performances

The highly popular Midwestern Hayride from Cincinnati will present two performances. At 4 p. m. and again 8 p. m. area fans and spectators will have a dual opportunity to see the TV entertainment that has been continuously on television as a sponsored show, since 1948.

The show includes the starts seen regularly on television, including Dixie Lee, Bobby Bobo, as master of ceremonies and vocalist; Rockin' Rudy Hanson, The Range Partners, a six-piece western string band; Sonny Spencer, who plays 16 different instruments, and Lefty Carson, billed most frequently as The Hayseeders; and the Midwestern Square dancers in person.

This Midwestern Hayride revue is being presented at the Fair here for the first time and replaces the grandstand revue which was scheduled for Monday through Thursday, plus matinee performances Tuesday and yesterday.

Queen To Be Named

Also as added attractions tonight, the announcement will be made of the selection of Miss Fairgo. The "Fair Queen," to be chosen from five area farm queen candidates, will be presented and crowned after the 8 p. m. hayride performance and just before tonight's mammoth fireworks spectacle.

Also, in front of the grandstand tonight, awards will be presented to winners of the best commercial and booth displays as seen under the grandstand. Mayor Roy W. Eves is to present the awards for the Fair Association.

The winners, selected by a panel of local judges include The C&P Telephone Company, $20 first prize; Locke Iron by Warner's Upholstery Company, $15, second prize; Celanese Corporation, $10 third prize; and Kelly Springfield Tire Company, $5, fourth prize.

Pianist To Appear

Another added attraction, scheduled for tonight, will be the appearance of three winners in the recent Junior Association of Commerce sponsored "County Music Contest." Saundra Hill of Westernport, first place winner; Johnny Baker of Mobile, Ala., second, and Delores Cosner and Emma Jane Jones, "The Mountaintop Sweethearts" of Gormania, are scheduled to appear as a special local attraction with the Midwestern Hayriders.

The Fair has also arranged to present Joe Niland, Cumberland pianist who established a new world record for continuous piano playing last week. He played 73 hours and six minutes.

Tonight will be the last fireworks display of the week.

Tractor Champ Congratulated

Edward Miller of Midland is congratulated by Guy W. Gienger, extension agricultural engineer of the University of Maryland, after winning the 4-H tractor driving contest yesterday at the 39th annual Cumberland Fair. Miller won by a close margin over other leading contenders in a large field of contestants. Competition including safety, tractor functioning and maintenance, belting and driving the tractor.

72 Per Cent Of Buses Pass First Inspection

Corrections Ordered On All Faulted

Some 72 per cent of the 99 buses and 11 passenger cars used to transport boys and girls to school in Allegany County were not faulted in any respect in the pre-school inspection this week, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of transportation in the Allegany County public schools.

Inspected were 99 buses and 11 passenger cars. Sixty-nine buses and 10 passenger cars were found completely safe, Ramey said.

Of the 30 buses fouled on one or more points eight had steering mechanism faults, seven had burned out bulbs or fuses on lighting accessories, four had leaking exhaust system faults, three fire extinguishers did not function properly, two head lights were not burning, one newly-purchased bus had unfilled flares, one had a defective windshield wiper, one had a broken window glass, one had a bad front tire.

Ramey said the one automobile faulted had worn pivot pins in the steering mechanism.

William Byrnes, an inspector for the State Department of Motor Vehicles, assisted in the inspection which Ramey said was one of the most satisfactory conducted in the county.

Each owner whose bus was faulted on any point has been notified to have corrections made immediately so that each piece of equipment will be in approved running condition when schools open September 6.

A spot recheck of each faulted bus will be made to determine that the corrections have been made.

Equity Suits Filed

Two equity suits were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Betty Jane Twigg vs. James H. Twigg, and Walter M. Bucy vs. Callie Bucy.

Want Rustic Camp Life? Try Big Run Rec Area

For those who like rustic camp life and good fishing, Big Run Recreation Area, located in the Savage River Forest, offers such facilities.

William R. Johnson, district forester, said some 13 cottages located on the recreation site which begins at the head of Savage River Lake, are being renovated to come up to the standards of those located at Herrington Manor and New Germany.

A large picnic pavilion, and tables and fireplaces for those who like outdoor life are provided. Wilson R. Warnick, forest supervisor, is in charge of the area.

There is plenty of bass and trout fishing at the site, although no swimming is allowed. The area may be reached by traveling the Meadow Mountain Road off Route 40 from New Germany toward Thayerville and turn off at the Big Run Road.

Motorists may also reach the area by traveling the county road out of Bloomington which winds along Savage River and then proceed around the dam.

33 Building Permits Issued

The largest project of the 33 is a $15,000 dwelling in LaVale.

Construction authorized by the 33 August permits will be undertaken in 15 of the county's 35 election districts.

Election District 29 (LaVale), as usual, is the leader with eight of the 33 permits in that suburban area. Three other districts are tied for second place with three permits each. They are District 5, North End suburban area; District 7 in the Cresaptown-Rawlings area and District 13 at Mt. Savage.

Five other election districts have two August building permits each. They are District 30, Zihlman; District 16, North Branch; District 20, Ellerslie-Corriganville; District 23, East Side suburban area, and District 2, Oldtown.

Others with a single August project are District 9, Barton; 26, Frostburg suburban area; 1, Little Orleans; 8, Westernport, and 24, Eckhart

Scouts Purchase 100-Acre Tract

Baltimore Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, has purchased a 100-acre tract along Sideling Hill Creek for the expansion of Camp Lil-Aron for Explorer Scouts of that council.

The deed for the transaction was filed yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court. The tract was purchased from Reuben U. Darby and Laura E. R. Darby, his wife.

This tract is bordered by the Western Maryland Railway, Sideling Hill Creek, property owned by Dr. H. E. Tabler, and the Potomac Valley Orchard Company.

Early in July Dr. Norman B. Cole, president of the Baltimore Area Council, announced that Aaron Straus, a 92-year-old blind and retired Baltimore business man, had made a $100,000 gift for improvement of the camp which he established with $15,000 in 1942.

Camp Lil-Aron includes some 750 acres in both Washington and Allegany counties. Explorer Scouts, boys 14 and older, from the Baltimore area, have been attending the camp since 1942.

Dr. Cole announced last month that the $100,000 gift will be used for an improved water supply, establishment of a canoe base, delevelopment of roads and trails, and the erection of some shelters and other scout facilities.

Car Passenger Hurt In Crash

The condition of Kenneth K. Roby, 31, of 501 Oldtown Road, was listed as "good" last night. He suffered bruises when the car in which he was an occupant struck a fire plug at the east end of town.

The right side of the car was damaged heavily as the car rammed into the plug. Roby, who was X-rayed at the hospital, was apparently traveling in the direction of Midland at the time of the accident.

Another occupant of the auto was reported to have been injured, although not hospitalized. Investigating officer is Tfc. Harry S. Bosley.

Anti-Mahoney Demos Hoping To Stop Him

Leaders Look For A Rival Candidate

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE, Aug. 23 (AP) — Diehard opponents of George P. Mahoney made desperate efforts today to block his nomination next Monday night as the Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro and Jack Pollack, Baltimore leaders spearheading the "stop-Mahoney" endeavor, admittedly were hard put.

Not only did the startling withdrawal of Michael J. Birmingham last night as a candidate for the nomination leave them without a contender, but it was felt that it probably pushed several counties on the fence behind Mahoney.

This was believed to be particularly true among the Eastern Shore's nine counties.

Shore Favors Mahoney

It was confirmed by Millard Tawes, recognized leading spokesman for the Shore. He said he had found that sentiment on the Shore had "crystallized" for Mahoney even before Birmingham pulled stakes.

Tawes said a majority of the county leaders felt Mahoney was entitled to be the alternative candidate because he was the runner-up in the primary.

It was one of the first things D'Alesandro and his political allies went to work on—a recheck of how the sentiment was after the Birmingham bombshell.

Need 77 Votes

They will have to corral 77 votes out of 152 which will be cast next Monday night by county and city committeemen, summoned to name a substitute for Millard E. Tydings who resigned because of illness after winning the nomination from Mahoney in the May primary.

Outside of 35 in Baltimore City held by Mayor D'Alesandro, only a couple of counties were viewed as firm for "anybody except Mahoney."

Even if they think they have a chance for a majority of the votes, the anti-Mahoney faction still faced a problem of agreeing on a suitable and available candidate.

They were tossing names around like confetti.

Out Of Candidates?

One Montgomery County group tried to "draft" Hamilton P. Fox, state's attorney in Wicomico County and candidate for Congress. But Fox declined to be considered.

Mayor D'Alesandro found himself in the peculiar position of having "talked" two would-be candidates, William G. Walsh of Cumberland and Philip Perlman of Baltimore, out of seeking support in favor of Birmingham. That was last Monday.

Today, he was practically going through telephone books in search of another.

One of the sidelights of Birmingham's sudden withdrawal was a dinner he had planned for next Monday night preceding the meeting of the state central committee. He had sent telegraph invitations to about 200 as sort of a final caucus in behalf of his candidacy.

Mahoney Plans Dinner

Mahoney, in a television statement, said he "would like to have the vote of every single State Central Committee member, not out of any desire for personal gratification, but to give the campaign to win the Senate seat the unanimous backing of a united democracy."

Some Possibilities

Among the names popping as possible Mahoney contestants were State Sens. John Grason Turnbull of Baltimore County and Edward Northrop of Montgomery and James Bruce, a former ambassador. Turnbull acknowledged the talk but wouldn't say he wanted to compete or didn't want to at this time.

Late today, another name was thrown into contention by the

Down, Please:

Health Department Nurse Trapped As Elevator Jams

A sudden break in the mechanism of the elevator in the Public Safety building yesterday trapped a County Health Department nurse between floors for more than half an hour.

Mrs. Helen Vogel was using the elevator to travel down from the second floor headquarters of the Health Department when a sudden loud crash startled everyone in the building. The elevator came to an immediate stop between the first and second floor and trapped Mrs. Vogel inside the lift.

Unable to get Mrs. Vogel out for fear of causing a sudden drop by the machine, other members of the Health Department force called a repairman to the scene shortly after noon.

Repairs were still being made last evening as the lift remained between floors.

Lighting Plans Outlined

R. A. Groves, chief of the structures section of Green Associates, Inc., consultant engineering firm of Baltimore, points out the proposed modern lighting system for the Cumberland Expressway to Commissioner William J. Edwards in the Mayor's office in City Hall as other representatives of the company look on. The lighting plan would be incorporated in the general design of the expressway, which is being drawn by the Baltimore firm for the State Roads Commission, if Cumberland accepts the proposal. Studying the general blueprint of the overhead throughway are E. W. Wolf, vice president of Green Associates, Commissioner Edwards, Groves, and Ernest F. Siegel, chief of the mechanical electrical division of the company, who plans the lighting designs.

Many Added Attractions At Fair Today

Midwestern Hayride Gets Top Billing

Climaxed by a "double-barrelled" fireworks display last night and several added attractions, yesterday at the Cumberland Fair was a bright, cheerful and happy one for the youngsters. The second of two scheduled matinees brought out a record number of kiddies and parents to swell the crowds which have been growing bigger each afternoon and night.

As promised by Harry J. Barton, general manager, the fireworks which were rained out Monday night were added to last night's display, and in addition, the juvenile fair fans also witnessed two performances of the grandstand revue, a tractor driving contest and a parade of prize-winning cattle.

But even with all these extras in the way of entertainment, the Fair management promises ever more interesting activity this afternoon and tonight.

Two Performances

The highly popular Midwestern Hayride from Cincinnati will present two performances. At 4 p. m. and again 8 p. m. area fans and spectators will have a dual opportunity to see the TV entertainment that has been continuously on television as a sponsored show, since 1948.

The show includes the starts seen regularly on television, including Dixie Lee, Bobby Bobo, as master of ceremonies and vocalist; Rockin' Rudy Hanson, The Range Partners, a six-piece western string band; Sonny Spencer, who plays 16 different instruments, and Lefty Carson, billed most frequently as The Hayseeders; and the Midwestern Square dancers in person.

The revue is over an hour and a half of American music and square dancing.

This Midwestern Hayride revue is being presented at the Fair here for the first time and replaces the grandstand revue which was scheduled for Monday through Thursday, plus matinee performances Tuesday and yesterday.

Queen To Be Named

Also as added attractions tonight, the announcement will be made of the selection of Miss Fairgo. The "Fair Queen," to be chosen from five area farm queen candidates, will be presented and crowned after the 8 p. m. hayride performance and just before tonight's mammoth fireworks spectacle.

Also, in front of the grandstand tonight, awards will be presented to winners of the best commercial and booth displays as seen under the grandstand. Mayor Roy W. Eves is to present the awards for the Fair Association.

The winners, selected by a panel of local judges include The C&P Telephone Company, $20 first prize; Locke Iron by Warner's Upholstery Company, $15, second prize; Celanese Corporation, $10 third prize; and Kelly Springfield Tire Company, $5, fourth prize.

Pianist To Appear

Another added attraction, scheduled for tonight, will be the appearance of three winners in the recent Junior Association of Commerce sponsored "County Music Contest." Saundra Hill of Westernport, first place winner; Johnny Baker of Mobile, Ala., second, and Delores Cosner and Emma Jane Jones, "The Mountaintop Sweethearts" of Gormania, are scheduled to appear as a special local attraction with the Midwestern Hayriders.

The Fair has also arranged to present Joe Niland, Cumberland pianist who established a new world record for continuous piano playing last week. He played 73 hours and six minutes.

Tonight will be the last fireworks display of the week.

Tractor Champ Congratulated

Edward Miller of Midland is congratulated by Guy W. Gienger, extension agricultural engineer of the University of Maryland, after winning the 4-H tractor driving contest yesterday at the 39th annual Cumberland Fair. Miller won by a close margin over other leading contenders in a large field of contestants. Competition including safety, tractor functioning and maintenance, belting and driving the tractor.

72 Per Cent Of Buses Pass First Inspection

Corrections Ordered On All Faulted

Some 72 per cent of the 99 buses and 11 passenger cars used to transport boys and girls to school in Allegany County were not found in any respect in the pre-school inspection this week, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of transportation in the Allegany County public schools.

Inspected were 99 buses and 11 passenger cars. Sixty-nine buses and 10 passenger cars were found completely safe, Ramey said.

Of the 30 buses fouled on one or more points eight had steering mechanism faults, seven had burned out bulbs or fuses on lighting accessories, four had leaking exhaust system faults, three fire extinguishers did not function properly, two head lights were not burning, one newly-purchased bus had unfilled flares, one had a defective windshield wiper, one had a broken window glass, one had a bad front tire.

Ramey said the one automobile faulted had worn pivot pins in the steering mechanism.

William Byrnes, an inspector for the State Department of Motor Vehicles, assisted in the inspection which Ramey said was one of the most satisfactory conducted in the county.

Each owner whose bus was faulted on any point has been notified to have corrections made immediately so that each piece of equipment will be in approved running condition when schools open September 6.

A spot recheck of each faulted bus will be made to determine that the corrections have been made.

Equity Suits Filed

Two equity suits were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Betty Jane Twigg vs. James H. Twigg, and Walter M. Bucy vs. Callie Bucy.

There is plenty of bass and trout fishing at the site, although no swimming is allowed. The area may be reached by traveling the Meadow Mountain Road off Route 40 from New Germany toward Thayerville and turn off at the Big Run Road.

Motorists may also reach the area by traveling the county road out of Bloomington which winds along Savage River and then proceed around the dam.

Scouts Purchase 100-Acre Tract

Baltimore Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, has purchased a 100-acre tract along Sideling Hill Creek for the expansion of Camp Lil-Aron for Explorer Scouts of that council.

The deed for the transaction was filed yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court. The tract was purchased from Reuben U. Darby and Laura E. E. Darby, his wife.

This tract is bordered by the Western Maryland Railway, Sideling Hill Creek, property owned by Dr. H. E. Tabler, and the Potomac Valley Orchard Company.

Early in July Dr. Norman B. Cole, president of the Baltimore Area Council, announced that Aaron Straus, a 92-year-old blind and retired Baltimore business man, had made a $100,000 gift for improvement of the camp which he established with $15,000 in 1942.

Camp Lil-Aron includes some 750 acres in both Washington and Allegany counties. Explorer Scouts, boys 14 and older, from the Baltimore area, have been attending the camp since 1942.

Dr. Cole announced last month that the $100,000 gift will be used for an improved water supply, establishment of a canoe base, delevolpment of roads and trails, and the erection of some shelters and other scout facilities.

Car Passenger Hurt In Crash

A local resident was admitted to Miners Hospital in Frostburg early yesterday morning with injuries sustained in a one-ear crash in Lonaconing.

The condition of Kenneth K. Roby, 31, of 501 Oldtown Road, was listed as "good" last night. He suffered bruises when the car in which he was an occupant struck a fire plug at the east end of town.

The right side of the car was damaged heavily as the car rammed into the plug. Roby, who was X-rayed at the hospital, was apparently traveling in the direction of Midland at the time of the accident.

Another occupant of the auto was reported to have been injured, although not hospitalized. Investigating officer is Tfc. Harry S. Bosley.

Anti-Mahoney Demos Hoping To Stop Him

Leaders Look For A Rival Candidate

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE, Aug. 23 (AP) — Diehard opponents of George P. Mahoney made desperate efforts today to block his nomination next Monday night as the Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro and Jack Pollack, Baltimore leaders spearheading the "stop-Mahoney" endeavor, admittedly were hard put.

Not only did the startling withdrawal of Michael J. Birmingham last night as a candidate for the nomination leave them without a contender, but it was felt that it probably pushed several counties on the fence behind Mahoney.

This was believed to be particularly true among the Eastern Shore's nine counties.

Shore Favors Mahoney

It was confirmed by Millard Tawes, recognized leading spokesman for the Shore. He said he had found that sentiment on the Shore had "crystallized" for Mahoney even before Birmingham pulled stakes.

Tawes said a majority of the county leaders felt Mahoney was entitled to be the alternative candidate because he was the runner-up in the primary.

That word from Tawes convinced most politicians that outside of Kent County the Shore was solid Mahoney territory.

It was one of the first things D'Alesandro and his political allies went to work on—a recheck of how the sentiment was after the Birmingham bombshell.

Need 77 Votes

They will have to corral 77 votes out of 152 which will be cast next Monday night by county and city committeemen, summoned to name a substitute for Millard E. Tydings who resigned because of illness after winning the nomination from Mahoney in the May primary.

Outside of 35 in Baltimore City held by Mayor D'Alesandro, only a couple of counties were viewed as firm for "anybody except Mahoney."

Even if they think they have a chance for a majority of the votes, the anti-Mahoney faction still faced a problem of agreeing on a suitable and available candidate.

They were tossing names around like confetti.

Out Of Candidates?

One Montgomery County group tried to "draft" Hamilton P. Fox, state's attorney in Wicomico County and candidate for Congress. But Fox declined to be considered.

Mayor D'Alesandro found himself in the peculiar position of having "talked" two would-be candidates, William G. Walsh of Cumberland and Philip Perlman of Baltimore, out of seeking support in favor of Birmingham. That was last Monday.

Today, he was practically going through telephone books in search of another.

One of the sidelights of Birmingham's sudden withdrawal was a dinner he had planned for next Monday night preceding the meeting of the state central committee. He had sent telegraph invitations to about 200 as sort of a final caucus in behalf of his candidacy.

Mahoney Plans Dinner

Some of the invited guests wondered today if the free feed will be held.

Mahoney will host a similar dinner at the same time.

Mahoney, in a television statement, said he "would like to have the vote of every single State Central Committee member, not out of any desire for personal gratification, but to give the campaign to win the Senate seat the unanimous backing of a united democracy."

Some Possibilities

Among the names popping as possible Mahoney contestants were State Sens. John Grason Turnbull of Baltimore County and Edward Northrop of Montgomery and James Bruce, a former ambassador. Turnbull acknowledged the talk but wouldn't say he wanted to compete or didn't want to at this time.

Late today, another name was thrown into contention by the

Health Department Nurse Trapped As Elevator Jams

A sudden break in the mechanism of the elevator in the Public Safety building yesterday trapped a County Health Department nurse between floors for more than half an hour.

Mrs. Helen Vogel was using the elevator to travel down from the second floor headquarters of the Health Department when a sudden loud crash startled everyone in the building. The elevator came to an immediate stop between the first and second floor and trapped Mrs. Vogel inside the lift.

Unable to get Mrs. Vogel out for fear of causing a sudden drop by the machine, other members of the Health Department force called a repairman to the scene shortly after noon.

The repairman managed to get the lift high enough to enable Mrs. Vogel to get out the second floor opening without injury.

Repairs were still being made last evening as the lift remained between floors.

Lighting Plans Outlined

R. A. Groves, chief of the structures section of Green Associates, Inc., consultant engineering firm of Baltimore, points out the proposed modern lighting system for the Cumberland Expressway to Commissioner William J. Edwards in the Mayor's office in City Hall as other representatives of the company look on. The lighting plan would be incorporated in the general design of the expressway, which is being drawn by the Baltimore firm for the State Roads Commission, if Cumberland accepts the proposal. Studying the general blueprint of the overhead throughway are E. W. Wolf, vice president of Green Associates, Commissioner Edwards, Groves, and Ernest F. Siegel, chief of the mechanical electrical division of the company, who plans the lighting designs.
